THE DALLES, OREGON

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

From the Daily Chronicle, Tuesday.

Mr. R. A. Laughlin of Wapinitia, is in the city.

Mr. M. K. McLeod of Kingsley, is in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. H. Dufur left for home this morning.

Capt. Sherman took the helm on the steamer Regulator this morning.

Sunshine and shadows alternate today. With little drops of water from skyward.

At Bake Oven at three o'clock yesterday morning it was snowing, and the fall continued briskly until 6 a. m.

J. B. Hosford late of the Moro Observer, and F. M. Bixby present editor of that wide awake journal, are in the city.

Thos. Callaghan, who is farming extensively in Sherman county, will winter his stock at Dufur the coming season.

Messrs. B. F. Laughlin and H. Glenn, of the D. P. and A. N. Co., leave for Portland in the morning by the steamer Regulator.

Don't let the weather be an excuse for remaining away from the entertainment at the M. E. Church tonight. Miss Rosa Stannus will appear.

A. W. Branner, the Oregon, Idaho and California stage manager, was a passenger on the train down this a. m., which ran on to the land slide.

The Astorian type setting machine may be a thing of beauty, but it cannot be a joy forever, as the proof sheets cannot be corrected with a bodkin.

Corridors of The Dalles hotels are filled with visitors from abroad. Jurors, witnesses and attorneys in attendance upon the circuit court predominating.

There is considerable choice fruit in The Dalles market yet. J. Folco, the East End confectioner is packing and shipping a fine assortment daily.

W. F. Cornell, long and favorably known among Oregon printers, is now the San Francisco agent of the celebrated Campbell press and Manufacturing Co.

Michael Baegen of Rutledge, is a democrat, who has a fellow feeling for a fallen foe, hence has enrolled himself with the increasing number of patrons of THE CHRONICLE.

Among the most jovial democrats of Wasco county in the city today none are more enthusiastic than Mr. W. L. Ward. Why should he not be jolly; Ohio is his native state.

Gobble, gobble, gobble, is the popular language of the fowls at J. H. Cross' corner today, and gobble is the word in Portland, which demands all the fat turkeys in the land for the 24th.

John D. P. Thompson has been tendered the portfolio of American Minister to Constantinople, and if he can so arrange his business matters as to leave, will depart for Turkey on the 1st of December.

It is the most natural thing in the world for The Dalles people to enter the postoffice immediately after lunch time. They are generally rewarded but this is one of the days when "the Nasby officials fooled 'em."

The whole Masonic fraternity of Antelope went over to Fossil Saturday morning to be in attendance at lodge meeting at that place. The Herald says the Masons will organize a lodge at Antelope in a short time.

Hood River is largely represented at the circuit court. From among these we acknowledge calls from Messrs. S. F. Blythe, F. E. Wickens, C. P. Heald, Doug. Payton, H. F. Davidson, F. C. Sherick and J. S. Ingalls.

The fog and snow combined hanging on the crest of Klickitat hills early this morning, resembled a huge drift. It was a beautiful winter scene, witnessed by many in The Dalles from cheerful apartments in homes facing northerly.

We understand that The Dalles electric light company contemplate some material changes soon, one of which will be a removal from the present site on Union street, to a more eligible location on Main street, just below the depot, recently secured.

A large number of Dalles City and Wasco county democrats will leave by the steamer Regulator Thursday morning to attend the grand democratic ratification. Fare for the round trip has been placed within the reach of all. See notice by Agent Alloway in another column.

The grand jury is in session, inquiring into numerous cases on the criminal docket, for the usually law-abiding community composing the population of Wasco county. Of course the criminal is ubiquitous and of great public expense, but THE CHRONICLE is proud that he is not so numerous in Wasco county as rated.

It was pretty much like winter on DesChutes hill yesterday, where the stage driver reports four inches of snow. Rain in The Dalles, with the temperature as it was yesterday, means snow on the high hills. The Dalles is 116 feet above the sea level at Astoria; Des Chutes hill is twenty-five miles from The Dalles, and is 2,350 feet above sea level.

From the way the tickets are selling it is evident that there will be a crowded house tonight at the Methodist church to hear Miss Stannus. Those who wish good seats will have to come early, as there is no choice, no seats being reserved. The recital begins at 8 o'clock.

