A few nights since Peter the poet had a remarkable dream. The vision of General Jackson rising from his grave and reading the democratic platform of 1892.

The Press Association banquets at Spokane all made terse pointed speeches. The soul of the party was the petite and vivacious Miss Laura Stanton of the Portland World.

Prof. Thomas Condon, the geologist in the State university, designates the region known as Southern Oregon so as to include Lake and Klamath counties on the east, Douglas, Coos and Curry counties on the west, and Jackson and Josephine on the south.

L. G. Carpenter one of the shysters arrested for inciting Darius Norris to leave Astoria against his will, was let off by Judge Hubbard in San Francisco Saturday, because the warrant issued by Gov. Penoyer was defective.

Everything has been a failure this year—strikes, cholera, Sullivan and politics; yes, everything has been a failure, except our national prosperity, and no adverse hap or occurrence has been able to feaze that. Prosperity is success; it is better than all else.

Editor Kaiser of the Ashland Record has taken great interest in giving Penoyer's big speech wide circulation, for which the governor is truly grateful—anything that will make his old ally the democratic party sick, is pleasing to him.

Queen Victoria will no longer replenish her larder by pursuing the bounding stag aided by thoroughbred hounds which cost the nation $50,000 a year to keep. The queen has concluded to sell the dogs and fall back on American beef.

Mr. James G. Blaine has already outlived many of the people who assassinated him in 1884, and he bids fair to outlive those other crocodile fellows who have been predicting his death for the last eight years.

The Pennsylvania Record says: Governor Penoyer of Oregon is now a populist and is ready to climb into the same band wagon which is now bowling along with Governor Buchanan toward the valley of obscurity.

It is reported that a newly designed airship can travel in the air. The fact, if proved, will stamp it at once as a unique and extraordinary invention of its class.

A gentleman who has lately revised his politics has been explaining "why I am a populist." We infer that a disrespect for his native language had something to do with it.

The owner of Mascot knows very well what's in a name.

ALAS FOR ALASKA.

According to Gov. Knapp Alaska is a g. In his annual report he says the lack of proper transportation facilities is a serious hindrance to the prompt and efficient administration of the laws of the territory.

As to the seal islands, the governor says, in part: International complications regarding the taking of seals in the ocean and Behring sea outside the three-mile limit have added to the embarrassment of the lessee company in its business upon the islands, which has already been seriously impaired by the wanton destruction of seal life by pelagic sealing.

Through frequent references to them in the press, the reading public are well acquainted with the doings of Chris Evans and John Sontag, the noted California outlaws, but no one imagined that a newspaper man would hunt them out and interview them, but this is what Henry Bigelow, of the San Francisco Examiner, claims to have done, and the last issue of that paper contains a page of what purports to be an interview with the noted robbers and sanguinary desperadoes.

The reporter claims that their stronghold is almost inaccessible, and that they will be able to baffle all pursuit for a long time to come, so familiar are they with the rugged country which surrounds them. Bigelow says the settlers about the vicinity of the desperadoes haunt, are particularly down on the posse who have been saucy and mean to them as they passed through the country.

P. J. Connolly, "Peter the poet," at Klamath falls, could not come to the Press Association convention as much as he desired, as the interest of his Star was in the ascendancy.

Sixteen Chinese have submitted to being photographed and registered. The six companies are not entirely superior authority to the United States.

Chicago is going to build a hotel "in the shape of a hog," to advertise its pork. The doors should represent a hack, at $22 a day wholesale.

Idaho democrats refuse to fuse. Ditto Kansas democracy. This is one of the years when fusion leads to confusion.

Cicero is rising against Hawthorne. In spite of appearances this is not a literary note.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

R. ABRAMS.

Judge Lynch Vindicated.

Southern Oregonians and Northern Californians have discovered a new way of dealing with emotional insanity. Smith, the man lynched at Castella for killing his wife and child, was a cool, thoughtful fiend. In order to prepare a plea of insanity on which to get clear after the murder, he told the people before the butchery that he was crazy and could get people to prove that insanity ran in his family.

The corpse was taken down from the limb to which Judge Lynch had hoisted him for the murder of his wife and child, and held an inquest on him. One clause makes the verdict the most remarkable ever uttered in a civilized land. It reads thus: "He came to his death by strangulation, and the same was caused by parties unknown to the jury, and we exonerate the parties concerned."

Judge Lynch is now all right. It is true he has often choked the innocent, but legally constituted judges have ten times oftener let off the guilty. The jury probably felt as millions feel, namely that Judge Lynch deserved much more appreciative regard than he has hitherto received. The legal letting down of murderous malefactors before they are dead is growing alarmingly habitual and commonplace. At the same time we snatch this occasion to contradict Shakespeare, who said: "There's nothing left remarkable beneath the visiting moon."
