A joi of water fulling down from an insulated tank to an insulated pull electrified the latter positively, while the nega-tive electrification of the surrounding air grew to several hundred volts."

Kenneth Bazemore had the good fortune to receive a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhea Remedy when three members of his Remedy when three members of his family were sick with dysentery. This sick headache, dizziness, and constipaone small bottle cured them all and he had some left which he gave to Geo. W. Baker, a prominent merchant of the place, Lewiston. N. MAGIC WITH A BUBBLE.

A Globe of Soap Film Made to Float on Liquid Air.

A frozen somp bubble broken in two and fleating like an iridescent trans-parent egg shell on the surface of a vessel of liquid air was one of the most marvelous sights shown by Prof. Dewar in a lecture at the Royal institute. London, on the effects of intense cold. The investigation of this new field of science is developing many wonderful bits of knowledge, some of which are sure to be turned to valuable practical account before long. The pretty experiment spoken of which delighted the audience was quite simple. The professor poured a few spoonfuls of liquid air into a glass vessel. The intense cold caused by evaporation produced a miniature snowstorm in the atmosphere above the liquid. The operator lowered the sonp bubble on the end of a rod into the freezing atmosphere. The bubble became darker. The movements of the minbow-colored film grew slower. It contracted somewhat in size, and a moment later froze A slight movement broke it from the rod in two places, which floated for an

This gave her two years in which to accomplish the object of her being, since after the venerable age of eighteen all possible interest in her was supposed to conse. Now you seldom find a heroine of fiction who interests you under twenty six, and in a large number of actual marriage statistics the bride is between twent; five and thirty, and even older. How can a child of sixteen or eighteen form at, just estimate of a man's cha actor or how it will accord with hor INWER?

'But, don't you think." said the first speaker. "at that undeveloped age her own character can grow into conformi-ty with bis, and that perhaps there will be less conflict and greater happiness thereby?"

well off, with a reasonable amount of good investments and a good salary, but he has a weakness for using money freely, says a writer in the Boston Journal. He has also a good wife with "a frugal mind." and by a domestic arrangement she exerts a solutary check on the liberality of her spouse. Occasionally he exceeds his allowance and indulges in tricks on his "hunker" to secure a little pocket money, for which he does not desire to render a strict account. Not long ago he needed a new hat and bought it, reporting to his good wife that it cost him three dollars, and that sum was duly charged by her to his personal expenses, while in fact he paid but one dollar and fifty cents at a "mark-down" sale, and so had an equal amount to "blow in" without exposure In a little time, however, the wife called his attention to the fact that his but was looking shabby and suggested that he should get a new one, counting the remark that the hat did not seen to have worn well, and he must exercise more care in his next selection. Having forgotten his "little game," the husband replied hastfly that he thought that the hat had done pretty good service for a chenp one. You can't expect anything from a dollar

SELF-WILLED AND AMBITIOUS.

Ex-Empress Frederick of Germany a a Woman of Triumphs and Defeats.

Of all the daughters of Queen Vicfull of pranks as her brother, the prince of Wales, says a writer in the New York Advertiser. On one occasion. when an old sailor had carried her on a yacht and setting her down on deck. said: "There you are, my little hady." the little girl replied: "I am not a litthe hady: I is a princess!" whereupon her mother said: "You had better tell the kind sailor that you are not a little lady, but that you hope to be one some day. As Princess Victoria grew her disposition did not alter. Selfwilled and ambitious, after her murriage with Crown Prince Frederick she antagonized Dismarck and shocked the German court by her independence She often said that she would be empress of Germany, if only for a day Her wish was gratified, and after her brief reign of a few months she was shamefully and disrespectfully treated her son, who now calls her the most intelligent woman in Germany. Emress Frederick's life has been a singuarly sad one. She is wunderfully lke her mother in appearance, and they are very devoted to one another. She is exceedingly shrewd and elever, highly educated and the superior in intellect of most German matrons.

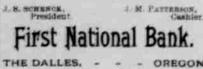

How He Resembled Webster.

The Kansas City Mail tells a story of congressman who, having submitted himself to the manipulation of a venerable colored barber in Washington. was told: "Do you know, sah, you remind me so much of Dan'l Webstah?" Of course the congressman was greatly pleased at the compliment, and he smiled visibly. He would have straight-ened up promptly had he not had his head in a barbarous chancery, so to speak. "Indeed," he said. "Shape of my head. I suppose?" This staggered the aged colored man somewhat.
