Killed His Wife, Another Woman and Himself.

WAS DIVORCED FROM HIS WIFE

A Boy Frightens His Little Sister to Death—Minor News

Notes.

KANKAKEE, Ill., Nov. 24.—Jesse D. O. Smith, a former merchant of this city, murdered his divorced wife and Mrs. Graybill this noon, and then shot himself. Both women were shot through the heart; death was instantaneous. Smith shot himself in the head, but the bullet glanced, injuring him slightly. He then went to his boarding house, and shot himself through the right temple just before the sheriff arrived. Jealousy is supposed to be the cause. The divorced woman and Mrs. Graybill lived together.

Frightened His Sister to Death.

NEW BRUNSWICK, Nov. 24.—Twelve-year-old Mary Powell, of Prospect Plains, this county, went to the cellar last night, and while she was ascending the stairs her brother made a mournful sound and slammed and locked the door. The girl screamed in terror, but the boy kept her locked in. All at once the woman ceased, and when the door was opened the girl was dead. A physician who was summoned said her death was due to the shock produced by her fright. The brother, who is thus apparently responsible for her death, is ill from remorse.

Killed With a Marble.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 24.—Arthur Turner, aged 10 years, was shot and almost instantly killed yesterday afternoon by John Vetta. The latter had a gun loaded with powder, into which he put a marble. Turner stood behind a tree and dared his companion to shoot. Vetta pointed the gun and fired, the marble striking Turner in the middle of the forehead. He walked about 50 feet and fell dead. The ball fractured his skull. Vetta was arrested, but Coroner J. D. Bower released him, believing that the shooting was accidental.

GIRESHAM CRAWFISHES.

Blames Cleveland for the Hawaiian Mess.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—The Daily News' Washington special says: "Gresham has attempted to absolve himself from all responsibility of the administration of the Hawaiian policy. In conversation with a personal friend he stated he had nothing to do with framing the policy which was inaugurated by 'paramount' Blount, and which is sought to be enforced by Minister Willis. The secretary stated that before he was invited to his seat in the cabinet Cleveland had formulated his Hawaiian policy; that he had declared the dethronement of the queen unjust and his determination to re-enthroner her; that the president, without consulting the secretary of state, determined upon the appointment of a special commissioner, and selected Blount without the knowledge of the secretary of state, and, in fact, the latter officer scarcely knew Blount at sight at that time. The secretary of state said further the instructions to Blount, also those to Willis, were prepared at the white house. The intimation is made by him that he scarcely knew at the time of Blount's departure for Honolulu what his instructions were, for they were not only prepared at the white house, but delivered by the hand of President Cleveland."

An Italian Republic.

ROME, Nov. 27.—In the highest and most reserved circles it is said to be well known that the present dream of the Vatican is the establishment of a federal Italian republic. This idea is the only real explanation of the extraordinary language adopted by vatican organs in speaking of the mission of France and Russia with relation to the papacy.

Laughed Himself to Death.

LAUREL, Md., Nov. 27.—Wesley Persons, an aged and well-known farmer, while joking with friends yesterday, was seized with a spell of laughing, being unable to stop. He laughed for nearly an hour, when he began hiccupping, and two hours later he died from exhaustion.

Max Praeit of Ashland received the award at the world's fair for the finest punches.

A big thanksgiving dinner is to be given the newsboys and messenger boys of Portland.

It is reported that J. G. and L. N. Day are putting in a fine stock of general merchandise at the Locks.

Three more indictments for smuggling have been made against W. Dunbar, C. J. Mulkey and L. C. Sweeney of Portland.

The First National Bank of Fort Klamath has suspended on account of the mysterious disappearance of the cashier.

Will Plumb, a La Grande school boy, accidentally shot and killed Sherman Kent, a companion, aged 12. Kent's mother is prostrated.

Nat Blum plead guilty to five different counts for smuggling, and his example was followed by Sweeney, Jackling, Garthorne, Patterson and Berg before Judge Bellinger, Monday.

