including Entertainment and Customary Resolutions.

Hood River, Aug. 8, 1893.

pleasingly quaint U. B. church... The closing address by Shelley emphasized the work of the institute as well as that of the teachers in the school room.

That we owe it to the cause of education to organize a county normal institute... The teachers of Wasco county assembled, do hereby express a vote of thanks to the committee of reception at Caswell for good will shown to the excursion; to the United States for the use of their church and to the school board for the use of their school building; to Mr. and Mrs. Smith and the ladies assisting in the reception, and to the citizens of Hood River in general for hospitality extended; and to the Wasco county for giving space to the institute.

THE WEB-FOOT STATE.

Excellent Display in the Educational Exhibit at the Exposition. The most important features of the exhibit are the magnificent display of birds, now fully open and in the department of liberal arts are creditably represented. The most distant states are represented from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and of these no exhibit is more complete than that presented by the State of Oregon. Its specific features are numerous and many of them are of great value, and at once hold the attention of the passers-by. In the department of ornithology there is a magnificent display of all the game birds of the West, and many of them are mounted in the most artistic manner. There are also many mechanical drawings and illustrations of all the features of the school work through the State Agricultural Experiment Station and the Willamette university and their exhibits. The entire exhibit is a splendid tribute to the skill and ability of the teachers and schools of the Web-foot State.

tainly would wed if the right man came along. One working girl said she would take a good long nap the next morning instead of turning out at 6 o'clock. Half of the answers showed a longing for foreign travel, from which it becomes evident that about the worst thing that could happen to this country would be the enrichment of everybody. The other half make airy promises of charity and philanthropy, promises that would be forgotten in most cases if fortune should be thrust upon the persons making them, for nothing is more certain than the certainty that a person who will do nothing for charity and philanthropy when in moderate circumstances would do little if suddenly thrust into the possession of great wealth.

Perhaps the truest answer was embodied in three words—"I'd grow richer"—said one man who was either a philosopher or an exceedingly frank person. That is what nine-tenths of the rich people do or try to do, and that is what nine-tenths of the poor people would do if fortune's wild wheel were suddenly to lift them into affluence. Airy resolutions would wither as Jonah's gourd withered in the sand and the sun of the desert, and the deeper influences of human nature would make of these people just such characters as wealth has made of the majority of people when suddenly thrust upon them.

Crop Weather Bulletin.

WESTERN OREGON.

Weather: The past week has been cooler than the preceding week, the mean temperature being from 64 to 68 degrees, as against 65 to 72 degrees of the week before. Cloudy and cool weather prevailed on the 5th, 6th and 7th, with a sprinkle of rain in the northwestern portion and rain on the northwestern coast on the 5th and 6th.

Crops: Fall wheat and oats harvest continues and the general opinion is that both are turning out better than was expected. The most serious complaints in regard to late spring grain which will hardly make more than 60 to 70 per cent. of an average crop; possibly not that much. Excellent reports are rendered concerning the hay crop, both as to quality and quantity. The warm weather of ten days ago caused the fruit to ripen; and now the apples, peaches and plums are coming into market. The codlin moth and hop louse have been developed under the influence of the warm weather, and spraying is being generally resorted to. The hops have been remarkably clean so far this year and many growers hoped to secure their crop without spraying; but for clean hops spraying will have to be practiced. Grasshoppers are becoming numerous in Jackson county, and they are doing some damage. In parts of Douglas county some of the fruit is falling to the ground without apparent cause. The crop conditions are not all discouraging, rather the reverse, and as a rule the farmers are pleased with their crops.

