

To BRACE UP the system after "La Grippe," pneumonia, fevers, and other prostrating acute diseases; to build up needed flesh and strength, and to restore health and vigor when you feel "run-down" and used up, the best thing in the world is Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It promotes all the bodily functions, rouses every organ into healthful action, purifies and enriches the blood, and through it cleanses, repairs, and invigorates the entire system.

For the most stubborn Scrofulous, Skin or Scalp Diseases, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, and kindred ailments, the "Discovery" is the only remedy that's guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back.

Isn't it safe to say that no other blood-purifier can be "just as good"?

If it were, wouldn't it be sold so?

Can you think of anything more convincing than the promise that is made by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy? It is this: "If we can't cure your Catarrh, we'll pay you $500."

WHAT VANDERBILT LIKED. The Doughnuts and Indian Puddings He Had Cooked for Him in Newport. Down in Newport the other day this anecdote of the late William K. Vanderbilt was told: "The husband of a woman, who for many years annually helped the housekeeper at the Vanderbilt summer house pack the goods which it was intended to take back to the winter home, said he went down to the Vanderbilt place to meet his wife one day, and as he was coming away Mr. Vanderbilt came out on the lawn and stopped him, saying: 'Do you know where I can get a good cook for four weeks? I am going to stay here a month longer, and the cook is going to leave to-morrow. Can't you get me one?'

"I said I didn't know. I would try, and then Mr. Vanderbilt said: 'I don't want any French, fancified cook. I'm going to be here almost by myself, and I want one who can make old-fashioned things. I've been just longing for some Indian pudding, some doughnuts and cheese, and some brown bread.' I knew where there was an old cook, and although she had given up the business I got her to go for the month. She said she got orders to cook all old-style things. One day she told me Mr. Vanderbilt sent for her, she went in, and he said: 'Do you know how to make doughnuts?' She said she did, and then he said he wished he could have some such as his mother used to make. Then he said he wanted an old-fashioned Indian pudding, with that amber-colored jelly all round the outside of it. He used to invite other elderly men to come to dine with him and would praise it all, and ask them if it didn't make them think of old times. "Said the Newport man: 'One day I met Mr. Vanderbilt again, just as he was about to leave for New York for the winter, and he said: 'I'm much obliged to you for sending me that cook. I have had a good time. I've had the best things to eat that I have known in many a year.'"

Etiquette of a Practical Servant. A housewife of the East once concluded that the only solution of the servant-girl problem was to teach a green girl herself. She had experience with girls who thought they knew something, with no success. Accordingly she engaged a girl from the country who professed to know nothing, and commenced training her. One of the new servant's duties was to attend the door, and the lady of the house tried in many ways to impress upon her mind the necessity of taking a tray or salver with her when she answered the bell to receive cards, letters, etc. During the afternoon the bell rang and shortly afterward the servant appeared at her mistress's door, saying: "If you please, ma'am, the vegetable man is at the door and wants to know if you want any good potatoes." The lady looked up from her sewing and then fell into a fit of laughter. The servant was standing as she had been taught, holding the silver tray with three large potatoes on it in the most proper manner. The servant's sense of the fitness of things was evidently undeveloped. -Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Franks of Memory. A smart young cavalry officer was recently exercising his regiment upon the drill ground when the familiar words of command suddenly slipped from his mind, and the strenuous effort made to recall them was utterly futile. In order to cover his embarrassment he was compelled to retire from command under the plea of illness. The fugitive sentence came to him when he reached his rooms. A still more singular case is that of a well-known and esteemed merchant, whose memory so treacherously failed him one morning after leaving home that he was totally unable to locate his offices, and was actually compelled to inquire as to their whereabouts. Another interesting example is that of a popular novelist who had nearly finished an important work upon which he was engaged when a sudden failure of memory deprived him of his plot and necessitated the laying aside of the book for more than a week; then the association of ideas recalled the missing plot, the novel was brought to a successful issue and enjoyed a wide circulation. -Boston Globe.

FARMERS IN FOREIGN LANDS. The refuse of sugar cane can be used in making paper, which should enable sugar planters to get a better return from their plantations, the method of manufacturing being simple and inexpensive. This year's apple crop has been heavy throughout the United Kingdom and the fruit is quite equal to the average in size and somewhat above it in quality. Pears, although less plentiful, gave a good return. Within the past twenty years the area planted to wheat in Great Britain has decreased by 1,600,000 acres, and that planted to barley by 300,000 acres, while the area planted to oats has increased by 400,000 acres. The production of olive oil in Cephalonia is very considerable, a crop yielding from 25,000 to 30,000 barrels, more than 75 per cent. of which goes into local consumption, the remainder being exported exclusively into Russia.

He Made the Bishop Sit Down. Prompted by a feeling that it was his duty, the bishop remonstrated with one of his clergy for attending a local hunt. "Well, your lordship," replied the offender, "I really do not see that there is any more harm in hunting than in going to a ball." "I presume," answered the bishop, "that you refer to having seen my name down among those who attended Lady Somerville's ball. But I assure you throughout the whole evening I was not once in the same room as the dancers." "That, my lord, is exactly how I stand. I was never in the same field with the hounds." Then the bishop sat down. - Pearson's
