THE JUNE EXHIBIT.

Horticultural Society.

One of the most important features of the work done by the Oregon State Horticultural Society at its annual meeting held in this city last January was the forming of a floral adjunct.

This part of their work was quite as essential as any other branch, and while pomology, etc., are practically indespensible, yet this society could do no more laudable work than that of promoting floricalture. True, we must rely upon the former to supply our temporal wants, yet there are elements in our nature that may be nourished by feasting our eyes on things of beauty, such to elevate our lives to a higher moral standard. These beautiful gifts of nature come to us as messengers of love, peace, purity and rest.

Their commercial value also is of go small consideration. Neither should we the ex-governor. lose eight of the fact that they would become one of the leading factors in prowill stay over night in Pendleton, taking moting the growth and prosperity of our the morning train for Milton, where country, as has been the case in Califor I do not want office." they expect to continue their object of mia, by furnishing an incentive to immigration. society is giving it, an exhibition in June. The executive committee appointed by President J. R. Cardwell to manage the affairs of the department set vigorously to work to put into execution plans for a floral exhibit to be given in this city the present season. In consideration of the fact that the Oregon Pioneers hold their reunion on the 15th of June, it has been arranged to make the time of this exhibit correspond with their dates, continuing three days, from the 14th to the 16th inclusive. They have prepared Peter Richard Kenrick, archbishop of will complete their tour of examination a very liberal list of premiums which is as follows:

Our literary society adjourned last Friday evening to meet on the first Friday in September, next. The concluding entertainment last Friday, was a splendid play, entitled "The Fgyptian Mummy," The characters were remarkably well sustained, especially the mummy. The troup received the most firttering congratulations from the enraptured audience, and of the dramatist and practical tragedians who did the training, we would say "well done" etc.

Working Under Difficulties.

The Dalles Lumbering Co., operating The Irrigation Scheme of Dr. Blatock fifteen miles up Mill ereek, are prosecuting work under difficulties. They are logging while there is yet three feet of snow on the ground. Last night it snowed all night, and there was an 8inch fall of snow. In some of the canyons there is snow from four to eight feet deep. Regarding the report that they were to furnish lumber for thirtyfive cottages they say they would like to see the bills for same, but as yet have heard nothing of it.

A NEEDED IMPROVEMENT. Will Be Built Here.

A real estate firm in The Dalles gives it out as a fact that some Portland capitalists have been looking over The Dalles, with a view to erecting a handsome four-story brick hotel, to be located on the Vogt property, adjoining Fine Lard and Sausages.

A. A. Brown's grocery store. This is as good a location as can be found in the Northwest for a first-class hotel and many have wondered why The Dalles, in view of its commercial importance, has not had a hotel suitable to its demands many years ago. Pendleton, the handsome and queenly city of Umatilla county, owes much of its beauty and importance to its handsome hotels. The spirit of progression, now aroused, will do as much for The Dalles. The [pioneer buildings we have are not good enough for the present age, and located as they are, give passing travelers a poor idea of our city, which is one of the most beautiful in Oregon. All this is unfair, and the citizens and traveling public generally will welcome the advent of a new first-class hotel, built with regard to architectural beauty and convenience and comfort to guests.

Gold Mines on the Methow.

C. L. Richmond, whose home is in The Dalles, Oregon, arrived in Spokane last week from the Methow country, where in company with Theodore Cartright, For Sale on Commission. David Graham and son, he has spent eight months. Starting from The Dalles last season they went up to the Methow country and began prospecting and before snow had fallen last fall they had located 16 gold bearing claims on Gold creek, a tributary of the Methow, which flows into that stream about 20 miles above its confluence with the Columbia. Considerable prospecting along the veins showed them to be continuous and a

The ore carries a large percentage of antimony and Mr. Richmond is now in corrospondence with parties who are looking for such property.

Mr. Richmond thinks their Gold creek quartz claims are equal to any of the others and they do not care to sell, although they have had letters from several parties asking them to name a price. A portion of the coming season will be devoted to the quartz and placer properties and a portion will be devoted to prospecting the mountains between Lake Chelan and the Methow, where Mr. Richmond is confident they will find some valuable gold bearing lodes.

Ore, which Mr. Richmond left in our office, is from the Addaline mine and came from near the surface of an eight foot ledge. There are some 25 or 30 locations in the Methow basin, several placer properties and some valuable coal He land.

WHEEL TESTED

The large irrigation wheel built recently at Gilbert Hunt's factory in Walla Walla, a description of which was published in the Union-Journal, has proved to be a success. The wheel was manufactured for Dr. N. G. Blalock, of that city, to be used in irrigating his extensive fruit farm at Blalocks, Oregon. It was taken to that place last week, and Saturday it was tested and proved a success. The wheel was placed in the Columbia river and started. The water was raised to an elevation of 60 feet and then by the use of pipes was carried yesterday. He was "Fiddling" Bob over the land. The wheel raised 163 gallons of water per minute, with the one of their most popular ex-governors, current of the river only running at the rate of two miles an hour.
