"THE DESTROYER."

Eries Shortly after Capt. John Ericsson had built the original Monitor and her sister gunbouts he conceived the idea of inventing another vessel that would be able to demotish his earlier creations. With this end in view, he spent much his ideas, but, says Harper's Weekly, the old man died before he received any favorable response from the government Washington. The authorities, however. approved of the plan of the boat for the testing of the system, and the work was carried on by the Erisson Coast Defense company, under the supervision of Engineer V. F. Lassoe and others, who were closely associated with Capt. Eriesson for many years. Improvements in the boat were further made, and the vessel, aptly named the Destroyer, now lies at the Brooklyn navy-yard. She is 130 feet in length, with 12-foot beam; draught 10 feet, with a displacement of the tons. Her bow and stern lines are exactly the same, being straight and very sharp. The upper deck is low, with no rail, and from amidships rises a long superstructure with no openings, so that the vessel, if required, may run with upper deck At a distance of 33 feet from the bow a heavy-armored bulkhead, which is inclined at a vertical angle of 45 degrees, crosses the vessel. This is intended protection to the engines and boilers, and permits the boat to run toward the enemy bow on. Eight feet under water is the projectile, 27 feet 4 inches in length, and weighing 1,525 pounds. It is of steel, with a heavy bursting charge in the forward end, which is exploded by percussion cap. This charge is of 200 pounds, and diameter of the projectile 16 inches. A tube runs the entire length of the vessel just above the Leel, and is fixed with water tight gates at the bow. quired to propel the torpedo, the muzzle velocity of which is 548 feet per second. A series of trials took place near New York recently, and the results were extremely satisfactory. The mechanism of the gun showed no defects during the firing, and the report states that had a vessel 100 feet in length, with a draught of 20 feet, been stationed 600 feet away, 15 out of 20 shots fired would have struck her. The Destroyer is more effective than a ram, although the projectile has been termed "the detachable ram," for it is able to achieve similar results at a distance.

The midsummer number of "Tales from Town Topies" has just swept over the land with a cool breeziness that is very grateful to a warm and languorous public. It is a remarkably gay assortment of short stories, sketches, poems and wittielsms called from the New York society journal, and contains, lo addition to this olla podrida of reproduced material, a complete and original novel, entitled "Six Months in Hades," by Clarice Irene Clinghan. The story took the prize of $1,000 in a contest instituted by the publishers of Town Topics, and is a remarkably ingenious and well constructed tale. For a summer book with which to while away a lazy afternoon, "Tales from Town Topics" is peculiarly attractive.-Town Topics, 21 West Twenty-third street, New York.

GOLD MINES IN THE SOUTH. They Were Worked Quite Regularly Before the War. Few persons have any idea of the quantity of gold that exists in the western part of Georgia, South Caro-lina and North Carolina. The majoriity of these mines were known forty or fifty years ago, but have been abandoned. In almost every instance a very significant amount of ore taken from them has been used. A short time ago Mr. C. B. Warrand, of this city, visited one of the most interesting and valuable of these gold-bearing quarta districts at the foot of the Blue Ridge mountains on the banks of the Broad river, in York county, S. C., near Smith's ford, and he gives an interest-

The quartz ore was roasted on the spot to make it more friable and was then carted often for miles to some water power, where it was run through a primitive stamp-mill. With slave labor these mines paid well, though less than one-half of the gold was recovered, probably twenty-five per cent. of the free gold being lost; the pyrites or gold sulphurets were entirely thrown away, being considered worthless. Still, with cheap labor it paid, and thousands of dollars of gold were sent to the United States mints annually. Since the war a number of spasmodic efforts have been made to work the mines, which invariably end-The select committee appointed to ed in a failure. As a rule the carital employed was entirely too small and labor-saving devices were either beyond the means of the operators or were unknown at the time. Lately this state of affairs has changed and the brilliant success made at the Hale mine in Kershaw county, S. C., in working up daily hundreds of tops of ore containing only two dollars and fifty cents of gold at a cost of forty cents per ton, and recovering ninety five per cent of the gold by the core nation process, seems to have demon-On motion the recorder was instructed strated that with proper skill and modcient capital many low-grade ores can be profitably mined.
