Our yachting visitors have met at a grand banquet in New York City, previous to their departure for home, and victors and vanquished have been toasted and feted, leaving everyone connected with the international races in a supposably amicable frame of mind. In this connection it may be interesting to note something of the personality of Lord Dunraven, who will shortly sail across the broad Atlantic for his Irish home. We are intebted to the October McClure's for facts related. He is 52 years old. His father wrote a book on is satisfactory to the people. Irish architecture, which is generally recognized as the standard work on the subject. His mother was a daughter of Sergeant Goold, the eminent Dablin lawyer. Lord Dunraven was prominent in journalistic circles some years ago such American papers as the New York raised than are raised in Oregon. Times and World. For twelve years or more he crossed the Atlantic annually and travelled in the states, Canada, Nova Scotia and New Foundland. He was the first private individual to investigate the Yellowstone region and wrote ing independent incomes. Lord Dunraven's yachting may be said to date from his college days. Then being done. There will probably not formerly. he purchased a small sloop from a be any power vested anywhere to hastily Cardiff pilot called the "Cripple," and cut off proper debate, for there is no very funny are some of the adventures question that discussions do at times time to time. From this time till 1887 ought to be something done to fix a he took but little interest in yachting, but was again interested in it when he ure. built the "Irex." The yacht was a fallure, but he persevered. The next wacht he built was the first Valkyrie. Songest on record (thirty-eight and one-Lord Dunraven took her to the Meditterranean, where, after winning every race she sailed in, she was sold to the Archduke Carl Stephan. He then built the L'Esperance, and then the present Valkyrie. While she is a great improvement on anything ever built in England she was easily outsailed by the Vigilant.

Lord Dunraven is very energetic and a tireless worker. He has held a high place in the house of lords and his casties and manor houses and old estates are very fine. He is given the name of the model landlord, being very kind but is a preventive of the demonstrization cents per roll, in brine or dry salt we and generous to his tenants, by whom of gold. The crisis is near at hand in the senate. Compromise is given up and we closed to prevent blindness. The habit centrated to force a vote as soon as poswhile. This means the passage of the repeal bill, and if so the country is to be congratulated. Such may be applied in many cases. People go on from day to day, having all the symptoms of a disordered liver, such as loss of appetite, foul tongue, sour stomach, heartburn, fullness after meals, bad taste in mouth after rising in the morning, headache, nausea, vomiting, dull pain through the eyes, biliousness, etc. Does any of this strike you? If so, take time by the forelock and seek relief. Dr. Grant's Cloalo will be found invaluable and will remove any or all of the symptoms enumerated. It is gentle in its action, no purging, and one bottle No other president has been so closely will make you feel like a new being.
