

ST. MARY'S ACADEMY.

The Leading Institution of Learning in Eastern Oregon.

The academy is located on the block lying to the west of Pentland street and north of Third. The building and grounds comprise a whole block, situated in the most desirable and quietest part of the city. The surroundings of the school are fine, these being large, ample play grounds, sufficient to conveniently accommodate any number of pupils. The remaining portion of the grounds surrounding the college have been planted in fruits, all of which are now bearing. The elegant building was completed in 1884 and is a model in design and finish. The institution offers all the advantages of a higher education to women. It is conducted by the sisters of the holy names of Jesus and Mary, a society of women devoted exclusively to the work of christian education. Every branch of study is pursued in the English language, but French and German are spoken by the teachers, and the pupils enjoy every facility for perfecting themselves in these languages. Lessons in vocal and instrumental music are given, including guitar, mandolin and zither, also instructions in stenography, telegraphy and type writing, drawing and painting, plain and useful needlework, embroidery, and all kinds of fancy work. To advance laudable emulation in the various branches of science, monthly competitions are held, when the young ladies most distinguished in their respective classes receive the honorary decoration of a medal. At the same time reports are forwarded to their parents and guardians, giving the class standing and proficiency, etc., of their daughters and maids. A department giving instructions to boys under twelve years of age has received large patronage. The present school year commenced Monday, September 5th with a gratifying attendance. Pupils who have completed the prescribed course of study receive a diploma or certificate, when such distinction is deserved. The professed religion is Catholic, but that will in no manner interfere with the religious principles of those who may profess a different creed. In order to maintain uniformity, however, it is required that all pupils should attend Divine worship. The young ladies are permitted to receive visits from their parents or guardians and from friends introduced by them, on Thursday and Sunday afternoons. The course of instruction embraces five grades; the primary, junior, preparatory, senior and graduating. The various studies included are moral philosophy, logic, English literature, geometry and trigonometry, algebra, book keeping, written arithmetic, chemistry, natural philosophy, physiology, geology, zoology, astronomy, use of the globe, botany, rhetoric, elocution, composition, grammar, epistolary art, ancient history, modern history, United States history, mythology, juvenile science, geography, reading, spelling, penmanship, rules of deportment, linear, industrial and perspective drawing, vocal and instrumental music, and needle work. The health and sanitary condition of the academy is excellent, and will compare favorably with any similar institution in the state. Minute attention is paid to the health of the pupils, and at all times they receive the most affectionate and assiduous care. Thus it will be seen that parents and guardians, who feel an interest in their daughters and maids, should not hesitate to send them to the academy, where they will receive a first class education that will prove of incalculable benefit in after years. Full information regarding board and tuition may be had by addressing the Sister Superior in charge of the school.

Campbell Bros.

The ice cream, soda and confectionery and oyster parlors operated by Campbell Bros. have achieved a merited reputation for the ability of the proprietors as caterers. They occupy spacious and well ordered apartments on Second street, and although succeeding the well known firm of W. Cram & Co., the place has only been in operation six months, they have fully maintained the high reputation, and are gradually increasing as our citizens become acquainted with the excellent service and the fine line of home made candies that are dispensed by the firm. The young gentlemen comprising this firm are well known in this community, having established for themselves while in charge of the Wasco county Sun a solid reputation as men of integrity, industry and all those qualities which characterize citizens of merit in a community. Four years of upright dealing has earned for these brothers a reputation which will not fail to enlarge their already lucrative business. An expert man has been employed by this firm and will arrive shortly, who will be perfectly cognizant with all modes of making pure and delicious French confectionery. The proof of the pudding is in the eating, so do not fail to call at Campbell Bros. for a cool drink of soda and take home with you a box of their delicious candy.

Dr. J. F. Suedaker.

There is no profession that is more necessary and useful for the good appearance of human mortals than that of the dentist, and as much care and attention should be given to the teeth as to any other part of the body. If not breath's sake alone, they should be attended to for the fact that there is no other thing that so detracts from the beauty of either man or woman as a bad set of teeth.

Dr. Suedaker comes to this city as a graduate of the New York College of Dentistry and is prepared to give patrons superior work in filling and preserving teeth and the replacement of lost ones. He will be pleased to see any one who has anything in his line to do, and he can please you we assure you. Chapman block, rooms 26 and 37.

Dr. Eshelman.

The homeopathic school of medicine is among the oldest in the world and has made rapid strides in the science of medicine, in the last quarter of a century, and numbers among its members some of the most eminent surgeons, the most profound investigators and the most skillful physicians. Dr. Eshelman, who is a native of Missouri, is a graduate of the Hanbemann hospital college, Chicago, and came here from California two years ago. He has a pleasantly located office at rooms three and four Chapman block. His success in general practice has led for him a reputation which is adding every day to his list of patients.

