A SMALL FAVOR.

PAT'S Funny Request Put a Stop to the Duel.

Although it is a familiar saying that an Irishman is always spoiling for a fight, still there is one kind of fighting to which even the brave sons of Erin are sometimes averse. This is dueling.

A certain Irishman, having been challenged to fight a duel, accepted the conditions after much persuasion on the part of his friends, who felt confident of his success. His antagonist, a lame man, walked on crutches.

When the place for the shooting had been reached the lame man's seconds asked that he be allowed to lean against a milestone which happened to stand there. The privilege was allowed, and the lame man took his stand.

The Irishman and his seconds drew off to the distance agreed upon, one hundred feet. Here Pat's courage suddenly failed him and he shouted to the lame man:

"I've a small favor to ask of ye, sor!"

"What is it?" asked the cripple.

Pat answered: "I could ye that ye might lean ag'in the milestone, and now I would like the privilege of leanin' ag'in the next one."

The laugh that followed spoiled everybody's desire for a fight, and the whole party went home without a shot having been fired.—Youth's Companion.

The Cascade Locks.

The J. G. & I. N. Day Contracting Company has a force of men grading for the extension of its standard-gauge railroad up Herman creek to where there is an almost inexhaustible supply of splendid rock for wall-building in the locks. Over 1,000 carloads, or perhaps 20,000 tons, of rock have been taken out at the old quarry and hauled into the locks. The company owns its own locomotive, which is one formerly used on the portage between The Dalles and Celilo by the Oregon Steam Navigation and Oregon Railway & Navigation companies, but has to run its trains over two miles of Union Pacific track. The Day Company's railroad, which will be about two miles in length, is remarkable for its heavy grade and sharp curves. The grade in many places is 6 per cent. One heavy or two light cars are all the empty flats the engine can pull up the hill with. They are loaded with 15 to 20 tons of rock, weighing from five to ten tons each, taken down the hill, one or two at a time, until a full train is made up, when they are taken to the locks, two miles west of the spur, over the Union Pacific road.

Work at the locks is progressing very favorably, considering the many stumbling-blocks placed in the way of the contractors through the general financial depression. The Days are pushing things with all possible vigor. The water is all pumped out of the pit, and a large force of men is now at work removing the mud and debris from the bottom. The work of building walls of the mountains of stone now cut will soon be commenced. The work has been kept back by high water.—Oregonian.
