A DISASTROUS WRECK

A Large Number Killed and Fatally Wounded.

AT THE MERCY OF THE REBELS

Preparing to Bombard the Brazilian Capital—A Fatal Stabbing Affray.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—At Kingsbury, Ind., on the Wabash road, 65 miles east of Chicago, the second section of a west-bound passenger train from Detroit to Chicago ran into an east-bound freight on a siding early this morning, wrecking both engines, coaches and sleepers. Engineer Green and Conductor Coulter of the passenger train, were among the killed. The engineer of the freight was injured. The accident was caused by a freight brakeman opening a switch to let the freight out of the siding after the first section of the passenger had passed, and just before the arrival of the second section. Twelve bodies have already been taken from the wreck and it is believed there are eighteen or twenty more.

At the Rebels' Mercy.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Advised early this morning from Rio Janeiro are to the effect that the city is still in the hands of the governmental forces, but surrender is momentarily expected. The rebel admiral, tiring of dilatory negotiations by the government, has ordered the decks cleared for action, the drums beat to quarters, and the guns shotted and run out. All eyes are turned toward the flagship, from whence the signal to commence firing is expected every moment.

Fatal Cutting Affray.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 22.—A frightful cutting scrape occurred this morning between negroes in which one William Doves, a cook, was fatally cut by his brother-in-law, William Harris, a barber. The men were on Sutter street, and called Mrs. Harris to them in order to have a talk. Doves, her brother, began to abuse her, and finally slapped her in the face. Harris pulled a razor from his boot just as Doves started to run. He was caught by his assailant, who, placing his arm around Doves' head, continued to slash him until Doves' hung limp on his arm, the blood flowing in torrents from four gaping wounds. At the receiving hospital a piece of the razor was found sticking in Doves' cheek bone. The wounds are undoubtedly fatal.

The Minister Was Guilty.

GRANTON, W. Va., Sept. 22.—The trial of Rev. J. Chenoweth before the Methodist conference, on charges of immorality, closed suddenly today. Chenoweth's counsel announced in open conference that their client desired to withdraw all defense and be allowed to withdraw from the ministry and membership of the Methodist church. This was granted. Chenoweth was formerly a presiding elder of the church, and was one of the most eloquent and distinguished ministers in this part of the country. He was charged with sustaining improper relations with a Miss Jennie Lloyd.

IMPEACHING GROVER

Senator Stewart, of Nevada, Is After the President Today.

WARM IN THE SENATE CHAMBER

Arraigns Him for Obstructing Legislation and Trying to Coerce Congress.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The president of the United States will be arraigned in the United States senate Monday for violating the spirit of the constitution in endeavoring to destroy the independence of the lawmaking branch of the government by seeking to coerce congress into the passage of the repeal bill. Notice to this effect is clearly indicated in the resolution presented this morning by Stewart of Nevada, upon which he announced he would address the senate Monday. The resolution declares the independence of the co-ordinate departments of the government must be maintained, and the use of power and influence by one department to control the action of another is in violation of the constitution and destructive to our form of government. The introduction of the resolution created a sensation, and discussion of the matter Monday will attract great attention, as it indicated the silver senators will divert the discussion in the senate to the alleged attempt of the president to control congress.

OREGON NEWS.

Threshing is progressing very slowly in Morrow county, owing to extreme wet weather.

The Prineville flouring mills are running on full time grinding the new crop of wheat.

Parties who recently crossed the Cascades say there is considerable snow on the summit.

Fort Klamath folks will have 2,500 tons of hay put up, with uncut grass enough to make as much more.

The state Normal school at Monmouth opened Wednesday with an attendance of 180, exclusive of the model school.

Sheriff Noble, of Morrow county, has commenced to force collections of 1892 delinquent taxes which amount to $1,800.

Captain Goodwin, for so many years police captain in Portland, died at Marblehead, Mass., Sept. 21st, aged about 70.

Two potatoes are being shown at Pendleton, which together weigh six and a half pounds. One is fourteen inches long.

Samuel Adolph, one of Salem's oldest residents, fell from his road cart Sunday and sustained injuries from which he died shortly afterwards.

The number of school children in the state of Oregon is 120,645; in the state of Washington 112,300. These are the results of the school census this year in both states.

Mrs. Governor Penneyer is at the world's fair, having accompanied her son Horace as far as Chicago on his way to attend the Lawrenceville preparatory school in New Jersey.

