IN THE STORM'S PATH

Twenty-One Lives Lost in Full View of Thousands.

IMPOSSIBLE TO RESCUE THEM

A Fierce Gale Sweeps Over Chicago Lake Front—Names of the Drowned.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 20.—Lake Michigan is being swept by one of the worst easterly gales experienced in years. The sea is running very high and all craft are unable to venture out of the harbor. A small vessel is ashore at the head of Juneau avenue. The worst feature of the gale is the probable loss of 20 lives by the washing away of a house over the crib at the terminus of the new water works tunnel. No men are in sight, and it is believed that they were swept away, but they may be in the air-lock below. Five or six men can be seen clinging to the machinery and timbers of the water works crib. The water is sweeping over them. It is thought that the others may be dead in the chamber below from the lack of air. The life-saving crew has been unable to render their assistance as yet. It is now known that twenty-two men went out to the water works crib last night. Unless rescued soon, all that may be alive at this hour must perish, as the crib is submerged by every wave. It is reported that five of the life-saving crew refused to obey orders to go out in the life-boat. The tug Stark left the harbor at 9:30 a. m., but was forced to return. The sea broke in the pilot-house windows, and cut Captain Chris Miller quite severely. There is talk of manning the revenue cutter Johnson and going to the scene. Captain Davis signifies his willingness to make the attempt if men can be secured to man the lifeboat. The small vessel ashore at the head of Juneau avenue is the Lorena. A tug is now on the way to the scene with a life-boat and men on board. She is making slow headway, and is fairly buried by the sea at times. The tug Welcome has returned from the crib. The life-savers found one man whom they rescued. He will probably die from exposure and exhaustion. As there are no signs of any of the rest, it is believed the twenty-one men are either swept away or dead in the crib chamber. The man rescued from the wrecked water works by the tug Welcome and the life-saving crew was so exhausted when taken aboard the tug that he was unable to speak. He recovered sufficiently just before being taken to the hospital to be able to tell those about him that his companions were all in the air chamber below the crib. It is believed they are all suffocated. Two bodies were seen floating around in the well of the crib by the life-saver who reached the crib. His name is Oleason, and he was badly handled by the sea while performing his noble work. Captain Peterson of the lifesaving crew, was badly hurt about the head. It was an anxious crowd that stood on the shore and looked at the crib this morning. The sight was the most awful one anybody in the vicinity had ever seen. Waves fully 15 feet high dashed over the crib with terrific force. All that was left of the crib was a couple of posts that supported the house and one of the pumps. The two large boilers, the engine, one or two pumps, the air compressor plant and the 20,000 brick that were on the crib had been washed off. Twenty minutes after the house was washed out of existence, the entire machinery, and whatever else the house contained that had been left, was lifted directly into the air, apparently by the combined force of the wind and waves, and everything was hurled into the raging sea, many feet below the level of the crib. One of the most pitiful incidents in connection with the disaster was the spectacle of the aged father of Engineer Dwyer pacing to and fro on the beach, vainly trying to see through the mist and catch a glimpse of the poor boys clinging to the crib. "Joe is home sick, good for him," he said, "but Mikey is out there, and I wish he was home sick too."

The following are known to have been in the wrecked crib: George Gregg, lockman; Michael Dwyer, engineer; John McBride, engineer; Eben All, cook; James Miller, William Priestly, Joseph McCarty, George W. Holly, William Presser, Joseph Pretzold, Gustave Lacomitz and Fred Spanner, miners. James Miller is the man who was rescued. The doctors say he will recover.

TO CLEAN SPECTACLES.

Use a Bank Bill of Large Denomination, and Be Happy.

It's the greatest idea in the world," said a guest of a St. Louis hotel, rubbing his glasses with a fifty-dollar bill, according to the Globe-Democrat.

"Now, I can't see ten feet without my glasses, and glasses have a tendency to become blurred, you know."

"Now, I have worn spectacles constantly for over twenty-five years, and I have, in a small way, made a study of them. A linen handkerchief does not clean them well, and a silk is always sure to leave a thread sticking to the frames."

"Paper is no account, as it leaves specks on the glass. Cotton is sure to leave a lot of lint behind it. Chamola is too thick, and kid don't do at all. I've tried them all, and I know. The thing to use, my boy, is a bank note; it cleans the glasses beautifully and leaves nothing behind it."

"Of course, it isn't necessary to use a fifty every time, but I happened to have this one loose in my pocket and I'm expecting a friend along in a minute and I wanted to make an impression. Yes, they say bills carry disease with them, but I ain't afraid much. I've never caught anything from them. You can use a one as well as a fifty, but use a fifty if you can; there's more money in it."

Nothing Funny About It. Somebody says, remarks an exchange, that a wagonmaker who was dumb for years picked up a hub and spoke. Yes, and a blind carpenter on the same day reached out for a plane and saw, and a deaf sheep ranchman went out with his dog and herd, and a noseless fisherman caught a barrel of herring and smelt, and a deaf hatter was tenderly deposited on a pile of hair and felt, and a forty-ton elephant inserted his trunk into a grate and fine.

My wife was confined to her bed for over two months with a very severe attack of rheumatism. We could get nothing that would afford her any relief, and as a last resort gave Chamberlain's Pain Balm a trial. To our great surprise she began to improve after the first application, and by using it regularly she was soon able to get up and attend to her house work. E. H. Johnson, of C. J. "Beauty without grace is a hook without a bait." That's what the French think. Whether it be true or not, there are many American women who do not even possess the hook—beauty and attractiveness are denied them. Why? Because they're languid, cross and irritable. They know not what it is to be without pain or discomfort half the time.

That's it; suffer in silence—misunderstood—when there's a remedy—Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—at hand that isn't an experiment, but which is sold, by druggists, under the guarantee that if you are disappointed in any way with it, you get your money back by applying to its makers.

A signal service to weak womenkind is the finding of lost health—the building up of a "run-down" system. Nothing does it so surely as the "Favorite Prescription." None like it!

For overworked, debilitated women, teachers, milliners, seamstresses, "shop-girls," nursing mothers—one and all are cured by it.
