THE OPINION IN OHIO.

Ohio has "lack of confidence in the administration." Men are out of work; times are hard; a severe winter is predicted, and people "fear the worst."

In the far west, on the Pacific Coast, conditions appear to have been less changed, but in Oregon "people are afraid to make improvements."

The Midway freaks are the worse for wear now, with frost on the ground. Most of them were sorry they did not bring their clothes with them.

Under the free trade party's idea of a new tariff, the price of sugar will be increased 25 or 30 per cent., also their tea and coffee.

Prendergast's trial for the murder of Carter Harrison began today in Chicago. It is a very sensible proceeding to try him as soon as possible.

Thanksgiving day has always been regarded as a national holiday, and the last Thursday in the month of November.

THE ELECTIONS TODAY.

Full state tickets will be elected today in New York, Ohio, Massachusetts and Iowa. Maynard is the democratic candidate for governor in Ohio, and it will be interesting to note the result, as his election would be a victory for David B. Hill and the machine method of steering politics.

What has the monkey to tell us, anyway, that we should learn his language? And why would it not be of more practical benefit to consume with the wild geese, that we may more accurately determine their weather prognostications?

Emile Zola continues to advocate his pet theory that work, constant and vigorous, is man's chief aim. Tolstol however has written a review article attacking the French realist's position.

The tide is now at its flood in the matter of erecting a cold storage warehouse at this point, and should be taken ere it recedes. A gentleman is in town who announces his intention of putting in $10,000 in a plant of this kind, and wants our townspeople to take hold of it.

The administration, it is understood, is in possession of information that a number of European countries represented at Rio are giving encouragement to Admiral Melio and his followers to incite domestic strife in Brazil with a view to the overthrow of the republic.

Matchmaking mammas with eligible daughters may learn something of interest in the success of a woman who went from Kansas down into the Osage Indian country several years ago. Within the past year, according to the Helena Independent, she has married off four grown daughters, all to Osage Indians, and as soon as a divorce suit, which she has pending against her husband is decided, she will take to her heart a red blanket member of that tribe.

Melilla, the Spanish garrison besieged by the Moors, sits upon a rocky peninsula which juts out into the sea. It has been a Spanish garrison since 1653. Lual Hassan, sultan of Morocco and leader of the Moorish army, has for his lieutenant a canny Scotchman, Captain Alan Maclean. His troops are well armed with modern rifles, and he has a fair showing of artillery.

THE MARKETS.

Prospects Not Flattering at Present for a Revival of Trade.
TUESDAY, NOV. 7.—Business in the city is unusually quiet for the season of the year. It was hoped better times would follow the harvest, but the early fall rains coming on a belated ripening season, caught a very large per centage of the grain uncut, and that which had been harvested was poorly stacked and the result was a disaster to the producer by a nearly total loss of the crop.

Prices continue unchanged in all lines of merchandise. Sugar has had a weakening tendency on the market, owing to the large amount of China sugar on the coast. Coffee, while quotable at the old rates, is very firm, and an advance may be looked for in the near future.

Poultry is off in quotations. Spring turkeys are quoted at $1.50 per dozen and old at $2.25 per dozen. Turkeys in moderate arrival and sell at 8 and 9 cents per lb, un-dressed. The live stock market remains steady.

The grain market is as dull and unsatisfactory as formerly. Foreign and eastern advices are still under the control of the bears and there is no change to note.

CATTLE THIEVES SENTENCED.

Ed. Henderson Given Away by Pals and Revenues Himself.

The Waterville, (Wash.) court adjourned last Wednesday after a nine days' session. In the case of the State vs. Thomas and James Pearson, on a charge of cattle stealing, the jury rendered a verdict of not guilty and the prisoners were discharged.

O. P. Donnell was given a sentence of one year in the penitentiary on the charge of cattle stealing, to which he pleaded guilty.

Edward Henderson saved his bacon by turning state's evidence. He was permitted to plead guilty to petty larceny and was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail and a fine of $100. Henderson was the real leader of the band of cattle thieves, and came nearly being captured a few months ago near The Dalles by Deputy Sheriff Jackson.

No Use Entering Patented Lands.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, GENERAL LAND OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 31, 1893.
Sirs—With letters of the 16th inst. you transmitted the applications of the following-named persons to enter the tracts described, respectively, together with their appeals from your rejection of said applications.

The records show said tracts to have been patented to The Dalles Military Road Company, under the grant of February 25th, 1867 (14 Stat., 409), and it was on account thereof that you rejected the said applications.

There is no dispute as to the facts, but the applicants contend that the tracts in question are government land. Having been patented as aforesaid, the title to these tracts has passed out of the United States, and so long as such title is outstanding, the lands in question are not subject to entry or disposal by the United States.

MITCHELL NEWS.

The Usual New Year Letter From Crook County.

The Chronicle visits us but seldom. The 23d snow fell to a depth of several inches within five miles of this place. On the 17th, born to the wife of Chas. Flock, a daughter.

On the 21st, to the wife of P. B. Nelson, a son, weight twelve pounds. Mr. Nelson thinks he will get him a new suit of clothes, his present suit being too small by several sizes since the coming of his son and heir.

Miss Pearson of Prineville made her friends in Mitchell a visit of more than a week. Several entertainments in her honor were some of the pleasures of her visit.

It might be well if the school board of directors would call a meeting and investigate as to the cause of regularities or irregularities of scholars or teacher. Surely it is the direct right and imposed privilege of the directors to control or regulate the department of our schools to the benefit of teachers and scholars; but if all interest is lost to directors, and teachers only hold the school at its money value, what can we expect of our scholars.