We are informed that there is an error in regard to Mr. Iseberg, working for the democracy at Hood River. As a republican judge he simply insisted that when a man wished to vote the democratic ticket he should not be switched off to the Weaver wing of Murphy's adoption.

No one need be reminded of the great things to come off in the Baldwin buildings tomorrow and Thursday. The display of chrysanthemums will exceed the fondest hopes of those interested, and the tables loaded down with good things will more than repay those who partake. The public in general, as well as the friends of St. Paul's guild, are cordially invited to be on hand any time between the hours of one and ten o'clock.

Train No. 1, passing here at 3:05 a. m., ran on to a slide below Bonneville, ditching two cars. Reports say it was a big slide, a Cleve-land slide; but fortunately nobody was hurt.

It has been impossible in this case, as in all other cases of railway accidents, to obtain any definite information respecting the extent of the damages, or possible delays. Unofficially we have been informed that it will require twelve hours to clear the track. As the accident occurred probably about 5:30, this would prevent a train passing the scene of the wreck early enough to bring the mails due at The Dalles at 1:05 before perhaps 5 or 6 o'clock p. m.

Mr. John Tranna, an official at Cascade locks who was in the city last evening, says there have been bidders and bidders at that place from all portions of the United States, who have put in bona fide bids, with all the collateral necessary to secure for them proper recognition, and he has not a particle of doubt but that the bids will be opened today, according to the best of intentions, and the contract duly let as congress has provided in the act. A quarry of stone, acceptable for the work, has been found above the cascades, convenient to barges, by means of which it may be floated to the works. He thinks that the routine of letting the contract can all be finished up inside of thirty days, so that construction will begin immediately following the holidays.

Miss Rosa Stannus who gives the dramatic entertainment in the interest of the Epworth League this evening, combines the best results of both eastern and western training, having studied with Madame Melville in San Francisco, and then in the Chicago Athenaeum Oratorical school, and finished up with Madame Bishop in Del Sarte. It is rumored that she is an Oregon born girl; if it is so, she is only one of many young men and women of this state who are winning justly deserved laurels in the eastern world. From the reports that precede her it is evident that the Epworth League have done a wise thing in securing Miss Stannus for an entertainment. She is drawing large houses all over the northwest, and leaving behind the reputation of being a true artist. This will be her only visit to The Dalles, as she is on her way east and thence to England and Ireland, in the latter of which countries, she is going to make a study of Irish peasant life, with a view to improvement of her character sketches, her Irish brogue is said now to be inimitable.

From the Daily Chronicle, Wednesday.

J. C. Christie of Dayville, is in the city.

Agent J. C. Lucky returned from Portland today.

Ex-Sheriff D. L. Cates, of Cascade Locks, is in the city.

J. H. Button and Geo. C. Jones, joined by the Hood River brigade in the city this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Maier of The Dalles are registered at the Perkins in Portland.

Philip Kollars, J. H. Smith, and Thos. H. Smith, were adopted as American citizens today.

Senator Dolph reached Washington city yesterday, after a period of arduous labor in the campaign.

Regulator leaves at 7 o'clock a. m., instead of 6 as heretofore, on and after tomorrow. "Through by daylight," both ways.

Justice Schutz, Deputy Phirman, and Clerk Crossen have been designated a committee to furnish gum boots for the parade Saturday night.

The remains of W. S. Becknall were conveyed to the undertakers parlors of Crandall & Burget. The deceased was last employed by Mr. Ostlund.

Justice Schutz says he has been "sawing wood," politically speaking, for thirty years. He will wind up the job Saturday night with a steam saw.

C. Cleve, Cy. Gunst, and Geo. F. Robertson affixed their John Hancock to the Umatilla register this a. m., and are sauntering through town today.

The grand jury have returned two cases, one "not a true bill," letting Deerhake off; and one "true" bill; the defendant to deponent unknown.

J. A. Crossen took Ray Green's banter last night about the factories closing up four months after Cleveland takes his seat, and stood the Ex-Dry Mumm manfully.

Mrs. Dr. Ingalls has been obliged to leave her practice in The Dalles for a time, to accompany her husband into California for his health. They left yesterday afternoon.