It takes a gambler to beat a gambler. A stranger in Portland the other evening on a $50 limit game dexterously changed $5 to $100 much to the surprise of the dealer and as the former won, the call had to be paid. But the stranger was not allowed to continue the game.

As an illustration of what can be done in raising apples, we call attention to the orchard of John Sweeney, one mile from town. He has 280 apple trees six years old, from which he took this year 530 boxes of first-class fruit, which brought him 70 cents a box on the tree, or $370.—Glacier.

E. Brighton, under sentence of six months in the penitentiary for smuggling opium, committed suicide in his cell in the county jail at 7:20 o'clock Saturday morning by severing his jugular vein with a razor and bleeding to death. The jury returned a verdict of deliberate suicide, due to despondency.

Fred Kemp lost his life a week ago by being thrown from a wagon loaded with wood, being killed by the falling wood. He lingered a few days at the residence of his parents at Hood River, but died Tuesday, and was buried the following day. Mr. Troy Shelley of The Dalles officiated at the funeral services.

It is stated, as a result of the most careful experiment, that the cost of producing hops in New York state is 13 to 14 cents a pound, while in the Pacific states they can be raised at 9 cents. With the freight less than 2 cents to New York, shipments from Oregon to England of hops, competing with the German growers, has already begun.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hess has begun a suit against Theodore Liebe, president of the Oregon German Baking Company, for $25,000 for malicious prosecution. Mrs. Hess is the widow of Christian Hess, who attempted to kill Mr. Liebe and then committed suicide. In her complaint Mrs. Hess alleges that Liebe caused her arrest last August on a charge of larceny of $900 from the company's store. She was placed in jail and detained 18 hours before her husband and child were notified.

A. A. Rosenthal was appointed receiver of the Sunday Mercury Publishing Company by Judge Stearns Saturday. The Mercury appeared on time again but there was a great difference between it and the Mercury of old. The size of the paper has been reduced one-half and the sensational features abolished. The famous column, "Over the Tescups," has disappeared, and the usual resume of scandalous happenings has given away to other items, some original and some taken from local papers. Receiver Rosenthal briefly announced his appointment and his intention to make a readable paper out of the Mercury.

GOOD NEWS AT LAST

The Carlin Party Found, Which Have Been Out Since Sept. 20.

IT WAS NEARLY TOO LATE

The Cook Missing, Having Been Left Behind, and It Is Feared He Is Dead.

SPokane, Wash., Nov. 25.—A courier arrived at Kendrick, Idaho, at 5 o'clock this morning after an all-night ride from Weippe with news that Lieutenant Elliott had found the Carlin party on the middle fork of the Clearwater, 130 miles from any settlement, last Wednesday. The lost party were in bad shape when found, being out of provisions, barefoot and with little clothing. They were slowly making their way down the river when found. George Colgate, the cook of the party, gave out a few days before the rescue and had to be left and it is feared he may have died. All that is possible will be done to find him, dead or alive. The rescued and rescuers are expected here Tuesday and General Carlin will be here to meet his son. The story of suffering, desperation and hardship told by the lost hunters was heart-rending. They managed to cross the Clearwater in several places at great risk to their lives, being compelled to wade the icy current up to their necks or swim amid floating blocks of ice and snow. Nearly all their horses died of cold and starvation. The men tramped for miles through the deep snow in blinding storms, with scarcely any food or clothing, being put on half rations of bacon and bread. At last the struggle became too much for George Colgate, the cook of the party. Colgate realized the situation fully and advised his companions to attempt to save themselves. Strong men shed tears when one of the party was left behind to meet his fate alone. It began to appear as if all would be lost, and at most the only hope held out to them was the chance of being found by a relief party, which Carlin said he felt sure would be sent out for them. The rescuers and rescued are expected in Kendrick Monday. Lieutenant Elliott went as far as he could with horses, borrowed a saw at a rancher's cabin, made a skiff, and had gone up the river in it 13 miles when he met the party.