The National bank of Heppner has foreclosed a mortgage on 4,200 head of sheep belonging to Emmet Cochran, a very prominent stockman of Grant county.

W. W. Martin, the jeweler, sold a couple of the old pale yellow pure gold beaver five dollar pieces for $25. They were coined at Oregon City in 1849 and are now only rarely met with.—Salem Journal.

H. Ballou's hophouse, situated two miles west of Middleton, was destroyed by fire. He loses his entire crop of hops, about $8,000. There is no insurance. Mr. Ballou had the best crop of hops in this vicinity.

A little son of W. M. Pierce of Gooseberry was brought to Heppner Sunday, suffering from a badly broken arm. The accident occurred some time ago, the right arm being broken near the elbow. The bones were badly set and consequently the fracture failed to mend. It is feared the arm cannot now be saved, as proper medical assistance has been too long delayed.

Governor Penneyer received from J. W. Mullen of Roseburg two goblets of turned wood, one of oak and one of myrtle, and a match holder. These represent a new industry started in Roseburg and are the first articles turned out. Mr. Mullen said: "The oak represents the strength of the state and the myrtle the friendship that exists between the governor and the people."

William Graham, a worthless and brutal character, severely beat the parents of his wife in Portland, and then robbed the house, securing $85 in money, a gold watch and a rifle. The McDonalds are about 70 years old, and it is a wonder that they survived the treatment to which they were subjected.

Mrs. Graham was married to the brute in Nebraska several years ago, but separated from him there, coming to Oregon with her parents, whither Graham soon followed, making much trouble for them after their arrival here. He was arrested by the authorities.—Dispatch.

CLEVELAND'S INABILITY.

To Force a Vote—Democratic Protectionists at Washington—Notes.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 19, 1893.

Mr. Cleveland is slowly but surely finding out that there are some things which even a president with a powerful will cannot do, and one of those things is to compel the U. S. senate to vote upon a bill before its members get good and ready. A week ago the announcement was made that having become tired of the delay Mr. Cleveland intended to personally force a vote on the Voorhees repeal bill. Well, the vote has not been taken and there is no indication that it will be taken very soon. On the contrary, the indications are that it never will be taken, unless the senate shall adopt the change of rules proposed by Senator Platt, which would practically be cloture, and Senator Voorhees, who is Mr. Cleveland's personal representative on the floor of the senate, has publicly said that he would never consent to cloture. The silver senators have announced their determination to filibuster indefinitely to prevent a vote, and they are quite strong enough to do it under the present rules of the senate.

The democrats in the house have for the purpose of getting the bill repealing all laws authorizing federal supervision of presidential and congressional elections before the house adopted the most outrageous cloture rule ever suggested to a legislative body, a rule of which Representative Burrows truly says: "In the Fifty-first congress all that we ever did was to cut off dilatory motions. But now, if the capitol should fall down or take fire while the committees were being called, we could not even take a recess." If this unusual method had to be adopted by the democrats after a week's ineffectual efforts to get this bill before the house it is difficult to imagine what they will have to resort to before it is passed. The republicans in the house will fight it with all the means at their disposal, and republican senators may be compelled to use the silver question as a club to kill it.

THE BOMB THROWN.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—[Special to THE CHRONICLE.]—Never in the history of the senate since the famous impeachment trial of Andrew Johnson, has the senate been in such a turmoil as it is today. Said Benj. F. Butler in reference to the former: "For a title of these acts of usurpation, lawlessness and tyranny, King James lost his throne and King Charles his head, while we, the representatives of the people, adjudge only that if convicted by that higher court to which we shall send him, he shall be removed from office, the ambition to be again nominated to which has been the moving spring of all these crimes." On that occasion the tumult of applause was deafening, but today Senator Stewart has created a Babel of excitement. In his vituperation of a man for whom he has conceived so violent a hatred he knows no bounds, and accuses Grover Cleveland of the openest and most shameless effrontery ever offered to any assemblage of intelligent people. He said that Mr. Cleveland claimed the prerogative of dictating what congress should do on the silver question, holding threats in reserve if such should not be done. Such is a usurpation of power unwarranted in any country, democratic or quasi-democratic, and that Mr. Cleveland cannot yet assume the role of dictator. The senate is in a most turbulent state and all attempts to maintain order are futile.

