

The Weekly Chronicle.

THE DALLES, OREGON

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

From the Daily Chronicle, Tuesday.

The Dalles weather is perfectly delightful.

Potatoes left in the ground are growing splendidly.

What a relief it is to be able to read something besides politics.

The Review of the Reviews for November is now on sale at Nolan's book store.

A forecast of the vote indicates that Harrison and Reid have saved the third party from the pleasure of throwing the election into the house.

Telegraph wires at The Umatilla will connect with every important city in the union, and election news from all the states will be sent in tonight.

Rev. D. B. Gray, long and favorably known in The Dalles, came up yesterday from Portland, to visit some of his old friends and will return this afternoon.

Portland citizens, tax payers and advocates of morality; didn't propose to let Capt. Spencer out of the place he filled as Chief of Police. But they could not help themselves. He is out.

Paul Kraft & Co., are billing the country with some handsome signs directing the public to the place where they can get a supply of Masury's liquid house paint, which make every man his own painter.

A train of twenty cars loaded with live stock passed through westward yesterday from Idaho. The cars mostly belonged to the D. T. & F. W. R. and looked like the breaking up of a hard winter.

Twenty-four trains passed over the U. P. R., westward yesterday, through The Dalles. The company is literally humping itself to get the grain and other products of the Inland Empire to the sea board.

The engineers arrived on the ground today with camp fixtures and surveying implements to begin the survey of the dalles, under direction of the board of U. S. engineers, for an open river. They are camped five miles above Seuferts.

Dr. Geo. A. Bethune, state chemist of the state of Washington, has examined into the Mount Adams silver boom, and is not as favorably impressed with it as some of the enthusiastic discoverers. Perhaps it wasn't located near enough to Seattle.

Rev. Eli D. Sutcliffe and family, accompanied by Miss Jessie Lowne, arrived in The Dalles this morning. Mr. Sutcliffe has been on an extended eastern visit, and now returns to resume his place as rector of St. Paul's (Episcopal) church in this city.

How gladly did the last days of October glide into November and now, with what soft strains of air and beautiful autumn colors do we of The Dalles enjoy a mildness approaching unto spring, while our eastern neighbors listen to the wild warring elements and get snowed under today climatically as well as politically.

Miss Rosa Stannus, whom we hope to hear at the M. E. church on the 15th inst., is said to be as an impersonator equal to Helen Potter and as an elocutionist equal to Mrs. Siddens. The following is from the Chicago Journal: "The impersonations of Miss Stannus cover a wide field, from the humorous Irish character sketch to selections from the tragedies of Shakespeare, all of which were rendered with pronounced ability."

Geo. W. McCoy is hauling a saw mill into this county from Portland, over the mountains. The Champion says "the outfit passed through Troutdale on Sunday, drawn by eight large horses. McCoy has a contract to furnish lumber for the water ditch that is being made just over the summit, which will irrigate a portion of that country. Also two large road graders passed through here en route for the same place, to work on the ditch line."

A friend familiar with interior railways says the D. T. and F. W. R. cars which come through with cattle Sunday for the Portland beef trust were from the Dakota territory and Fort Worth line. The cattle were Texas steers from Colorado, regular bull beef. Just how much Portland dealers expect to gain by passing the Oregon ranges, and loading the markets with such stuff, remains to be seen. They will pay more for good Oregon beef steers next year—or else they don't get them.

It is nearly a days drive from The Dalles to the Sherman county wheat fields where wild geese most do congregate. Just now they are not so easily shot, as they remain away during the day time, and feed by the light of the moon. They are a pest, and a source of much annoyance to the farmers, whose fields they infest. A party of hunters from this city left this afternoon for the hunting grounds, and another party, among them Charley Hall, will leave on Thursday. About as good shooting is found on the hills in the vicinity of Arlington.

From the Daily Chronicle, Wednesday.

Capt. H. C. Coe of Hood River is in the city.

Geo. S. Chandler of Bake Oven, is at The Umatilla.

Mrs. Kate Moody is in the city, visiting relatives and friends.

Mrs. A. L. Newman returned to her home in this city yesterday, after a few months' sojourn in California.