Blakeley & Houghton.

This live and favorably known house has been conducting business under the present title for the past three years being successors to the firm of Blakeley & Clark and is acknowledged as a very popular and thoroughly established enterprise of the town. The premises occupied include a centrally located store, fitted up in the neat and attractive style so characteristic of the modern drug store, and the diversified stock carried is complete throughout. The firm is always supplied with a full and comprehensive line of pure drugs, chemicals, perfumes, toilet articles, and a complete stock of all the proprietary remedies of acknowledged merit and standard reputation, instruments, druggists sundries, and physicians supplies. This house is endorsed by the leading physicians on account of the reliability and purity of its drugs, and scientific service in the prescription department, where the utmost caution is taken in compounding medicines of all kinds. Putting up prescriptions is by far the most important branch of the drug business, and accordingly no expense or painstaking effort has been spared to perfect the entire stock in detail and quality. Absolute perfection is assured, as nothing but pure, fresh drugs of the finest quality is dispensed, and patrons may bring their prescriptions feeling certain that they will be filled accurately with pure goods. A fine line of artists' materials is kept by the firm, including Winsor and Newton's water colors, mineral and oil paint, a complete stock of brushes, crayon material, and articles for decoration in china, paper mache, ground glass, celluloid etc., which embraces many novelties. A large and very elegant soda fountain adorns the right side of the store near the front entrance where this cooling beverage is served in many tempting ways. A very attractive space is reserved at the left where persons waiting for prescriptions can find the latest papers to interest them. Mr. Geo. C. Blakeley has recently been elected county judge, being the youngest incumbent who has held the office, elected by a majority of 253 votes against the republican nominee which speaks strongly. He is also ex-president of the states pharmaceutical association, and a member of the American Pharmaceutical Association. His partner Mr. Fred Houghton has lived here for eleven years having come from Michigan. He has a splendid reputation, energetic, kind hearted and an all around good fellow. Mr. H's father was the discoverer and manufacturer of cosmoline a petroleum product from which all the other preparations are made.

C. F. Stephens.

The dealer in general merchandise must be a man of marked ability to attain anything like success, as it is probably the most difficult branch of mercantile enterprise to carry on. Mr. Stevens has had 10 years experience in the business before establishing his present store some six months ago, and is thoroughly capable of presiding over such an establishment. The stock embraces everything in the line of staple and fancy dry goods, among them the latest and prettiest dress materials and patterns, including a fine line of boots and shoes, containing all sizes, styles, widths, from a fine ladies' shoe to the stout farm boot of the laborer together with a fine line of ready made clothing, also agents for the Albany woolen mills. Mr. Stevens invites an inspection of his stock, is there to sell goods and wait upon customers, and desires his share of the trade and favorable consideration of the public. We congratulate Mr. Stevens upon the success that has already attended him, and predict that success that always follows meritorious and well directed efforts. His store has the advantage of a central location being one door east of The Dalles National Bank. Mr. Stevens was for many years head salesman in the store of N. Harris.

"Dan" Baker.

St. Paul said "Take a little wine for the stomach's sake," but he failed to direct that it should be pure and unadulterated. In this respect his instructions were a little faulty, but what they lacked this genial dealer is endeavoring to supply by placing before his patrons only those wines and liquors which connoisseurs have pronounced to be the best and purest quality. Mr. Baker has a large circle of friends and acquaintances and cannot afford to keep other than the best goods and an orderly, quiet business resort. A full and complete line of the best brands of imported and domestic wines, liquors and cigars are kept in stock. His furniture and bar fixtures are first class and patronized by the best people of the vicinity. Mr. Baker came to The Dalles from the Province of Canada in 1879 and has conducted his business for seven years in this city. He is popular as a citizen and respected by all with whom he meets in business or social relations.

W. H. Young.

There is no artisan whose work is of more importance or who is a more necessary factor of any community than the blacksmith. The above gentleman needs no introduction to the people of The Dalles. He has been doing general blacksmithing and conducting a repair shop most of the time for the past 22 years, and has an established reputation for reliable and honest work. He tolerated the avocation of farming and stock raising for a few years but he soon drifted back to his natural calling—that of the blacksmith, of which he is an expert and as a horsehooper, he has an equal in Wasco county. His equipments are first class and work in his line is done in workmanlike manner. Give him a call, he is worthy of substantial encouragement. His shop is located on 3d street.

John Baser.

Ten years ago Mr. John Baser established his shop in The Dalles, that of wagon maker, repairer and general job work. By first class work and honorable dealing with mankind he has built up a lucrative trade that speaks well for his competency and reliability as a workman. Mr. Baser is a native of Switzerland, coming to The Dalles ten years ago and has been actively engaged at the work of his trade ever since his arrival among us. His equipments for wagon, carriage and buggy work and repairing of all kinds are a No. 1 in every particular, and the prices charged are consistent with the materials used and the quality of work turned out. He is trustworthy in all his representations, and you can rely upon two things, if he does your work, low prices and first class work.