The courier gives the following account of the egress of the party from the mountains during and from the time that they discovered they were irretrievably lost unless heroic methods were at once adopted to make their way out of the wilderness: "October 5th, the day upon which they were preparing to leave the Clearwater, a heavy storm came on, which completely obliterated all the roads and trails. To add to their distress their animals stampeded, and when night overtook them they were powerless to proceed. Being without snowshoes or other appliances for winter traveling, their perilous situation was soon realized, and it at once became apparent that the party was in for it. That night there fell more than five feet of snow, and the following morning consultations were held, but no definite plan of action was decided upon until the following evening, when Guide Spencer decided upon braving the storm alone, promising to go to a certain point he had in view, which, if he could reach in safety, all would be well. This, however, he failed to do, the remainder of the party not consenting, preferring that all should live or die together. And so the little band remained, trusting to fate and awaiting succor, which arrived almost too late."

WASHINGTON LETTER.

How the Hawaiian Matter is Viewed at the Capital.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24, 1893.

"Support my tariff bill or you will get nothing from the administration," is the ultimatum which Mr. Cleveland has given to those democratic congressmen who are disposed to protest against the wholesale crippling of various industries in their districts that the new tariff bill will bring about, should the schedules as prepared by the direction of Mr. Cleveland be allowed to stand. The number of democratic protestors is large and as the result will probably decide the renomination and election of most of them it will not be surprising should many decide that the welfare of their constituents that is endangered by the Cleveland tariff bill is of more importance to them than any favors that Mr. Cleveland has to give out, and be found carrying out the threats now being made of uniting with the republicans for the purpose of securing protection of their constituents. One of the arguments advanced by some of the Cleveland men is characteristically democratic—"Support the bill as it is; the senate will be certain to amend it according to your wishes." The same sort of argument got votes for the Wilson repeal bill at the extra session.

Nobody need be surprised to hear that Secretary Gresham has resigned. His position is now anything but a desirable one. Instead of the vindication he thought the publication of Blount's report would bring him and the administration, he finds the public much more disposed to accept the answer to that report made by the Hawaiian Minister—Mr. Thurston—as a correct story of the Hawaiian revolution. Secretary Gresham is so chagrined that he hardly gives those who come in contact with him a civil answer to the most trivial question. It is understood that he wanted to send Mr. Thurston his passports because he made public his answer to Blount's report, but that Mr. Cleveland forbade it.

Senator Culiom, of Illinois, does not mince words in expressing his opinion of the Hawaiian policy of the administration. He says: "The president has overstepped the bounds of American patriotism and the authority vested in his office. It is the most un-American and unpatriotic step ever proposed by any administration, and congress, although it is democratic in both branches, will, in my opinion, take the first opportunity to administer a severe reprimand. I know of no man in congress who has endorsed the action of President Cleveland in regard to Hawaii or who has spoken a word in behalf of his unpatriotic effort to restore the monarchy. The act already committed by the administration is clearly without authority. The action of President Johnson, whom congress moved to impeach, was not half so reprehensible as that taken by Mr. Cleveland and his secretary of state. It is a most humiliating spectacle to any true American citizen, and I might add that it appears to be the most senseless exhibition of combined mendacity, malice, viciousness and outrageous exercise of official power that the world has witnessed in modern times."

There is one paragraph in Secretary Carlisle's New York chamber of commerce speech that, in view of the methods of Mr. Cleveland, is really amusing, particularly to democratic congressmen not on good terms with the administration. They are in doubt as to whether the secretary intended to be delicately sarcastic at Mr. Cleveland's expense, or was preparing the way to shift the blame for the lack of a financial policy from the administration to congress. Here are the words of Secretary Carlisle: "It must be remembered, however, that it is the function and duty of the legislative department to establish the policy of the government upon this and all other subjects, and to clothe the executive with the necessary authority and means to carry it out. When the authority and means are granted the executive department is responsible for the manner in which the law is executed, but beyond this it has no power to act, and consequently no duty to perform."