The electoral vote, according to the latest returns, will be 257 for Cleveland; 166 for Harrison, 21 for Weaver.

A business meeting of the Congregational church will be held tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. A full attendance of the congregation is desired.

According to the latest returns Harrison has a plurality in Oregon of 3,547 votes. Weaver got 14,064 votes, Cleveland 7,270 and Harrison 17,611, in the state.

A skating rink in Wamic Saturday night one of the lady skaters fell and broke a leg. This is the first accident at the rink, which is quite a resort for the people of that progressive and promising community.

Thanks to Mr. J. Mosier, clerk of the polls at Mosier, for election returns, also to a gentleman in Columbia, the only two in nineteen precincts thoughtful enough to send returns to THE CHRONICLE today for publication.

Amongst the bets lost and won in The Dalles on this election is an oyster and champagne supper at Kellers; to which Ye Scribe of THE CHRONICLE is invited. Verily, in all great disaster there are some grains of comfort for poor mortals to extract.

Mr. W. Wallace Wilson, who has for some time past been connected with The Umatilla in this city, leaves by the steamer Regulator tomorrow for Olympia, where he resumes his position at the Olympia hotel, as house steward. He leaves many friends in The Dalles among acquaintances he has formed here.

The general news today as it comes over the wires, shows that Weaver has carried Idaho, Colorado and Nevada. The next house of representatives will be 100 democratic. Oregon will give Harrison 5,000. The Washington returns show Snively gains over McGraw. Illinois claims 1,100 plurality for Cleveland. California is conceded to Cleveland.

Mr. J. P. Kennedy and wife returned yesterday from a very pleasant trip of six weeks through the Inland Empire south and east of The Dalles. They traveled leisurely, having a good team and carriage of their own, and have had a fine opportunity to see the country and get acquainted with the people, upon all of which they have a very flattering report to make.

Rockland, just across the river from The Dalles, rewards our reporter with the intelligence that that precinct goes twenty for Harrison. God save Rockland! but in future give us judges and clerks who may keep a file of the vote in ANY PRECINCT for the benefit of the public. It is simply a piece of inexcusable stupidity to seal the returns of an election in any precinct without preserving the facts for publication.

The chrysanthemum show will be given on Wednesday and Thursday, the 16th and 17th of November, in the Baldwin buildings, near the Umatilla house. Great preparations are being made to make it the event of the whole year, and a delightful evening is assured to all who attend. A High Tea will be served in connection with the flower show, which will open each afternoon at 5 o'clock.

THE DALLES CHRONICLE was the first paper in the state to note the fact that the state horticultural society had adopted the wild grape as the state flower of Oregon, at Hood River last summer. The unsurpassed beauty of the fine foliage of this plant and its peculiar adaptation to decorative use was brought out in a most effective way at the meeting of the society at Newberg last week. It is safe to say that all who attended the Newberg meeting were convinced of the good judgment shown by the society in selecting the Oregon grape as the state flower.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Harris gave a very pleasant luncheon at her residence on the hill. The parlors were beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums, and after a few hours spent in pleasant conversation the ladies were invited to the dining room, where a very delicate and dainty lunch was set for them. The tables were decorated with chrysanthemums and several pictures of Harrison. After doing full justice to the dainty collation, the ladies adjourned to the parlors and spent some time discussing politics before repairing to their homes. Those present were: Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. D. French, Mrs. Laughlin, Mrs. Wesola, Miss Meredith, Miss Adams, Miss Brooks and Miss Irene Adams.

There is nothing more precious in the sight of heaven than the tear of a penitential sinner. So we are taught to believe, and so the Peri discovers in Moore's superb poem "Paradise and the Peri." Miss Stannus recites this next Tuesday evening to the accompaniment of soft music, changing to "Nearer my God to Thee" as the enraptured Peri finds the gates of heaven opened, and bears her precious gift within. The other numbers mentioned yesterday, such as the cathedral scene from Faust and the scene of Nydia from The Last Days of Pompeii are given in costume with music and require much dramatic acting. Besides these there are a number of selections, humorous and otherwise, mostly in costume, and an elaborate musical programme. Our people are anxiously waiting for a good time with a booming house.