The depth of the snow on the surrounding hills seems to be accumulating. It was quite frosty in The Dalles last night, but old Sol has been very pleasantly smiling upon us most all day.

Mr. Lord, our Klickitat granger friend is in the city visiting his family for a few days as the roads are a trifle too soft just now for him to continue his wheat hauling.

The circuit court has devoted most of yesterday and today to the trial of the civilization Roberts v. McCain. The jury brought in a verdict at noon today for the plaintiff.

The whole force of Glenn's factory is busy turning out democratic transparencies for Saturday night. This is one expense the republicans are exempt from this year.

Engineer Brown of the city steamer has commenced bilin' water in the new engine house on Third street, and is about as well fixed as one could reasonably expect to be.

The display of chrysanthemums at the festival today is truly marvelous, and equal to any exhibit ever given on the coast. Every one should go, if they wish a grand treat.

Capt. John W. Lewis, register of the United States land office at The Dalles, is confined to his home by sickness. He has not been in his usual good health for several months past, and his friends hope that his present illness may be of short duration.

Charley Hall and party returned from a Sherman county Wild Goose Chase last evening, chilled to the marrow. Charley says they found the geese as plentiful as before, fat, fine and wild! So wild in fact that they returned with a less abundant supply than upon their previous hunt.

W. S. Becknall, a young man about 26 years of age, a member of the Carpenters Union, and employed in The Dalles as a carpenter died in his seat where he was a spectator in the circuit court room this morning about 11 o'clock with scarcely a struggle, from heart disease. It is supposed that he has relatives in Ohio.

The democrats of The Dalles are making arrangements for a grand ratification meeting Saturday night. It is expected that this will be the largest meeting ever held in The Dalles. Music, a procession of imposing dimensions, and public speaking, will be in order. The Regulator has fixed a low rate of fare for the round trip from Cascade Locks, tickets good for three days.

Prizes awarded at the Chrysanthemum exhibit this afternoon are as follows: Prize for largest collection to Mrs. Lord; Prize for finest collection, to Mrs. J. Marden; for the finest five named varieties, Miss Snipes; for collection of seedlings, Mrs. Lord. The display is certainly equal to anything of the kind which could be produced anywhere. Go, by all means, and feast your eyes.

There has perhaps been few years in the history of The Dalles when mechanics have been so busy as this year and as late in the season. It is almost impossible to ask any one of them, no matter what may be his trade, to do a job or piece of work but the reply is that he has on hand all he can get through with. This is a healthy condition for any community, and it is to be hoped may continue.

Some important and valuable facts about the Columbia river will be furnished soon by Capt. T. W. Symons, United States engineer who is now causing to be prepared at his office a profile map of the river from its mouth to the boundary line. The map is to be used by the board of engineers, who have in hand the improvement of the dalles rapids. The distance of the boundary line to the Pacific ocean is 760 miles. The whole descent from the boundary line to the ocean is 1,300 feet. The Snake river between the railroad bridge at Huntington and its junction with the Columbia falls is 1,900 feet.

The time set for opening bids for the completion of the Cascade locks is two o'clock this afternoon, at the office of Major Handbury, United States engineers. A number of persons have been up to look at the locks, and it is expected that several bids will be submitted. A man who has been figuring on the work said yesterday that he did not see much chance for any money being made on the job. The bids must come within a limit prescribed, and it was evident that in making up the estimates no allowance had been made for any profit for contractors, and besides, since the estimates were figured, the eight-hour law had gone into effect. The cost of the work to be done is over $1,500,000, and there is only $900,000 in sight, and there are not many contractors who will care to put up so much of their own money and take chances of congress making appropriations, especially now that congress is to be democratic and not in favor of large river and harbor appropriations. Just what view other contractors take of the matter will be known when the bids are opened. Oregonian, 15th.

In answer to an inquiry by THE CHRONICLE yesterday as to the bids for completion of the cascade canal and locks, the word was that no information would be given out until the result was made known officially from headquarters of the United States board of engineers. The Oregonian of today, however, has this: "Bids for the completion of the cascade locks were opened at the office of Major Handbury yesterday. There were six bids submitted, but owing to the extent of the work covered it cannot be known which is the lowest till this afternoon. From a cursory examination of the papers it appears that I. G. and I. N. Day, of San Francisco, are the lowest bidders."