FRINZ & NITSCHEK.

Eastern Oregon's Leading Furniture Dealers and Undertakers.

It is with some misgivings that we attempt a review of the large wholesale and retail furniture and carpet house of Messrs. Frinz & Nitschek for publication to the country in our large edition. The long standing of the firm and the high character of the firm's personnel in business and financial circles, makes this enterprise second to none in Eastern Oregon as a contributor to our reputation abroad as a trade center. Both gentlemen are natives of Germany. Mr. Frinz landed in America in '69, while Mr. Nitschek came one year later, and they established the business in 1880 that has since grown to such mammoth proportions.

The new magnificent brick structure recently erected by the firm is the pride of the business street and was built expressly for the furniture and undertaking business, is without exaggeration the best arranged establishment of the Inland Empire, and measures 58x100 feet in dimensions. The entire establishment is admirably systematized, each line having departments, divided by spacious aisles. The first floor is devoted to an elaborate display of the various styles and designs of the furniture. Here are to be seen numerous styles of lounges, rockers, easy chairs that are models of comfort and luxury; also fancy stands, beautiful parlor center tables, in antique oak, American mahogany, walnut and sixteenth finish, in the very latest designs, many of them being artistic gems; a full line of elegant chamber and parlor sets, and the best quality of bric-a-brac, that not only add so much to the beauty of home, but are much utility and convenience.

The carpet department is a particular feature and usually has its complement of admirers. The firm has thousands of dollars invested in this line. Among the stock can be found scores of designs and combinations that are unique and beautiful, while the tints are among the most chaste and delicate that has ever yet been successfully woven into the flowery paths of a drawing room or parlor, offering to the housewife, whose rooms need refurbishing, temptations that are difficult to resist.

The undertaking is given a separate room, where strangers who die at hotels can be conveyed and prepared for burial or embalmed for shipping. They carry an immense line of caskets and burial goods, and are expert embalmers. All orders in this line are promptly executed and everything required for the rites of burial furnished, funeral ceremonies conducted with the most considered care.

The mammoth basement is utilized for receiving, packing and shipping room; also upholstering is a prominent feature, of the establishment, and only skilled men of experience are entrusted with this branch.

This house deserves a more extended notice than our space will permit, but sufficient to say, they have the goods and will sell them at the lowest figure consistent with business safety. They feel justified in soliciting your patronage, and pledge themselves to deserve it by careful attention to your interests and orders. Too much can not be said of this enterprising and prosperous firm, who command the united confidence of our people, won by disinterested public interest, honorable business course and all of those attributes that go to make up the worthy citizen and successful business man.

Maier & Benton.

The above named gentlemen, have recently purchased the stock of hardware and tinware owned by M. A. Bettington, deserve prominent mention in our review. They are both young and ambitious men, and are well and favorably known to the citizens of The Dalles as men of business sagacity and honorable standing. They have engaged in the hardware and grocery lines, being proprietors of two well paying stores. The hardware house located at 133 Second street comprises of shelf hardware, stoves, furnaces, tinware, house furnishing goods and small ware, and a multifarious assortment of devices and mechanical appliances. The tinning department is a distinctive feature of this establishment, and is managed by Mr. Benton, a practical tinner who was employed for years in the Union Pacific shops in this city. They make a specialty of roofing and all kinds of sanitary plumbing which they guarantee to be executed in the most workmanlike manner. A large stock of guns and ammunition is kept fully supplied and the repairing of guns is a specialty.

The store used by this firm for groceries is located at the corner of Union and Third streets and is furnished with a very fine stock of everything pertaining to the trade. Flour, provisions, delicious teas and coffees, spices, canned goods, cigars and tobacco, eggs etc., are always to be found fresh and pure, and selling at prices that cannot be cheaper. All goods are delivered to any part of town promptly. Mr. Maier is one of the city fathers and a reliable business man, having come here from his home in Iowa, a stranger to these parts. He and his partner have built names for themselves which are an honor to the town. Mr. Benton has made this his home for the past nine years, for he was born in Pennsylvania. The dealings and reputation of this firm are beyond reproach.

"The Germans."

This is one of the best saloons in the city and has a patronage consistent with its merits. It is owned by the well known gentlemen, Charles Stubling and Owen Williams, and is stocked with a fine line of wines, liquors, beer, porter, and cigars, and will be pleased to have you call in and sample the goods. They will move their stock and bar fixtures to the building above them about the first of Oct. which is being prepared for their reception, and when completed it will be by far the handsomest saloon in The Dalles. Their bar fixtures are of rich design and best workmanship, and there is an excellent billiard, pool and club room in connection. Both the proprietors are popular and well liked by a large circle of friends. In passing by, it would be well to call in and make their acquaintance. Both gentlemen taken an active interest in all matters, business or otherwise, tending to promote the welfare of the city.