From the Daily Chronicle, Thursday.

Fred A. Young of Bake Oven is in the city. Thanksgiving will be two weeks from today.

Christmas and New Year day occur on Sunday this holiday season.

C. W. Canfield and B. H. Smith of Philadelphia, are at the Umatilla.

L. G. Hawson the warehouseman of Arlington, was in the city on business yesterday.

Hon. W. Lair Hill, of Seattle, is in the city. Mr. and Mrs. Hill are moving to Berkeley, California.

Butler & Co., having sold their building materials, lumber, etc., etc., now wish to dispose of the warehouse, office building, etc. See advertisement.

J. C. Clark and wife, of The Dalles, have been visiting friends in Portland. Mr. Clark has resigned his office as justice of peace and accepted a position in the Indian school at Chemawa.

The present term of county court, Judge Blakeley presiding, is held in the circuit court room, to accommodate the teachers' examination, which is being held in the county court room.

City Marshal Maloney is recovering from his haloween accident, but has not yet discovered the miscreant who removed the kingbolt from his buggy, which caused the accident. He would like to entertain the individual.

The first soiree of the young men's dancing club of The Dalles, will be given at Armory hall tomorrow evening. It is intended to give a series of parties every Friday evening during the winter, and they will undoubtedly be popular and very pleasant affairs.

An article in Food says potatoes should be soaked before cooking, especially if it has sprouted, as it may contain an excess of poisonous principle called solanine. This is removed by soaking. The potato is related botanically to the night-shade.

The U. P. R. is keeping up its average of a train load an hour into Portland this week. With the locks opened this wheat would be transferred to boats, barges and whalebacks at The Dalles, for the ships side at Astoria, or London docks if necessary.

If the Athena Press will just state, what sort of an improvement it would have made at the dalles of the Columbia, and cease opposing whatever is suggested, we shall be pleased to chronicle its views on this important subject. The Inland Empire, above The Dalles, must get in and drill.

The quarterly examination of teachers began yesterday afternoon with fifteen applicants for county and one for state certificates. The examining board consists of Supt. Troy Shelley, C. L. Gilbert and R. S. Andrews. The examinations will be continued until Friday evening. The board will be in session until Saturday evening.

No matter who is elected says the Tacoma Trade, the canal scheme is too dead to skin, and will now topple over into post mortem history with a resounding crash, while its abettors will stand by and drop burning tears of grief into history with a dull thud. A great deal of good printers' ink has been wasted on the proposition.

So much stock has been shipped from the Inland Empire in the past two years it is likely prices will advance. The increase by no means equals the number slaughtered and driven out of the country. The herds all over the state, and particularly in Wasco, Sherman and Grant, are diminishing each succeeding year.

Spokane has inaugurated an enterprise to irrigate the Big Bend country and shorten the Columbia river 100 miles. The scheme is to divert the water from the Columbia into the grand coulee, re-entering the Columbia just below Priest Rapids. This will make a ship canal of sixty miles at a cost not to exceed $250,000. The natural formation of the grand coulee, which is known to have once been the Columbia river bed, makes the project feasible.

Phil Brogan, Sr., raised the remains on Wednesday 9th inst., of his deceased wife, who died during a confinement case a year ago last August and was buried on the farm twelve miles south of town. Her remains will be reinterred in the cemetery at The Dalles. Mr. Brogan has showed his esteem for his departed help-met by decorating her grave in The Dalles cemetery with a $600 tombstone which he purchased in Portland.—Antelope Herald.

Search has been instituted for several years for a ledge supposed to be located on one of the ridges between Greenhorn mountain and Clear creek, the existence of which was indicated by the presence of a large amount of float rock, some of which was assayed and went 116 in gold to the ton. John Coyle, an old miner, and Tom Robbins of Pendleton, not long ago ran across the place where they thought the float rock had its origin. Robbins has written to a friend that a cross-cut has opened up a ledge twelve feet from wall to wall, which looks very fine. The claim has been located by J. H. Raley, J. H. Robbins, T. M. Robbins and John Coyle.

