A very pleasant party was given by Dr. and Mrs. Hollister last evening in honor of Miss Mattie Hollister. A lawyer judge, postmuster general, see large crowd of The Dalles best young people filled the parlor of the hospitable residence and passed a pleasant evening in playing whist, interspersed by music and conversation. A delicious lunch was served by the nostess after which the ings, and yet very little has been printed prizes were announced. The score cards were daintily gotten up and were novel in conception. They were made from birch bark gathered by Miss Her maiden name was Matilda McGrain. Hollister while in Michigan this summer. The prizes of the evening were to a small town in Indiana while his very tasty. The head young lady's prize daughter was still a little girl. There was a pearl handle gold pen and the young gentleman's a copy of the "Bridge of the Gods" from the pen of that brilliant and too early lamented young author, Rev. F. H. Balch, who died a year or two ago at Hood River.

A Valuable Lantern.

A will written with a pencil on a shingle was once admitted to probate in the United States. The author of "Gossip of the Century" tells a story still more curious. Two British still more curious. soldiers, comrades, while talking over the chances of war on the eve of a battle, agreed that whichever of them survived the other should inheritall his possessions. To insure the carrying out of their agreement, they made their wills. As paper and pens were not at hand, they scratched their "last will and testament" on a horn lantern killed. The other man, in course of are many. Mme. Carnot leads a very time, returned to England, earrying with him the singular document. He took it to Doctors' Commons, where it was proved and allowed. Then it appeared that the poor fellow who had died in battle had, without hearing of under the horn-lantern will received the inheritance.

AN ADMIRABLE WOMAN. Personal Characteristics of Mrs. Walter

Q. Gresham. Walter Q. Gresham has been soldier, retary of the treasury, judge again prominent candidate for the republican presidential nomination, and is now democratic secretary of state. The guarded. But when the depression is newspapers have for many years de voted much space to his sayings and doabout the sterling woman who has been his faithful helpmeet since 1858, when she became Mrs. Walter Q. Gresham.

Mrs. Gresham was born in Louisville. Her father was a merchant, who moved Matilda met Mr. Gresham, to whom she was married when she was but eighteen years of age.

The giddy whirl of Washington society will have less attraction for Mrs. Gresham than for any other of the cabinet ladies. She is no longer young, and life with her has never been a holiday. Her idea has been the bee rather than the butterfly. But she is a woman of sterling sense, and, being the wife of the secretary of state, she will entertain in the manner which the inexorable unwritten laws of society pre-Mrs. Gresham is really a charming hostess. She is such a thoroughly domestic creature herself that she succeeds without the slightest apparent effort in making her guests feel perfectly at home

Mrs. Gresham is below the average in height, and her figure is as slender as that of a schoolgirl. She is not an ob trusive conversationalist, but is exceedingly entertaining after she warms up to the subject. Her hair is heavily tinged with gray, and her physical apearance would not seem to indicate that she is able to stand a protracted season of Washington balls, receptions, etc., but her past experience has taught her how to conserve her strength and she has done an amount of work in the way of correspondence for her distinguished husband that is almost in-

Mrs. Gresham believes that the social success of the present administration is beyond question. As she very aptly exprosecs it: "With a young and charmng woman at the head of society, and a number of young women whose husbands are in the cabinet, there is sure to be much to do, and every one prediets an unusual season of festivities.

THE FIRST LADY OF FRANCE.

Characteristics and Daily Life of the Wife of President Carnot.

Mme. Carnot is a brunette, with dark blue eyes, a pale complexion, delicately molded features, and hair as black and glossy as black satin, says a writer in the Ladies' Home Journal. with a rusty nail. The battle was sion is at once intellectual and charm-fought, and one of the comrades was ing. Outside of her official duties, which quiet and domestic life. She rises at eight o'clock, and her first breakfast, consisting of a cup of coffee and a roll, is served to her in her dressing-room. Until ten o'clock she occupies herself with her private correspondence, which it, inherited property yielding two always includes a letter to one or the hundred pounds a year, and the legatee other of her children, only her youngest son, Francois, who is at school in Paris, being at home. At ten o'clock she joins the president in his library and aids him in examining the voluminous mass of letters which arrives daily at the Elysee. Her thorough knowledge of modern languages and her intelligent and unfailing good sense make her a valuable assistant. The second breakfast, or lunch, is served at one o'clock in the breakfast-room of the palace and is usually a very simple repast. Guests are seldom invited to luncheon at the Elysee, as both the president and his wife prefer entertaining their friends at dinner. Lunch once concluded, Mmc. Carnot, on the days of state dinner parties or balls, gives andience to her chief cook. Then she drives out, either to accompany her husband to the opening of an exhibition, or the inauguration of some charitable institution, or to some other official function. The ordering and superintending of her tollet absorbs a good deal of her time, and is really one of her official duties, the dress of the wife of the ruler of state exercising a widespread influence over the commercial interests of France. Then she is interested in a number of charities, and drops in from time to time to see how her proteges are progressing. When M. and Mme. Carnot cannot dine alone dinner is served at seven o'clock. Every year about the 1st of July the president and Mme. Carnot go to Fontainebleau to spend the summer, taking up their abode in a wing of the well known palace. Their quarters have been scrupulously arranged so as not to encroach on the historic portion of the edifice, and in that manner the convenience of the tourists and sightseers that come to visit it is fully respected. It was Mme. Carnot who se lected, out of all the summer palaces that are placed at the disposal of the ruler of France, that of Fontainebleau, for she remains deeply attached to the spot where her childhood and girlhood were passed, and which is hallowed to her by the memory of her father to whom she was so devoted and helpful a daugh-

Even that notorious free trade champion, the New York Evening Post, realpion, the New York Evening Post, realizes where the shoe pinches, and it is candid enough to say: "Fewer men are earning wages, and the wages earned are smaller. Profits, too, are diminishing. FACTORY caused, not by actual loses in the past, but merely by apprehension as to the future, there is no reason why the removal of apprehension should not restore business to a normal basis." The Post appreciates the situation to a nicety, Let the present administration give notice that the protective tariff is not to be disturbed and the existing apprehension will at once be removed and business restored to the normal basis it has enjoyed for so many years under republican rule.

Among the incidents of childhood that stand out in bold relief, as our memory reverts to the days when we were young. none are more prominent than severe sickness. The young mother vividly remembers that it was the Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured her of croup, and in turn administers it to her own offspring and always with the best results. Speaking of money contributed to elect Mr. Cleveland, the nomination of James J. Van Alen, a son-in-law of William B. Astor, to be ambassador to Italy, is a direct result of certain large contributions to the democratic campaign fund. Mr. Van Alen is credited to Rhode Island, because he owns an establishment there, but he should in reality have been credited to Europe, where he has lived nearly all the time for a number of years.

of diseases start from a torpid liver and impure blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures every one of them. It presents them, too. Take it, as you ought, when you feel the first symptoms (languor, loss of apetite, duliness, depression) and you'll save your-self from something serious.

In building up needed flesh and strength, and to purify and enrich the blood, nothing can equal the" Discovery. It invigorates the liver and kidneys, promotes all the bodily functions, and brings back health and vigor. For Dys-pepsia, "Liver Complaint," Biliousness, and all Scrofntons, Skin and Scalp Dis-eases, it is the only remedy that's guaranteed to benefit or cure, in every case or the money is refunded.

About Catarrh.

Dr. West, accused of the murder of Addie Gilmour, says the girl was sent to him by a woman doctor, who had performed a criminal operation on the girl and then sent her to him out of revenge. West still asserts that he gave Miss Gilmour's body to two medical students, but refuses to name them.