Cleveland's Arraignment.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Senator Stewart began by referring to the recent centennial anniversary of the laying of the corner-stone of the capitol, when, he said, the president, with more than 100,000 high-paid government offices to bestow, with a veto power designed only for extraordinary occasions, backed by concentrated capital and a "venal press," turning to the senate wing, declared in menacing tones that if the representatives there assembled legislated in passion or prejudice or in behalf of sectional or selfish interests, the time when the corner-stone was laid or the circumstances surrounding it were not worth commemorating. This sentiment was cheered by a thoughtless multitude, and construed by a venal press as a rebuke from the president to the guilty venal senate. Stewart then quoted from the history of England as to the parliamentary struggle with the Stuarts. Coming to the present time, he charged that the president, in disregard of his oath of office, allowed the secretary of the treasury to violate the act which made the purchase of 4,500,000 ounces of silver per month mandatory, by exercising an unlawful discretion in purchasing a smaller amount. Stewart declared that at no time since Charles I. in either England or the United States, had any king or president openly and defiantly disobeyed a statute which he himself had declared mandatory, or allowed his subordinates to do the same thing. Was it not time to sound an alarm? If constitutional liberty was of any value, all should stand up and say to the president: "You have overstepped the mark; we cannot afford to have the laws of congress disregarded."

A DESTRUCTIVE BLAZE

Over One Million Worth of Property Destroyed.

BUSINESS PORTION OF ST. JOSEPH

A Hundred Men Have Their Escape Cut Off, but Rescued by the Fire Department.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 25.—A million-dollar fire is reported in progress at St. Joseph, Mo. One entire business block has been consumed. The fire is still spreading. The water supply has given out.

Townsend & Wyatt's big department store will be a total loss. Loss, $300,000. The Commercial and Carberry blocks are going. It is spreading to the Ranier-Shoup Crockery Company, the Commercial bank block and C. B. F. France's building. The loss will aggregate $1,000,000.

Among the buildings destroyed were: Ransom, Garrett & Brewster, shoes; B. F. Barnaby & Co., drags; S. S. Allen & Co., wholesale groceries; Daily News building. A rumor that five were killed by falling walls is denied by the police. Numbers were more or less seriously hurt. Over one hundred men were at work in Townsend & Wyatt's building when the flames were discovered. Their escape was cut off, but all were rescued by the fire department. The fire is believed now to be under control. The loss will be over $1,000,000.

Again the Whipping Post.

FREDERICK, Md., Sept. 33.—"Within 48 hours the sheriff will take you into the county jail, iron you to the whipping post and inflict 39 lashes upon your back with the rawhide, as hard as he can lay it on." This sentence was meted out to Daniel Jones, a prominent armer of this county, Thursday by Judge McSherry, of the circuit court. Jones was, a month ago, convicted of a brutal assault upon his wife which was prompted by insane jealousy. The woman was so severely injured that she was unable to appear in court. The sentence created intense excitement. Jones will be ironed to the grim instrument of torture, looking more like a crucifix than a whipping post, in the Frederick jail yard and publicly flogged. There's no appeal from this sentence under the old colonial law. The sentence is regarded by many men as exceptionally severe.

A Fiendish Deed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—One of the most fiendish deeds in the criminal history of the city was perpetuated here tonight. Soon after midnight a dynamite bomb exploded in a water-front boarding-house filled with non-union sailors, resulting in the instant death of three inmates and the probable fatal injury of seven more, while many sustained less serious injuries. The terrific explosion occurred in a house on Main street between Howard and Folsom, kept by John Curtin. The house was filled with non-union sailors, and it was Curtin's custom to secure berths for his patrons on ships employing non-union men. In this way he naturally incurred the enmity of the sailors' union.

The Result of a Feud.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—The scene of yesterday's explosion has lost little of its horror, save that dismembered bodies of the victims are no longer among the ruins. Everywhere in the neighborhood are evidences of the terrific power of the explosion. Two apartments occupied the front of Curtin's boarding house. One was the office and bar, and the other the dining room. Of these there is little left save a mass of splintered furniture and woodwork, broken glass and plaster. Beneath the spot where the deadly power was released is a hole through the sidewalk over five feet in depth. Had the force of the explosion extended upward in the same degree, the loss of life would have been appalling. A saloon and grocery next door were almost a wreck, and in the sailors' home across the street hardly an unbroken pane of glass remains. There seems to be but
