Mrs. Hill-Terry.

Sarah Althea Hill-Terry, the "Rose of Sharon," whose beauty and cleverness once dazzled the whole country, whose every word was flashed across the continent, is now a hopeless, raving, aping, screaming maniac in the Stockton insane asylum in California, with thoughts about her ankles to restrain her from kicking her unfortunate mates to death. Physically, Mrs. Terry is about the same now as she was during the period after the assassination of Judge Terry. Her face is somewhat thinner and harder than it was then, but she is strong and hearty. She has changed so little in appearance that any one would recognize her instantly in a crowd. Her hair, which, by the way, has not changed the slightest in color, is quite long, reaching almost to the waist. Mrs. Terry wore a gingham wrapper, apparently fresh from the wash. Her face and hands, contrary to what might be expected from the reports that have been circulated, were as clean as the queen's.

The Telephone Line.

The county court has granted the franchise to The Dalles and Wamic Telephone line, incorporated by the Gordon company, on Feb. 28, 1893, in preference to the Roland Co. incorporated on March 8, 1893. The Gordon Co. propose to offer one half of the capital stock of their company to the people of the country traversed at par. This is certainly a generous proposition, and shows a good spirit. It is a well known fact that the telephone lines in operation in Eastern Oregon pay a dividend on the investment of over 100 per cent. per annum.

The new line will be 35 miles in length, touching at Dufur, Wamic, Kingsley and Tygh Valley. The projectors of the enterprise will commence putting in poles at once and expect to have the line in working operation by the first of June.

The Mignonettes.

Last evening the Mignonette Club paid court to Terpsichore, and managed to put in a very delightful evening. A large number were present who enjoyed dancing. The evening was a counterpart of the Friday evenings that have preceded since the organization of the club. There will yet be two parties and then the Mignonette Club will be among the things of the past. Among the members out last evening were Judge and Mrs G C Blakeley, Senator and Mrs Chas Hilton, Mr and Mrs L E Crowe, Mrs M French, Mr and Mrs D Herrin, Miss VanVleck, Miss Lay, Misses Etta Story, Jennie and Grace Marden, Almee Newman, Minnie Gosser, Emma Lay, Catherine Martin, Lulu Bird, Dr. Logan, Messrs M Jameson, H French, G Mays, S Campbell, F Garretson, G Snowden, J Worsley, F Faulkner, W McCrum, J Montgomery, M Donnell, J Hertz, J C Coatsworth, H Lonsdale.

Genuine Old Violin.

W. E. Fowler, of the First National, has in his possession in this city what is said to be a genuine old violin. He has had it tested by experts, all of whom pronounce it genuine. We had the pleasure of examining this instrument yesterday, and while inspecting it, the ninety-nine years of its existence, when brought to the realization of we poor mortals, can but make us feel how little indeed we are. The violin was made in 1794 by Perry, at Dublin, Ireland, and though not of a standard make, like the old Cremonas, is by far sweeter than the instruments of the present age, which quality makes it valuable. The violin is not for sale, as it was a present to Mr. Fowler several years ago by some friend or relative.

A Childless Home.

Smith and his wife have every luxury that money can buy, but there is one thing lacking to their happiness. Both are fond of children, but no little voices prattle, no little feet patter in their beautiful home. "I would give ten years of my life if I could have one healthy, living child of my own," Smith often says to himself. No woman can be the mother of healthy offspring unless she is herself in good health. If she suffers from female weakness, general debility, bearing-down pains, and functional derangements, her physical condition is such that she cannot hope to have healthy children. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a sovereign and guaranteed remedy for all these ailments. See guarantee printed on bottle-wrapper.

The Portland-Astoria Road.

George H. Pogram, chief engineer of the Union Pacific, is in Astoria. One of the local papers says: "It is currently reported that Mr. Pogram is sent here to examine the railroad situation and on his report the company will decide whether they will build to Astoria or to Puget sound the coming season."

A Tramp's Experience.

As the west-bound train drew up at the depot last evening a tramp was seen to uncoil himself from a brake-beam of the forward coach, fall to the track, and with an effort drag himself to the platform. Recovering sufficiently to speak, the man stated that to escape the rain and piercing wind he had forced his head and shoulders forward under the brake rod, burying his face in his hands. On attempting to resume an upright position he was prevented by the brake

CITY COUNCIL TONIGHT.

Special Meeting to Consider Sewers and Probably Board of Health.

A meeting of the city council will be held tonight to consider the matter of the sewer between Laughlin and Jefferson streets.

It is probable, also, that a board of health will be appointed, from the interest manifested at the last regular meeting. In reference to this matter a complaint has been made about privy vaults in the west part of town, which demands some sort of action, as it constitutes a great menace to the health of those who live near them. The ordinance relating to their being connected with sewers is all right, so far as the future is concerned, but the former accumulations of filth are not disposed of in the right manner, being simply covered up, and by the conditions of the ground are insoluble. When warm weather comes, the impurities will be brought to the surface and subject to the inhalation of all in the vicinity. It should be destroyed by chloride of lime and disposed of for good.

CITY COUNCIL.