Kellers new hall was dedicated last night by the lodges of Workmen and Woodmen which are to jointly occupy the same. The hall was tested as to its seating capacity and was comfortably filled. Rev. W. C. Curtis delivered the address of dedication, and the German singing society and Congregational church choir furnished the singing. Refreshments were served and all those present enjoyed a really pleasant social evening.

Several very attractive photos of Miss Rose Stannus in costume, are exhibited in Snipes & Kinersly's and the P. O. Book store. The late commander of Cushing Post, G. A. R., Hon. A. G. Hardesty, gave Miss Stannus the following testimonial: "Miss Stannus is so perfect an artist that she forgets her own identity and becomes the character she assumes. She possesses that faculty of so delineating her different subjects that her audience unconsciously becomes actors in the scenes she so perfectly portrays."

The annual chestnut about Oregon farmers leaving their machines and tools in the field is going the rounds. Now that the election is over with perhaps the tools will be taken care of. Keep your tools out of the rain during the winter and out of the hot sun in the summer and you will save 50 per cent on money invested. By having a covered shed that you can drive into before unloading, there is less temptation to leave wagons, mowers, garden tools, etc., out of doors until a "convenient time" to put them away.

Green Arnold, one of the earliest settlers in the Inland Empire, is now at Pendleton. The East Oregonian says of him: Mr. Arnold was here, almost when Mt. Hood was a hole in the ground, and raised the first grain in Wasco, Umatilla and Union counties, then embraced in Wasco county, which extended from the Cascades to Salt Lake. He was a grand juror at the first term of court, held at The Dalles in 1855, and judge at the first election, held the same year. There were 35 votes polled. Mr. Arnold was then living at Henrietta, where Echo now stands. He planted the first orchard in Wasco county, setting it out near The Dalles."

Mr. Joseph Beezley died at his residence in this city at 11 o'clock last night, after a long and painful illness, in the 74th year of his age. Mr. Beezley was born at Springfield, Ohio, in 1819. He comes of distinguished parentage, tracing his lineage back to the Pilgrims. His grandfather was a general in the British army, and his father added new honors to the name by his marriage to Phoebe Reeves of Virginia. Fourteen children were born to this pair of whom Joseph was the twelfth. In the spring following the death of his father and mother, in 1851, Mr. Beezley, with his wife and children, came to Oregon, and during a residence of over forty years has been classed as one of our most public spirited citizens. The funeral will take place on Sunday.

Chicago Horse Market.

J. S. Cooper, commission salesman of horses, Union stock yards, Chicago, says: The past week has been a repetition of the two previous ones, viz: A fairly good demand at fair prices for extra heavy horses with a practically dead market at very low prices for small common horses. The outlook is neither inviting nor encouraging. And the only ray of comfort is that all other markets are in the same unfortunate predicament. The east is glutted and the south has not yet appeared as a purchaser. Dakota and Minnesota, which later on will be large buyers of mares, are now in the midst of threshing and the hum of the machines is for the present sweeter music than the buying of mares.

The prevailing opinion, however, is that there will be a revival in trade following the close of the election.

Wants a Companion This Year.

The "Hermit of the Sonnblick," Peter Lechner, who last year passed the winter months in the observatory on the summit of that lonely peak, now declares that he will not stay there another winter unless he has a companion with him. He would, he says, prefer a wife, if he could find one. Otherwise he will be content with a male companion, who could take turns with him in his constant task of reading the scientific instruments. This decision on the part of the "Hermit of the Sonnblick" really threatens the further existence of the highest observatory in Europe. For the Austrian Meteorological institute lacks the funds to support a companion for Lechner, and the small sum, about £100 a year, that is wanted for the purpose is not forthcoming from private sources.

It is believed that the real explanation of the discontent of Herr Lechner is that he is annoyed at being forgotten by the public, who have neither sent him Christmas presents nor published laudatory paragraphs about him in the newspapers of late. Three years back he said he wanted a wife, and hundreds of offers at once poured in from all quarters, including several rich and many good looking women, but he then laughed at the idea, and continued to prefer the state of single blessedness. It would be a distinct loss to meteorological and physical science if the Sonnblick observatory were to be closed, but some means will probably be found of reconciling Herr Peter to his lonely but lofty labors for another winter.—Vienna Cor. London Standard.