Weather: The week opened with very warm weather; but the temperature fell on the 7th, since when it has been cooler; the mean for the week varied from 68 to 72 degrees, as against 70 to 78 degrees, of last week; a sprinkle of rain fell in the northeastern counties during the week; no other rain fall is reported. Crops: Harvesting the fall wheat, oats and barley is in progress in the Columbia river valley; east and south of the Blue mountains, haying is being finished, while grain harvest will not begin for two weeks yet. The warm weather was injurious to the late sown oats and wheat; but beneficial to the fall grain. There appears to be a prospect for a general increase in the total grain product, due to the increased acreage, though the yield per acre will not be up to that of 1891. From special reports it is estimated that Wasco county will ship 400,000 bushels of wheat, an increase of 100,000 bushels; the wheat is averaging 15 bushels per acre. Sherman county will ship about again as much, the average is 18 to 22 bushels per acre. Gilliam county will ship about one-half million bushels; in Morrow county the wheat is averaging from 8 to 15 bushels per acre, and there will be for shipment about 800,000 bushels. In Umatilla county the estimates are variable; but it can be said that fall wheat will average for the county 22 bushels per acre and spring about one-half that much. The county shipped in 1891, 1,800,000 bushels and this year will ship about two million bushels. No reliable estimates can be made for Union, Wallawa, Baker and the interior counties. The grain is not in such good condition in Union and Baker counties as it was two weeks ago; the latter two counties will ship about 800,000 bushels, possibly more. The hay crop is good throughout all the counties and the fruit prospects continues to be good.

The following from the Chicago "Prairie Farmer" of July 23d, is given to show what the Oregon Weather Bureau is doing to advertise Oregon's climate and crops at the world's fair.

"The Exhibit of Oregon—Quite a novel, interesting and attractive feature of the exhibit made by the state of Oregon in the agricultural building at the world's fair is the weather-crop bulletin of Oregon as it is telegraphed each week from Oregon, by the weather bureau and posted on an immense blackboard in the Oregon pavilion. This affords the inquirer an admirable opportunity to draw his own conclusions."

Mr. H. Glenn left for Portland this morning by boat to be absent a few days. Mr. D. M. French writes that his son Walter is better and in a fair way for recovery. Mrs. Hathaway departed for Portland this morning to visit friends and relatives in that city. The Misses Cushing left for a visit to the Cascade Locks and will be the guests of Mrs. G. P. Morgan. Mr. Wilber G. Kerns of East Portland arrived in the city last evening and will remain several days among friends. Mr. Prinz and family left for Shepherd's Landing, near the Cascades, for a short stay with Mr. and Mrs. Herbering. Phelps of Collins Landing was in the city yesterday. He informs us that the river has so far receded as to afford the use of the hot springs and baths at that place and that the camping is excellent for all those who desire an enjoyable outing. Misses Sula and Louise Ruch and Clara Story departed this morning for the seaside. In Portland they will join Misses Ettie and Auburn Story and Nona Ruch, from whence they will go to Long Beach and will be the guests of Mrs. J. W. and S. French. J. M. Huntington recently went to San Francisco with his little daughter for medical treatment of the latter, her intestines having become knotted and her health thereby rendered precarious. The medical term for the trouble is typhilitis. The operation was successfully performed, and in twenty-four hours she was well on the road to recovery.

Sotcliffe and family, accompanied by Miss Lowne, left this morning for an outing at Collins Landing and the hot springs at that place. Mr. D. M. French returned last night from Portland, where he has been beside the sickbed of his son Walter. The many friends will be pleased to hear that the sick youth is in a fair way for recovery. Advice just received from Prof. J. Stanley Brown, who is in Chicago, says he will be unable to return to The Dalles on account of the health of his family, who are very feeble. This will be an unwelcome news to the friends of the academy, as it was expected he would assume charge as principal of that institution for the ensuing year.

How Uncle Rhoads Raised the Market.