The Diamond Roller Mills.

Nothing more nearly affects the health and happiness of mankind than the bread they eat, and as good bread is impossible without good flour, it is safe to say that the miller is more closely identified with the source of human enjoyment than any other of all the thousands who contribute thereto. The Dalles can boast of the most complete flouring mill in Oregon, which was built by Mr. Curtis, in 1889, at the cost of several thousand dollars, and is still owned and operated by him. The building is commodious; four story, built of corrugated iron and is especially strong. The machinery is the best known to the milling art, as Mr. Curtis is ever on the alert to take advantage of every discovery that will in the least keep his product up to the very highest standard or facilitate in its manufacture. The engine room and receiving building is the old unfinished government mill, a most substantial structure of stone and brick, which cost Uncle Sam $100,000. The motive power of the mill is derived from a twenty-five horse power engine, and has a capacity of 125 barrels per day. The demand for the excellent products of this mill is so great that the management is compelled to operate steadily the year round. While Mr. Curtis finds a home market for all he can manufacture, this alone speaks for the quality of the flour of this mill.

W. H. Great, the head miller, was connected with one of the large mills of Minneapolis, where he learned his trade. It is needless to say that he is a first class miller and understands every detail of the business.

Mr. Curtis is one of our most substantial citizens and is fully identified with the material prosperity of the city. Although his residence is on the Washington side, yet we claim him as our citizen.

The book keeping is looked after by the genial James Snipes, who has a host of friends in the city and country. The Diamond Roller Mill always pays the highest market price for wheat.

The European House.

The above house is the only first floor hotel in the city and which was remodelled last year. It is a two story structure, built of corrugated iron, and is by odds the handsomest and neatest hotel in The Dalles. The rooms are spacious, elegantly furnished with the latest pattern of furniture, and the house is equipped throughout in modern style. The proprietress, Mrs. H. Fraser, recognizing the fact that The Dalles, along with many other, needed a first class hotel and is attempting to supply this long felt want in hotel accommodations. How well she has succeeded, the house, bed-chambers, and the restaurant connected, will speak for themselves. Mrs. Fraser personally superintends the cooking department, which guarantees that the table contains the delicacies of the season, and which is prepared by an English chef. Mrs. Fraser's aim is to give her guests all of the home comforts and accommodations of a first class hotel. Mrs. Fraser is a genial and estimable lady, who regards it a pleasure to provide for the comforts of her patrons and she never fails to hold custom once obtained. She is a good business woman, possesses her full complement of warm personal friends. Transient patronage solicited and splendid sample rooms for commercial men. No one will make a mistake by stopping at the European House.

Stoneman & Fiege.

This is the only exclusive boot and shoe establishment in The Dalles, and the stock is complete and comprises a carefully selected assortment of fine and medium grades of boots, shoes and gaiters for men's and youths' wear, and everything that is new, fashionable and stylish in full kid, morocco and leather, in the way of foot wear. Both gentlemen are practical shoe-makers, which enables them to know a good and inferior article. Special attention is given to making of fine custom work, using only the best grades of leather. The prices are in every respect as low as the lowest. Both these young men are natives of Germany, and established their present business last March. They are enjoying a good, solid trade, and are regarded perfectly honorable in all their business relations. This young firm merits the most liberal patronage and the confidence of the public. Give them a call, they will treat you white, we know whereof we speak.

H. S. Cheeseman.

The superior value of hand work over that produced by machinery is acknowledged by every one, and it is not more manifest in the manufacture of any other article than that of footwear. It is unreasonable to suppose that shoes made in one set shape and pattern can be as comfortable as those from individual measurements. Those in The Dalles who desire their boots and shoes made to order can not do better than to patronize Mr. Cheeseman who has been established but three months in our town. He has in his employ the well known workman C. W. Adams, and can suit out if anyone can, and his prices are most reasonable. If you want strictly hand made work in first class order go to his shop. Mr. Cheeseman is a native of Missouri having been in Oregon but three years. He was connected with the Pacific express in this city and won many friends by his courteous manners and straightforward dealings. His shop is on Second street one door west of John Both's grocery.

W. A. Kirby.

One of the best saloons in the city and has a patronage consistent with its merits. It is owned by the well known gentlemen, Charles Stubling and Owen Williams, and is stocked with a fine line of wines, liquors, beer, porter, and cigars, and will be pleased to have you call in and sample the goods. They will move their stock and bar fixtures to the building above them about the first of Oct. which is being prepared for their reception, and when completed it will be by far the handsomest saloon in The Dalles.
