LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

From the Daily Chronicle, Friday. R. Sigman of Dufur was in town today.

C. W. Magill and wife of Wapinitia are in the city.

Sheep seem to be a more ready sale just now than wool.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Young and daughter of Baker Oven are in the city. C. B. Durbin, a prominent stockman from the Antelope country is at the Ilmatilla house.

Balletins will be received at the Umatilla house, probably until 12 o'clock tonight from Minneapolis.

C. P. Heald of Hood River, member of the state board of Horticulture came up on the passenger today.

Work has commenced on the building for the Frank Bro's Implement store, next to Wingate hall on Second street. Unless there are such things as waterproof fire-crackers the small boys may anticipate a gloomy and distresing fourth of July in Portland this year.

Among the teams leaving the city for the south last evening, was one wagon loaded with machinery for a planing mill at Dayville, Grant county.

A fine little cayuse, well broken to saddle, was sold by an Indian in the East End yesterday for $3. The buyer, Mr. Kelly, had it shod, and taken to his place for his boy to play with.

Eleven ballots were wholly or in part thrown out in the Eight Mile precinct. Most of them had the state ticket marked with more or less accuracy but the county ticket was left without a scratch.

The Regulator crew were busy discharging cargo from points along the middle Columbia, until quite a late hour last night. Hay filled the wharf road way this morning with the exception of a narrow aisle for footmen.

During two hours last evening, from three to five o'clock, twelve teams descended the grade into Second street, at the East End, and six left the city by good, clean administration. He has the same road. Eight of the arrivals worn grandfather's hat with dignity were wool laden. The yards are nearly all filled that the country, notwithstanding daily.