Tithes and the Price of Grain.

The difference between the method of paying the clergy of the Church of England, who receive the tithes as their living, and the clergy of the Church of Scotland, who enjoy what are known in the north as tiends, will be very apparent in this year. On both sides of the Tweed grain prices are higher for the year, but in England the clergy will receive little immediate benefit from the rise, because the seven years' average it is spread over so long a time that the most that can be hoped for from the good prices of 1891 is to stop the fall which has been going on every year without a break since 1878, a longer period of successive annual declines in the value of the tithe than has ever before occurred.

But in Scotland the tiend is calculated on the grain prices of each year, so that the parish ministers who have endured the discomforts which low prices brought with them when grain was cheap will now have directly the advantages of higher prices when grain has risen. In England both the rise and the fall are retarded by the seven years' average. In Scotland the full effects of either the one or the other are directly experienced in every year.—London Graphic.

Human Beings in the Mammoth Age.

Near Brun, the capital of Moravia, important discoveries of prehistoric remains have been made which are likely to attract the attention of paleontologists all over the globe. As a canal was being dug 4 1/2 skulls were brought to light of dolichocephalous (long headed) character and of an exceedingly low stage of development. The same place contained bones and teeth of mammoth rhinoceros and reindeer.

Spurious Shawls.

A good deal of indignation has been excited by a discovery recently made by the Calcutta customs of a trade in spurious Cashmere shawls. It appears that large quantities of shawls have been imported into India from Germany, with imitation Cashmere marks on them. On arrival in Calcutta the shawls are treated by some peculiar process and then sent into the interior and sold there as real Cashmere productions. Their actual cost in Calcutta is about $5, and they fetch when sold about $35.—Exchange.

A Winter Charm.

A Wilmington man carries in his vest pocket a piece of skin that was taken from a man's neck and then tanned. He—the Wilmington man, not the other man—claims that the possession of that piece of tanned skin will keep him from slipping on the ice. The boys in the neighborhood are watching him now to see what virtue there is in the odd charm. The owner of the piece of skin argues that if its possession does not prevent him from falling it will, at least, not cause him to fall.—Wilmington News.

In Charge of One Family Forty Years.

The postoffice at South Deerfield, N. H., has been in charge of one family for over forty years. F. J. White was appointed postmaster by President Pierce and held the office for thirty-five years. At the time of his death his son, Charles E., was appointed and held the position until 1888, when another son, W. R. White was appointed, which position he held until the first of the present year.—Exeter Letter.

Supporting the Principle.

Last June a young man was arrested in Natick, Mass., because he would not pay his poll tax, amounting to two dollars, and he has been kept in jail ever since at an expense to the taxpayers of $1.75 per week. The town is losing money on the transaction, but it is vindicating an eternal principle with great success.—New York Tribune.

Government Control of Telephones.

At the end of next year the Telephone Company of Austria will cease to exist, the government assuming control of all the telephone lines in the kingdom.—New York Journal.

Plain Salmon Talk.

A fisherman, writing upon the subject of protecting salmon, shows up "the very idea" which we have contended for years; that the natural spawning beds of the Chinook salmon are the sands in Astoria harbor and about Sand Island; and that the spawn is annually almost wholly destroyed by the lead lines of the fishermen's nets. We are glad to get this admission from such high source. It goes far toward sustaining the idea that, in order to protect salmon every device should be done away with for three years. The cannermen themselves don't care a straw for the laws; and thieving fishermen care less. The nominal tax levied to create a fund to aid artificial propagation, is resisted by the cannermen, and there is scarcely a fisherman on the whole river but evades the provisions of the act regulating the time one may fish lawfully. So long as the state is obliged to patrol the river, and fight dams and other obstructions, and be wheeled out of this tax, THE CHRONICLE will advocate the total abolishment of every device in use for catching salmon in the Columbia river for three years consecutively.

Announcement.

We beg to inform the public that we are about to open a night school of business and short hand here in the city, and respectfully solicit the patronage of all such young men and women as desire to secure a practical knowledge of business.
