"Dern A Dog, Anyhou."

The mayor's recent statement about dogs has awoke Cradiobanch into the following witty paragraph. Mr. Cradlehaugh overlooked one important fact that we will mention right here. The No. 2 Arrays 11:45 P M present debt of the city is $35,000, and the mayor is very anxious to liquidate it. A tax of $2.50 on each dog will pay entise city indebtedness. Mr. Cradlebaugh says:

Mayor Rinehart of The Dalles says there are from 10,000 to 15,000 dogs in that city that are unlicensed. We knew our neighboring town had a phenomenal crop of canines, but we were totally unprepared for the grand total as stated by the mayor. According to this there are three dogs and a pup for each man, woman and child. At one pound of meat per day these dogs would cat say 12,000 pounds of beef, requiring thirty head of beeves daily. We are forced to the beltef that The Dalles is a better town for butchers than for candidates for city office on the democratic ticket. We further timidly suggest to the honorable mayor that he obey the injunction to "throw physic to the dogs," and, as it were, curtail both species and number. Fifty thousand dogs are too many for one town, anybow. Strong out heads and tails, made into one longitudinal dog, so to speak, 15,000 dogs each four feet long, including tail, would equal a string of dogs, metaphorically speaking, 60,000 feet long-long enough to reach from The Dalles to Dufur, and that is too doggoned long a dog for any one. Oh, pehaw! Dr., give us a reduction, a special rate on dogs. Fifteen thousand dogs weighing say 30 pounds each, would make a grand total of 450,000 pounds of dog, 225 tone, not counting the bark, and its putting on too much dog that way, even for The Dailes. We believe the mayor was mistaken, that, metaphorically speaking, he has been counting his chickens before they were batched, and his estimate is made on possibilities. He is dealing in futures, and his statement is dog-matical. Anyway we figure it there is too much dog. and we—well we won't believe it. Besides, suppose that all these dogs' pants should give out at once, say in the dog H. Glocoff, Sec'y.