"Uncle" Rhoads Fish came in the office today and made us a pleasant call. He carried with him an empty basket and was in his usual excellent spirits. Uncle Rhoads' liver is never out of order, and in fact it would be as difficult to conceive of him minus his highly contagious laugh as without the generous quantity of flesh which makes his portly figure a fair sight for sore eyes at all times. He is not sensitive about his color, though Africa's sun never shone upon a darker skin. The hue of ebony is his, save where Father Time has commenced the bleaching process with his curly beard. "Well, uncle, what are you driving at?" "I'm working across the river now, making butter from twenty head of cows and selling it in town." "And how are you doing?" "Very good, considerin'." You see, grass is gittin' a little scant now, and butter ain't so plentiful as it used to be. So, there no sense in sellin' it at thirty cents a roll. I just told 'em that, and they said, 'how much do you want?' Forty cents ain't any too much, says I. That's all they was to, no arguin' nor nothin', they just handed it right out to me. When I work for a man I like to work right up to the handle. An' they ain't nothin' I can't learn, either. If I was put to work in the office here, I'd soon learn how to set up your newspaper. Some day I'll come in and watch your machinery work. I'm always interested in everything new and catch on to it without any trouble. But I must be going now. Well good day, and with a kindly flourish, he disappeared out the door. Uncle will always be a welcome visitor at THE CHRONICLE. Hard times will never pinch nor bile accumulate, when Uncle Rhoads' good-humored face is visible.

Last of the Peach Plums.

Mr. J. A. McDonald, of the Earl Fruit Company, was at Mosier yesterday and loaded two-thirds of a car of peach plums. The car will be finished at The Dalles, and sent east tonight. This makes the fifth car of fruit sent out from here by the Earl company, all peach plums, which will be the last shipment of that kind of fruit. The next fruit handled will be the Italian, Bradshaw and Hungarian or Gross prunes, the first of which will mature in about three weeks. There will be a large quantity of these for shipment, and the Earl fruit cars will be on hand for them. The experience of our fruit growers with the Earl Fruit Company has been highly satisfactory and better prices have been realized through their agency thus far than ever before.

Death of a Lilliputian.

Thursday last there arrived at Adams, reports the East Oregonian, an old man named Welch, with an unpretentious tented show. He had a bear, a couple of white owls and an attraction that really was a curiosity, a little woman who weighed 36 pounds, was 32 inches in stature, and had lived 33 years. Although a dwarf, she was not deformed in any manner, her body being proportionately developed. The little woman was a sufferer from sickness, and Friday night a hemorrhage occurred that caused her death. A somewhat sad and painful story then came to light. Her name was Miss M. L. Welch, and she was the old man's daughter. He had sensitively kept her concealed all her life until within the last two months, when, being no longer able to earn a livelihood, he was compelled to exhibit her. They left Idaho, where they lived, and had since been travelling. As the father, who is 70 years old, had no funds, the county authorities were notified and will take in hand the burial of the unfortunate little creature.

Mosier News.

Peach plums are being shipped from here with good results. It was a little cool yesterday and threatened to rain but this was about all. The corn growers would like to have had a good shower. We may be blessed with it yet. I wish to announce that there will be a campmeeting at this place, commencing Thursday evening, Aug. 10th. It will be held on Mr. Lamb's place near the Mosier creek bridge, a little over half a mile from the station. All are cordially invited to attend. IX.

Kingsley News.

Some of the Dufur sports were out on a hunting trip in the neighborhood of Kingsley yesterday. The tall grain is well filled. The yield, both in quantity and quality, will be above the average. Our genial postmaster, Mr. Kelley, is in Portland this last two or three weeks. We miss his smiling countenance. Harvesting has commenced in this neighborhood. There are several reapers running. The headers will start next Monday. Kingsley is feeling the effects of the dull times. The hotel and stables at this place failed to open their doors last week for want of patronage. So you see Kingsley is in the swim. The sudden change in the weather on Saturday from ninety degrees to sixty is very beneficial to the spring grain, which also promises well. The straw is short but very plump heads. UNO.

How Veragna Lost His Fortune.

"The Duke of Veragna a few years ago," said a widely traveled American, "was regarded as rich. He had a comfortable income and a large estate. It is not true that he gambled his money away at cards or other games of chance. He lost his fortune at the Paris Exposition of 1889. He opened an arena near the exposition grounds, and made preparations to give real Spanish bull fights on an elaborate scale. At first it drew fairly well, but after the first week he did not take in enough to pay half his expenses. The result was when the exposition closed the duke found himself practically a bankrupt. Having lost his fortune at one exposition I suppose it is only natural that he should endeavor to recoup himself at another."—N. Y. Press.