Hon. Joe N. Manley of Maine, was here early in the week making preparations for the opening of permanent headquarters for the national republican committee in Washington, from which the distribution of republican literature and other educational matter will be continuously made, without interfering with the work done in that line by the congressional committee or the League of Republican Clubs. Gen. Harrison wished the national committee to do this four years ago, but a majority of the committee did not agree with him and it was not done.

Speaking of the national committee, I have it on good authority that when the committee issues the call for the next national nominating convention it will include therein an edict reducing the representation in the convention of those southern states in which the republican party practically has no organization to about two delegates each. The idea being that the states from which the electoral votes must come should be allowed to name the party candidates. Cas.

THE NEW TARIFF BILL

Free List Will Satisfy the Most Radical.

A REPUDIATION OF RECIPROCITY

Wool, Coal, Lumber, Salt and Iron Ore on the Free List—Agricultural Implements Free.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—The new democratic tariff bill is given out. Its provisions fulfill every expectation of those who predicted it would be a measure of radical reform. In many respects it is a surprise even to democrats, as it is unprecedented in many provisions. The free list is of liberal scope, sufficient to satisfy the most radical advocates of reform, and the repudiation of the principle of reciprocity is decisive and emphatic. Thus the bill, in addition to tariff reforms, will, if passed, necessitate the readjustment of treaties with South American countries, which enjoy practical or theoretical reciprocity with the United States. The bounty on sugar, instead of being repealed at once, will be repealed by easy gradations and will not reach the full effect till after the close of the present century. Beginning March 1 next, the following articles are added to the free list:

Bacon, hams, beef, mutton, pork, meats of all kinds, prepared or preserved, not otherwise provided for; baryta, binding twine made in whole or part ofistle or tampico fiber, manilla, sisal or sunn, single ply, measuring not more than 600 feet to a pound; millinery, bird skins prepared for preservation; blue vitriol, bone, car coal, bituminous and shale and slack or cut; coke, coal tar; colors or dyes not specially provided for; oxide of cobalt, copper ores, old copper, clippings of new copper, all compositions of which copper is the chief component of value, regains and black copper, and copper cement, copper plates, bars, ingots, pigs, other forms; copers, cotton ties; diamonds, dust or bort, jewels used in the manufacture of watches and clocks; yolks of eggs of birds, fish and insects; crude down, fresh fish, undressed furs, iodine; resublimated iron ore, including magniferous iron, dross of burnt pyrites, sulphur pyrites in natural state; lard, lemon juice; mica and crude metallic minerals and unwrought metals, ochre and ochrey earths, sienna earths, sienna, amber and amber earths, cottonseed oil, paintings and statuary, plows, tools, disc harrows, harvesters, reapers, drills, mowers, horse rakes, cultivators, threshing machines, cotton gins, plush black for making men's hats, quicksilver, salt, silk not further advanced in manufacture than carding of combing, soap, not otherwise provided for, sulphate of soda, or salt cake or nitrate cake, sulphuric acid, tallow and wool grease, straw, burrstone bound into millstones, freestone, granite, sandstone, limestone and other building or monumental stone, except marble undressed, all wearing apparel and other personal effects on identity being established under regulations to be established by the treasury, timber, sawed boards, planks, deals, other lumber, lath, palings, shingles, staves, manufactured wood, provided the same duties as now exist shall obtain in all cases in which an export duty is laid on any article in the above schedule; chair cane or reeds, woods, namely cedar, lignum vitae, lancewood, ebony, box, granadilla, mahogany, rosewood, rattan-wood, all forms of cabinet woods, in the log, rough or hewn, manufactured bamboo and rattan, manufactured brier-root or brierwood, reeds and sticks of partridge, hairwood, pimento, orange, myrtle or other woods in the rough; all wool of sheep, hair of camel, goat, alpaca and other like animals; wool and hair on skin, noils, yarn, waste, card waste, burr waste, rags and flogs, including all waste or rags composed wholly or in part of wool.

All delinquent taxpayers that don't want their names advertised had better come forward, as the roll will be published on the 21st of this month. T. A. WARD, Sheriff.