At a special meeting of the common council of Dalles City the following preamble and resolutions were adopted: WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst Dr. W. E. Rinehart, mayor of Dalles City, and

WHEREAS, The intimate relations long held by the deceased with the members of this council, render it proper that we should place on record our appreciation of his services as mayor and his merits as a man. Therefore be it Resolved by the common council, That while we bow with humble submission to the will of the Most High, we do not the less mourn the death of our mayor.

Resolved, That in the death of Dr. W. E. Rinehart, who was always alive and fearless in his work as mayor, prompt to advance the interests of the city, devoted to its welfare and prosperity, one who was wise in counsel and fearless in action, an honest and upright man whose virtues endeared him, not only to the council but to all his fellow citizens.

Resolved, That this council tender its heartfelt sympathy to the family and relatives of our deceased mayor in this, their sad affliction.

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered upon the records of Dalles City and that a copy of them be sent to the family of our deceased mayor.

G. C. EDELMAN, PAUL KREFT, CHAS. LAUER, Committee on Resolutions.

In Memoriam.

WHEREAS, This lodge has been called to mourn the loss of our esteemed and highly respected brother, Dr. W. E. Rinehart, it is only fitting that we who remain should bear tribute to the memory of our deceased brother for his many good qualities, therefore,

Resolved, That by the death of Dr. W. E. Rinehart, Temple lodge, No. 3, A. O. U. W. has been deprived of a true and faithful brother Workman, whose place among us will long remain unfilled.

Resolved, That we tender to the family of our deceased brother our earnest expression of sincere sympathy in their hour of bereavement and trial.

Resolved, That the charter of this lodge be draped in mourning and that these resolutions be spread upon the records and a copy be sent to the family of our deceased brother.

Yours submitted in C. H. and P. GEO. G. GIBSON, J. F. SREDAKER, L. RORDEN, Committee.

THEODORE LIEBE SHOT

By an Employee Named Hess, Who Then Kills Himself.

Judge Liebe of The Dalles received the painful news about 1 o'clock that his brother Theodore had just been shot by a man named Christian Hess, and could live but a few minutes. He hastened to the telegraph office and after sending an answer received the following, dated 1:11 p. m.

Brother Theodore shot in the neck by Hess. Not necessarily fatal. Hess shot himself dead. Come down.

Hess was an employee of Mr. Liebe, who was suspected of holding out money received for purchases. The store was the Portland German bakery, over which Mr. Liebe presided and did a thriving business, nine wagons being busily employed. In pursuance of these suspicions Mr. Liebe employed a detective some months ago to watch Hess, who found that up till 3 o'clock he had not showed a cent in the register. He was arrested and pending his trial was out on bail. Today about 12 o'clock he met Mr. Liebe in a butcher shop and without any warning sent a bullet after him, which took effect in his neck. Mr. Liebe fell, and the would-be assassin thinking he had killed him, turned the weapon upon himself with fatal effect.

Theodore Liebe resided in The Dalles for six years, moving to Portland in 1874. He is 47 years old, eleven years the junior of George Liebe of The Dalles.

Accident at Keno.

The pretty 4-year-old daughter of W. T. Shive of Keno met with a shocking accident last Friday morning, the effects of which the child may carry for the rest of its days. The mother had built a fire in the sitting-room and then proceeded to the kitchen to prepare the morning meal. The fire became low and the little girl, who had been left alone, picked up the powder-horn and emptied its contents into the stove. A heavy explosion occurred. Mrs. Shive rushed into the room and found it filled with smoke. Groping about she found her daughter lying senseless on the floor, its face and hands painfully burned. The little one was restored to consciousness and soothing lotions applied to the burns. While not seriously injured the powder burns may leave ugly scars.—Klamath Express.

A PROFESSIONAL ANIMAL.

Man's Love of Parading in Company with His Fellows.

Propos of a recent procession the Boston Transcript remarked: "Man is a professional animal. Whether he be high or low, rich or poor, it is his delight to array himself in long rows and unwieldy garmenture and to walk through miles of streets with swelling breast and more or less of martial step." This certainly is a curious thing, says the Rochester Post-Express. No other animal, so far as we know, is fond of walking in procession with his brothers. To be sure, when embarking in the ark, "the animals marched in two by two, the elephant and the kangaroo" (according to an apocryphal version), but the chances are that Noah and his sons drove them in. Sheep play "follow the leader," but they have no more system in their order of marching than birds have in their order of flying, and no more resemble a "procession" than does an excited flock of schoolgirls. But as soon as we get among men the fondness for marching is universal. In all nations and in all times men have marched in orderly array, have kept time to the beat of music, and with head erect and glorious pride have rejoiced in their professional. They cannot get over it. They march and drill when there is no use or purpose in it. Even men who renounce the world to live lives of peace and holiness cannot resist the temptation to march. In orderly array they sing their chants in solemn double or single file they march from cloister to chapel and back again. It seems to be natural to us, too. The smallest baby coos and claps its hands at a procession—or a funeral, which is the same thing—and as soon as the child is able to walk he beats his drum and waves his flag and marches in an imaginary row.

Perhaps some philosopher can explain this remarkable, this almost insane appearing tendency. Possibly it was our predisposition to maintain in large numbers, obedient to a single head, that gave us our power over non-marching animals; it may be one of our instinctive means of self-preservation, just as our ability to laugh, to see a thing from a humorous standpoint, is a greater assistance to us in overcoming all mental annoyances without becoming absolutely morbid or insane. By the way, one of the scientific definitions of man is "a laughing animal;" another might be "a professional animal." Neither is very dignified or elevated, and yet we are sure that we are higher than the beasts, who neither laugh nor walk in solemn rows.