The chilly process of pouring ice water upon any project for opening the Columbia river, is indulged again by the Oregonian yesterday, in an article which we reproduce today, upon the bids for the completion of the cascade locks. Why should any contractor care that only $300,000 is in sight? And does the Oregonian presume to say that any future river and harbor bill can in any shape or manner conflict with any contract between the government and contractor? There may be fools and fools in the Inland Empire, but there is not a voter east of the Cascade mountains, on either side of the river, fool enough to be caught by such chaff as that. If any reliance can be placed on the Oregonian, she had better advise Portland to stop bickering and fall into line with the Inland Empire.

From Mr. Geo. F. Robertson, representing Blake, McFall & Co., who was a passenger up at 12:30 this morning on the train which should have reached here at one p. m. yesterday, we learn that THE CHRONICLE was correct in one specification at least, yesterday, referring to the accident. The landslide was one of huge dimensions.

A wrecking crew was sent out from Portland as quick as the news could be conveyed to headquarters, and after 12 hours hard work had the track cleared, when a second slide piled down higher than the first. This caused the indefinite abandonment of No. 8.

The engine, tender, and first baggage car of No. 1, the train which ran on the slide, were badly used. All were thrown from the track and turned completely upside down, but fortunately nobody was injured, except the fireman, who was cratched up considerably. Trains are now again running on time.

The weather did not prevent there being a crowded and appreciative audience in the lecture hall of the M. E. Church last evening on the occasion of the benefit tendered to the Epworth League. We can do Miss Stannus no greater compliment than to quote the remarks of Rev. J. L. Withrow upon a similar occasion. The most critical audience could desire nothing more in a reader than Miss Stannus showed she possessed. The program, containing only such pieces as might with propriety have been given in the church itself, displayed unusual taste. Miss Stannus is a gifted elocutionist and a lady in every way worthy of patronage, and her entertainments are both refining and elevating.

THE CHRONICLE has from time to time referred to the lady, and we felt flattered by the results last night. The music rendered for the occasion by our local talent was all that could be desired, and was highly appreciated. Want of space today precludes the possibility of specific mention of the numerous parts, suffice it to say all did well; and as Miss Stannus has so efficiently contributed to the success of this benefit, and there appears to be a desire on the part of a great many, including several who were present last evening, to hear Miss Stannus again, THE CHRONICLE suggests that a benefit be given early next week to the talented lady, before she takes her departure from The Dalles.

From the Daily Chronicle, Thursday.

Kennedy's new steam launch has gone into winter quarters.

Council meeting under the new roof tomorrow evening.

Drs Whitcomb and Vanderpool of Dufur, are in the city.

Leave orders for Thanksgiving Turkeys to J. H. Cross' Feed Store.

Wanted by a lady: A position as nurse. Inquire at CHRONICLE office.

Fresh bread of the Geo. Ruche bakery, for sale at the Columbia Candy factory, Campbell Bros., daily.

Mrs. Polk Mays and two little sons from Joseph Wallowa county, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Kelsay, at Fossil.

One solitary d. d., of a mild type, was all that approached his Hon. Frank Menefee meekly saying guilty this morning. He still languishes.

Mr. Thomas Kay, the Salem woolen manufacturer, is in the city looking after the fleeces. He is hale and hearty, and is not losing any sleep over the result of the elections.

Mrs. Geo. Johnston and Mrs. Balch of Dufur are at the European house today; also Dr. Howatt of Warm Springs agency, Wm. Whiter of San Francisco Messrs. Dicken Bros. of Kentucky, and W. R. Price of Portland.

Rocks, mud, trees, etc., have again blocked the railroad between The Dalles and Portland last night. Trains due at The Dalles at 11:55 last night and at 1:05 p. m. today had not yet arrived when THE CHRONICLE went to press this afternoon.

Mr. I. B. Courtway, living 7 1/2 miles east of Goldendale, has raised the banner crop of potatoes this season. He sold a few bushels to Mr. Carlock, of which his wife cooked one potato for dinner for six persons; enough of the potato remained for supper for eight persons. It is said that all ate heartily of it.

Part of the show in Portland tonight will be the huge tin hat that was used in the big republican procession in Portland, on the 3d. It has been captured by the democrats and banged into an almost undistinguishable mass of tin. The democrats will place a papier mache rooster on it, place it in a wagon and haul it through the streets in old Roman style.

