Any Way to Get Them Here. A Seattle dispatch of the 19th says: The biggest seizure of smuggled Chinese ever recorded on Puget sound was made to-night by Deputy Collector of Customs D. A. McKenzie, who rounded up 32 Chinamen and one white man in a Northern Pacific box-car, which had been sealed and switched ready to be sent to Portland during the night. During last night the British Ina, of Victoria, whose history embraces several changes of name, quietly slipped into the harbor and approached the trestle where cars are switched to the big wheat warehouse and elevator at West Seattle, opposite to and three miles from the city. It is a lonely place, and the steamer safely unloaded her Mongolian freight, who, with C. Dilloway, a white man of Victoria, were stowed in the car. Today the car was switched across the flats to the main vard and scaled, but some railroad employes who were near the car heard voices, which made them suspicious, and reported the case to Mr. McKenzie, who forced the door of the car and jailed the whole crowd.

Insurance Companies Retaliate.

A dispatch from Albany states that Wm. Abrams, a wealthy farmer across the river, made arrangements with two alleged Portland bankers to sell his farm and also buy another. As a part of the arrangements he placed $1,300 in cash with $700 of their money to make up $2,000 needed in the matter in a tin box to keep until morning, when the transaction was to be completed. The box contained bricks in the morning. The men have fled.

Judgment by a Justice.

Attorney J. L. Story filed a motion before Judge Menefee this morning in the case of Myers vs. Godfrey, to recover half the value of a partition fence, to vacate the default judgment granted plaintiff Saturday. Attorney Riddell contended for the validity of the judgment on the proposition that a justice of the peace had no authority to vacate a judgment once granted. He was sustained by his honor, and the judgment is still in effect.
