The Fifth Industrial exposition opened in Portland Wednesday. Harold Dekum Gil, the little grandson of President Dekum, pressed an electric button attached to a temporary post on the stage, started all the machinery in the building whirling, and thus the exposition was "opened." One day last week near Grass Valley, as a little daughter of C. F. Williams went out to the barnyard to turn out some sheep enclosed in a pen, she found a large coyote lying down among the sheep and some chickens that were there. The heavy rain the first of the month occasioned a serious loss to Jackson county fruitgrowers. Henry Jaquerson, a North Yakima hotel keeper, has been in Portland several days with his 7-months-old daughter, looking for his errant wife, who ran away with a young man named Fairbanks. Wednesday the unfaithful wife went to the Grand Central hotel, where her husband was a guest, penitent and begging to be taken back. Jaquerson was only too happy to take back to his heart the erring, contrite wife, and they are now enjoying their second honeymoon in their old home, which had been invaded by a human viper.

Some scientist has figured out that wheat from the time it is threshed will shrink two quarts to the bushel or 6 per cent. in six months, even under the most favorable circumstances. Hence it follows that 94 cents per bushel when it is first threshed in August is as good as $1 the following February. Corn shrinks much more from the time it is husked, 100 bushels of ears from the field in November being reduced to about 80. So 40 cents per bushel for corn as it comes from the field is as good as 50 cents the next March. Potatoes shrink so much that between October and the next spring the loss to the owner who holds them is nearly 20 per cent.

WITHOUT HIS BALANCE WHEEL.

Miseries of the Would-Be Gay Dog Whose Wife's in the Country.

When a man packs his family off to the country he revels in his secret, wicked soul over the thought that he is going to have a high old time, when he will make sure that there are still cakes and ale and that ginger are still hot in the mouth. This delightful delusion lasts about three days, according to the San Francisco Argonaut, or at most a week. He eats one or two crack dinners, prepared by an accomplished chef; the result is a parched throat, a headache and other premonitory symptoms of indigestion. He mingles in the gay and festive throng of which he was an ornament in his callow days; he is astonished to find how empty-headed the young men are and how stupid and vulgar the women. Is it possible that he ever enjoyed that sort of society? It gradually breaks upon him that he has outgrown the joys of the confidences and that he can no more relish the rather liberal jokes of Aspasia than he can eat candles. He drifts into his club, where he finds a lot of old fogies who say dull things in a dull way upon dull topics. He flies headlong from a friend who wants to discuss the tariff with him and takes refuge in his empty home, where he finds that the single servant who had been left in charge has drunk up all the sherry and forgotten to make his bed.