Rand and Oliver, the United States mail clerks on The Dalles and Albany runs, alternate nightly and get in about 2 1/2 hours sleep here. It seems as though a race must yet be born to work all hours and no sleep, the way our wise Uncle Sam puts his men at it. Especially in the P. O. D.

Business is so demoralized by the frequency of traffic interruptions between The Dalles and Portland that even some of the secret enemies of the Regulator line admit openly that the only certainty of a trip over the route now is by The Dalles, Portland and Astoria Navigation company's boats.

Robert E. Bybee, the well known turman of Portland, is lying at the point of death in San Francisco. For some time past Mr. Bybee has been in rather poor health. His many friends in this city, and elsewhere, will learn with deep regret of his dangerous illness.

The health of Judge Stearns, of the Multnomah criminal court, is yet so precarious that it is possible he may be obliged to retire from the bench. Judge Bradshaw of this circuit has been asked to go to Portland and complete some important business before Judge Stearns. He may do so after the present term in this county.

Those of our democratic friends who took the all-rail route to Portland this morning, expecting to breakfast there and have a day for business before attending the ratification meeting tonight, got into another Cleve-land slide, which was not so joyful as the one of the 8th. All trains were blocked by land slides of such huge dimensions as to make the trip for them anything but a picnic.

T. J. Uhlman, the Portland butcher who bought so many beef cattle in this vicinity recently, says the Fossil Journal, has failed, with $8,000 liabilities. It is presumed the beef trust of the metropolis snowed him under, as he was branching out a little too much for them, and thereby endangering the perpetuity of the monopoly.

The Chrysanthemum Exhibit.

Nothing of its kind has been seen in the Pacific northwest to surpass the Chrysanthemum Exhibition by The Dalles ladies, in the Baldwin buildings for the benefit of St. Paul's Episcopal Guild. It may be told that such an extensive collection exists here, but few would be found to receive the statement without misgivings and doubt. Seeing is believing, and we are pleased to be informed that the collection is to be photographed by Miss Lang, to carry conviction farther, for "all things bright and fair must fade," and this exhibition, like a railroad ticket, is good for one trip only, unless perpetuated by photography. Aside from the ladies there are multitudes of people who would be delighted with a visit to this exhibition, and the paltry 25 cents admission should not be considered for one moment, by any person within reach of the Baldwin buildings today, and this evening. Nor should any person stand upon their order of going to see it. Home and state pride, if nothing more, should prompt the visit. It is a glorious advertisement for The Dalles, the Inland Empire, the Pacific northwest. It is at once convincing of our admirable climate. There are varieties of chrysanthemums there from out door flower gardens, in The Dalles, upon the culture alone of which vast sums of money have been expended in other states only to meet with failure. Often in our rambles through The Dalles, has the beauty of our flower gardens, a beauty seemingly not realized by one half the population, reminded us of the loveliness of this city as a home. The Dalles is at a crucial period in its history, and the citizens of the present, aided by nature, can make it for all time to come the most beautiful or the most unadorned municipality of this land. That the spirit of beauty shall prevail, the ladies should be encouraged by your presence and patronage.

THE HIGH TEA.

Next door to the chrysanthemum exhibition the ladies have elaborately provided another surprising feast—"for the inner man." At handsomely decorated tables, presided over by charming young ladies, you are invited to refreshments of the best and daintiest, at nominally no cost. The surroundings are cheerful, and one will be made to feel very much "at home." The ladies have, in the decoration of this room, certainly displayed the most happy combinations. It is hoped that they may not be disappointed in the results, as they are worthy of the most satisfying success. The High Tea, as well as the chrysanthemum exhibit, will close at 10 o'clock this evening. "A word to the wise is sufficient." Don't miss the opportunity.

Stray Notice.
Taken up on the 15th of Oct. 1892, at the point of starvation, a light red and white spotted cow with notch in upper side of left ear, and brand on right hip, not discernable, and real calf, the owner may have the same by proving property and paying costs of keeping and advertising. 11.11.92 D. W. MANN, Mill Creek.

MONEY TO LOAN.

We have an unlimited amount of money to loan on approved farm security.
