The New York 'Homestead' publishes a complete exhibit of the world's supply and demand of hops for the current season ending August 31, 1893. The exact shortage of the world's supply is 3,500,000 pounds, which must be made up by the consumption of old stock.

It is now known to be a fact that there will be a new freight schedule adopted by the Union Pacific system east from Portland over the Pacific division. This will go into effect on the 28th.

What Pendleton now wants, says the Tribune, is a new freight schedule from the east and she and Walla Walla can get it if concerted action is taken.

The Dallas Transcript nurses its sore spot in the following language: 'Raley's portage railway bill should have passed, as it was one of merit, inasmuch as it was providing for an outlet of the products of a vast section east of the cascades.'

The Portland Welcome looks at it this way: 'The repeal of the indebtedness clause subjects to assessment nearly $17,000,000 worth of property owned by millionaires and heretofore non-assessable.'

The appointment of Judge Gresham by Cleveland is probably the first case on record where a president has crossed parties in the selection of his cabinet.

The Olympia senatorial muddle continues without any evidence of an end short of an adjournment of the legislature, which will be in another week.

Dr. Charles Page says in an article in the Arena that the prevailing treatment of typhoid fever by drugs, and feeding the patient, is like the playing of a stream of petroleum on a burning building.

CHOLERA'S THREAT.

Dr. Geo. F. Schrady, one of New York's sanitary inspectors, corresponding to the San Francisco Examiner, sounds the keynote of warning in the following timely article: In attempting to make prophecies it is safer to discuss probabilities than to challenge fate by positive statements.

There are four main propositions to be taken into account in reference to the appearance and spread of cholera. First, there must be the seed, the infectious germ, the comma bacillus.

Thirdly, we must estimate individual susceptibility to an attack from the disease, as it is well known that all exposed persons do not suffer even during the most virulent period of an epidemic.

And, fourthly, there is what might be called the epidemic influence, which has peculiarities and laws of its own, the true significance of which is not yet entirely understood.

With the fresh start of cholera with warmer weather, and its almost inevitable spread in new localities throughout Europe and Asia, it will be next to impossible to guard against an invasion of this country through the many channels which commerce and travel may open for it.

The only lines of safety would be in the direction of preparing to meet it by every means that will tend to prevent the growth of the poison and check its spread by making the condition of its development as unfavorable as possible.

But by far the most important problem, next to general quarantine, which presents itself, in view of the danger of cholera, is not personal cleanliness, but municipal cleanliness.

Every city in America ought to put itself through a 'spring housecleaning' this year such as it never knew before. No consideration of politics or petty economy should have the slightest weight.

If America and Americans keep clean and thus attain a high general standard of health—we need not fear a cholera epidemic. But if in the face of this seriously threatening danger, the laws of national, municipal and individual common sense are violated, we are almost certain to receive a punishment that will leave a black blot upon the pages of American history.

So far, Oregon has furnished six victims for the mortality record of those frozen to death during the winter, says a valley exchange. But those who have thus lost their lives were indiscreet hunters whose love for the sport led them up into the deep fastnesses of mountain forests, where unexpectedly they have encountered blinding snow storms and a colder atmosphere.

The president has issued a proclamation convening an extra session of the senate March 4. This action is probably taken at the instance or with the consent of President Cleveland.

Now therefore I, Benjamin Harrison, president of the United States, do hereby proclaim and declare extraordinary occasion requires the senate of the United States, to convene at the capitol, in the city of Washington, the 4th of March next, at 12 o'clock noon, of which all persons who shall at that time be entitled to act as members of that body are hereby required to take notice.

Senator Morgan of Alabama, who left New York Saturday for Paris where he will represent this government in the Behring sea controversy, said in relation to the Hawaiian question: In speaking of the Pacific ocean and our duty in connection with it, I still say that I do not want to see repeated what was perpetrated when we acquired our independence.

So, whoever is honest in making it, and works—not on his own reputation alone, but through the local dealer, whom you know, must have something he has faith in back of the guarantee.

Since its first introduction, electric bitters has gained rapidly in popular favor, until now it is clearly in the lead among pure medicinal tonics and alteratives—containing nothing which permits its use as a beverage or intoxicant.

Removing Carbonic Acid Gas.

I saw a curious method used the other day to take the foul air out of a well, says a writer in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. The well was to be cleaned, but the man that took the job was afraid to go down until he had ascertained the quality of the air at the bottom.

This reminds Linus Hubbard of the way he used to do it, which is more thorough. By tying a cord to each corner of a blanket and carefully lowering it the gas may nearly all be brought up at one load, or better yet, by framing the blanket to a round hoop about the size of the circumference at the bottom.

The Grant county News says: Coyotes on Grant county's southern border are suffering for food. Jack rabbits outrun them and escape over the crusted snow; rabbits remain on top while the wolves break through and howl.

Land and Improvement Co. Election.

At the annual meeting of the D. L. & I. Co. in The Dalles yesterday the following officers were elected: L. L. McCartney, president; J. O. Mack, vice president; T. A. Hudson, secretary; M. A. Moody, treasurer.

Mignonette Festivities.

The Mignonette club was not completely demoralized by the flash light photo of a week ago last evening, for a sufficient number had recovered to come forth last evening, when the time for the weekly meeting came around and pay their addresses to Terpsichore with all the ardor of the former meetings.

There's a good deal of guarantee business in the store keeping of today. It's too excessive, or too reluctant. Half the time it means nothing. Words—only words.

This offer to refund the money, or to pay a reward, is made under the hope that you won't want your money back, and that you won't claim the reward. Of course.

So, whoever is honest in making it, and works—not on his own reputation alone, but through the local dealer, whom you know, must have something he has faith in back of the guarantee.

What is lacking is confidence. Back of that, what is lacking is that clear honesty which is above the 'average practice.'

Dr. Pierce's medicines are guaranteed to accomplish what they are intended to do, and their makers give the money back if the result isn't apparent.

Doesn't it strike you that a medicine which the makers have so much confidence in, is the medicine for you.

A Leader.

Since its first introduction, electric bitters has gained rapidly in popular favor, until now it is clearly in the lead among pure medicinal tonics and alteratives—containing nothing which permits its use as a beverage or intoxicant.

A Pomona man had a house for sale for three years at $1,800, and never had so much as a nibble at the property. He constructed a lawn about the house, and did some painting, at a total expense of $31.

Mr. Albert Favorite, of Arkansas City, Kan., wishes to give our readers the benefit of his experience with colds. He says: 'I contracted a cold early last spring that settled on my lungs, and had hardly recovered from it when I caught another that hung on all summer and left me with a hacking cough which I thought I never would get rid of.'

Natural Process for Milling Gold.

A new process of free-milling gold works is in course of construction on the Lake of the Woods, in the province of Ontario. The mill and experimental adjuncts have cost $35,000. It is designed to treat ores by the same method that nature does, only it will perform in 24 hours' work what nature requires ages to accomplish.

Joseph V. Dory, of Warsaw, Ill., was troubled with rheumatism and tried a number of different remedies, but says none of them seemed to do him any good; but finally he got hold of one that speedily cured him.

Shiloh's cure, the Great Cough and Croup Cure, is for sale by Snipes & Kinersly. Pocket size contains twenty-five doses, only 2c. Children love it.