The Question of Sewerage Occupies Most of the Special Meeting.

The meeting of the city council Saturday night resulted in the appointment of Messrs. S. B. Adams, Jno. Marden and Smith French as a committee to determine the rates of assessment of taxpayers for repairing the Washington street sewer. A legal opinion was read relating to who would be subject to assessment, and a list compiled by the recorder and street commissioner will be furnished the committee, comprising all who are benefited by the repair.

A general discussion was had about sewers, the opinion of the entire council being that the present sewerage of the city was far from satisfactory, and that the sewers should be extended and people compelled to drain into them. The mayor directed that between now and next regular meeting the council should obtain all the information necessary in relation to the matter, so that a well-defined policy of sewerage could be started and maintained.

The recorder was instructed to request The Dalles Lumbering Co. to plank under their flume where the road crosses, as at these places it is almost impassable.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Joseph Gehwindner Expires Near Dufur from Concussion of the Brain.

A tragical occurrence, resulting in the death of Joseph Gehwindner, happened at Henderson's ranch, about five miles from Dufur, Saturday night.

The deceased sent in for a bottle of whisky by a young man named Staats. The druggist, Mr. Balch, supplied it, after questioning and satisfying himself as to its intended use. It seems that Gehwindner has always borne a reputation as being temperate, but on this occasion was feeling ill and depressed, and believed himself to be in need of a stimulant.

Arriving at the ranch the whisky was delivered and drinking a little made him reckless and in a temporary frenzy he drank a large quantity of it. He then went out on the porch, and shortly after fell headlong face downwards to the ground for his full length. Those in the room soon came out and observing him spoke, receiving an inarticulate grunt in response. He was then gathered up and put to bed, snoring heavily. In the morning, when entering the chamber, he was found to be dead.

Coroner Eastwood was at once summoned from The Dalles, who empaneled a jury and in accordance with the facts, rendered the following verdict:

DUFUR, Or., March 12, 1893.

We, the jury empaneled by the coroner of Wasco county, to examine into the cause of the death of Joseph Gehwindner, found dead at the farm of Edward Henderson, on 15-Mile creek, Wasco county, Oregon, find from careful examination of witnesses and from testimony of the physician making the medical examination, that said Joseph Gehwindner came to his death by concussion of the brain, caused by a fall from a porch and striking the ground on his head; and that no person is in any way responsible for such fall or such death.

M. J. ANDERSON, W. L. VANDERPOOL, F. C. WADSWORTH, N. M. LATHAM, J. H. JOHNSTON, W. J. CRAFT.

Gehwindner has no relatives in this vicinity and his only effects were a bundle of papers now in the coroner's possession. One of them is the receipt for an application to send $100 to a brother in Austria for fare to Oregon, which amount will probably now be refunded to the county and used for burial expenses.

A Tramp's Experience.

As the west-bound train drew up at the depot last evening a tramp was seen to uncoil himself from a brake-beam of the forward coach, fall to the track, and with an effort drag himself to the platform. Recovering sufficiently to speak, the man stated that to escape the rain and piercing wind he had forced his head and shoulders forward under the brake rod, burying his face in his hands. On attempting to resume an upright position he was prevented by the brake rod bolt catching in his coat, the cramped position, small space occupied and the rapid motion of the train making an effort to extricate himself impossible. The man was almost unconscious on reaching Pendleton, through the blood rushing to his brain. When last seen, however, Mr. "Hobo" was hovering around the head of the train, with his eye on the "blind baggage."

Koshland Bros. Fail.

Koshland Bros., dealers in wool, hides and furs, the largest and oldest wholesale house on the Pacific coast, failed yesterday at Portland. The firm was one of more than twenty years' standing. The wholesale house, at 10 North Front street, and the entire warehouse holdings are now in the possession of the Bank of British Columbia, their only creditors.

Last evening Mr. Koshland made the following statement in regard to the failure: "My business is a total wreck. The trouble has been coming on for the past year. Everthing in our line has been on the downward tendency. We had a big stock of goods on hand which was sold at a loss. We were deeply in debt to the Bank of British Columbia, and as we could not hold up any longer we simply turned over to them our entire business, which will be sufficient to satisfy their claims. The bank is our only creditor, and outside of it we don't owe any man a dollar. Our losses in the fire at Boston a year ago were pretty large, and that hastened the precipitation of the trouble."

On His Muscle.

Colonel Frank J. Parker, editor of the Walla Walla Statesman, and L. C. Gilliam, a prominent republican of Walla Walla, had a short but rattling fight in the lobby of the Hotel Spokane Tuesday, according to the Tribune. Parker and Gilliam have always been the best of friends. They were engaged in conversation, when Gilliam referred to the inauguration of "the stuffed prophet." "What's that?" demanded Parker. Gilliam repeated the statement, when Parker exclaimed, "Grover Cleveland is now president of the United States, and you can't insult him in my presence," and grabbed a newspaper which Gilliam was reading and tore it up. Gilliam seized Parker and hurled him half way across the room. Parker was back in an instant and landed a vicious right-hand blow on Gilliam's eye. At this point bystanders parted the combatants. The affair was suppressed by the local papers.
