The victim of the storm king's wrath wore a gold watch, the case of which was melted, and the movement charged with electricity. The watch was taken to Mr. W. E. Garretson, of this city, by Mr. Falk, who is in town today, in the hope that he might be able to fix it up, to be presented to their father as a keepsake. This Mr. Garretson did, making the case look as perfect as before the lightning stroke, also demagnetizing the works, which were so thoroughly charged with electricity that they would not move. The watch is in all respects as good as it formerly was, and will be preserved by Mr. Falk as long as he lives.
