A Miss Shelby of Portland has been selected to touch the button at the launch of the war ship Oregon. The telegram says it is the most fitting choice that could be made...

Though the money necessarily expended in keeping our rock crusher busy would return tenfold, it is perhaps at this time too great a burden to keep it employed indefinitely.

Somebody, a little cranky, says that the Oregon Press Association elected a Portland real estate dealer for its president.

While it would be a good thing to dispense with a share of our Chinese population, it would be wiser to adopt a preventative measure whereby our ports will be closed to immigration yet more undesirable.

The district fair begins tomorrow. While the times are harder than for many years, the best economy will be to patronize it liberally...

An Astoria minister said there was a place in heaven for all murderers, and the Herald man frets about it considerably.

ably. He says: If all the murderers go straight to Abraham's bosom, as the Astoria agents of the Lord say they will, then the editor proposes to immigrate to the other place.

THE CHRONICLE has had occasion in the past to warn the people that forest fires are responsible for the diminution of the rainfall. Confirmation comes today in the shape of "Forest Influences," printed by the department of agriculture...

Washington City places a high premium on morality. It is related that when Representative Breckinridge addressed the house recently, at the beginning of his speech there was a general rustle of sensation in the air.

Another good display of grains is by W. J. Davidson of Enderby. He has four varieties of wheat and two of oats, besides many different samples of peas, meadow grass, etc.

THE MARKETS.

Effects of the Storm Observable in Trade—Wheat Drops a Peg.

TUESDAY, Oct. 10.—The storm has had a paralyzing effect on business and consequently trade has been very light and quiet.

The produce and provision market is fairly steady. Eggs are still firm and scarce.

Extra fresh butter has a better inquiry, but quotations have not changed.

Vegetables continue to arrive freely, with a downward tendency in some kinds.

Fruits, especially dried, have declined and will rule low on account of the abundant fruit product yield during the year.

The poultry trade is light, and the offering is still lighter and prices remain steady at old quotations.

The grain market is exceedingly dull, the rains have checked the movement, and what has found its way to market has been put on storage.

An exhibit of field and garden seeds by H. C. Bateham of Hood River is a very complete collection.

Mrs. Stroud has eleven varieties of home made jelly, which remind one of Keats' exquisite line "loosened syrups tinct with cinnamon."

THE FAIR OPENS.

A Fine List of Exhibits—Cora J. Wins the Quarter Mile Dash.

The fifth annual meeting of the Second district fair began today. The weather, which has been rainy and threatening for several days, cleared away and the sunshine in a fairly decent manner.

During the forenoon a CHRONICLE reporter made a tour of the pavilion. Although it was early in the day and farmers from out of town had not time to arrive, many exhibits were already in place and more continually arriving.

Joe Southwell one of Wasco's staunch farmers, has fairly moved his ranch into the pavilion. A hasty examination of the exhibit showed monstrous pumpkins, cabbages that made the table weaken and beet.

Another good display of grains is by W. J. Davidson of Enderby. He has four varieties of wheat and two of oats, besides many different samples of peas, meadow grass, etc.

Passing to the fruit displays, the first exhibit noticed was that of Mr. L. A. Sandoz, whose place is on Mill creek. His exhibit comprises sixty-four different varieties of apples, and occupies a table twenty feet long.

A. D. Bolton of Boyd has a very creditable display of apples, pears, pumpkins and squash. He has twenty-four varieties of apples, the names of some of them being unknown.

On the middle table Peter Mohr of Hood River has his exhibit. All that has been said of the others can be said of Mr. Mohr.

All the floral displays were not yet completed at the time of this writing. Mrs. S. B. Adams has a very full collection of plants. One especially noticeable was a water hyacinth.

Mrs. Marquis and Miss Snipes have also good exhibits; the former showing among other plants a genuine Canada thistle, and the latter displaying lilies and tube roses.

An exhibit of field and garden seeds by H. C. Bateham of Hood River is a very complete collection.

Mrs. Stroud has eleven varieties of home made jelly, which remind one of Keats' exquisite line "loosened syrups tinct with cinnamon."

Twenty-nine jars of jelly make an excellent display by Miss Alice Roberts.

In the dairy display Mrs. Marquis has fresh dairy butter and samples of packed butter.

Miss Effie Adams, 11 years old, has samples of bread; one made from potato yeast, and one from hop yeast; also soda biscuits.

Edith Randall, under 16 years, exhibits samples of fruit butter.

In the ladies fancy work Miss Snipes has a very fine display, consisting of crocheted work, linen tidy, fancy work, braided rug and knit shawl.

Mrs. S. B. Adams has a monument of shells and mosses collected from all parts of the world.

A. A. Cown of Woodburn has an exhibit of sea shells.

Many displays are arriving continually and the pavilion will be well filled by the time the fair is under way.

The judges this afternoon were Hon. F. P. Mays, John Marden and G. J. Farley.

S. B. Adams is chief marshal with George B. Reed and Jack Meins as assistants.

Pool selling was light today as the sporting men wished to know how the horses ran before placing money on them.

All the space in the pavilion will be taken before tomorrow morning, so those who wish to make exhibits should hurry in their applications.

Entries in the fancy work department not noticed above include 23 pieces of fancy work by Mrs. R. F. Gibbons and fancy and Mexican drawn work by Mrs. W. E. Garretson.

The band will play tomorrow afternoon and all succeeding days so the long waits between races will be made bearable by music.

In the live stock exhibit already on the ground was especially noticed a pair of roosters by D. H. Roberts, a big bull by W. H. Lockheed, a Clyde stallion, weight 1760 pounds by T. W. Glavey.

HER BABY.

I have a friend of school-girl days, These days of July, Whose was a most entrancing grace Her baby boy.
