

The Weekly Chronicle.

THE DALLES, OREGON

Clubbing List.

The CHRONICLE, which gives the news twice a week, has made arrangements to club with the following publications, and offers two papers one year for little more than the price of one:

| | | |
|-------------------------------------|---------------|-----------|
| Chronicle and N. Y. Tribune | Regular Price | Our Price |
| Chronicle and Weekly Oregonian | $2.50 | $1.75 |
| Chronicle and Metropolitan Magazine | 3.00 | 2.00 |
| | | 2.25 |

LOCAL BRIEFINGS.

After much tribulation, the O. R. & N. has concluded to rebuild the station at Grants. The incline will also be put in.

The Regulator has been listed over to port by the use of spars, and is having the damage to her hull permanently repaired.

We had the pleasure of meeting Prof. Strattan this morning. He will be ready to assume his duties in the public schools Monday.

During the absence from the city of Chief Engineer Blaser at Oregon City, Mr. Geo. Munger has been appointed acting chief engineer. He will also attend to Mr. Blaser's wagon shop.

There will be an election for lieutenant-colonel of the Third regiment this evening at regimental headquarters. Inspector Butterfield is expected to be present to superintend the election.

The sheriff today sold the property of M. V. Harrison in Hood River, a mortgage of mortgage, Hon. E. L. Smith being the buyer. The property cost not less than $10,000, but was sold for $3,325.

The storm last night was more severe east of us than here. At Biggs thirteen telegraph poles were blown down, and the boards were torn from some of the old buildings and scattered promiscuously.

The Regulator arrived up this morning about 9 o'clock. She will make her regular trips beginning Monday, and has been receiving freight today. She brought up all the freight from the Cascade Locks.

The government report on potatoes for August as the lowest condition ever known for this month. The drought throughout the East was the cause. If there is not some rain on the Pacific coast soon there will be another decline to note in the September report on this one crop.—Northwest Pacific Farmer.

The public schools will be opened Monday notwithstanding the fact that it is a legal holiday. As the day will be spent in arranging classes and other preliminary work school will probably let out early in the afternoon. As the pupils have had ten or twelve weeks vacation they can hardly find fault at beginning work Monday.

The collectors are busy today reminding the good citizen that it is time to square up and take a new start. Collections are good, in fact The Dalles is and always has been one of the best towns in the state in this respect. Times may be good or bad, but somehow The Dalles citizen always has money to pay his bills the first of the month. May this condition exist forever.

According to Polk's directory, recently completed in Portland, that city is rapidly approaching the 100,000 mark. Mr. Polk estimates the city's population at 91,055. It has been supposed that Portland would not show any gain, and in fact a slight decrease would not have been a great surprise. The gain is therefore decidedly gratifying to all.

Labor day will be thoroughly enjoyed by many of our people. It will give the boys who have been at their work all summer, and who could not go to the seaside or mountains, one day of the summer to fish, hunt, and have a day's outing. There can be whole lots of enjoyment crowded into a vacation, especially if it extends only over one day.

St. Mary's Academy begins its fall term Monday. The sisters have had the building put in splendid shape since the high water. The lower story has been painted and tinted, the paneling grained, and other improvements made. Besides they have engaged the celebrated fresco artist, M. Moretti, to ornament the chapel, and he is expected some time next week.

We have made arrangements with the San Francisco Examiner to furnish it in connection with THE CHRONICLE. Having a clubbing rate with the Oregonian and N. Y. Tribune for our republican patrons, we have made this arrangement for the accommodation of the democratic members of THE CHRONICLE family. Both papers, the Weekly Examiner and Semi-Weekly Chronicle will be furnished for one year for $2.25, cash in advance.

The old fire engine was taken to the depot this morning to be loaded on the cars. It is handsomely ornamented, and will make an attractive part of the parade. The big congar mounted on top of the machine looks as natural as life, and from this office, when the boys stopped at Nielsen's corner for a moment, we noticed that the end of its tall was in a line with the edge of the window, while its head reached the edge of the door, a distance of about eighteen feet. We do not believe, however, the animal was that long.

Tuesday's Daily.

Grain sacks for sale at the Wasco warehouse.

Mr. P. E. Farrelly, a native of Ireland, was made an American citizen by the county court today.

Mr. Blandford, the weather agent this morning, predicted fair weather for today, and rain tomorrow.

The city recorder tells his patrons have all quit him, he not having a customer since Saturday morning.

The probate court is in session, and is grinding out its grist at double rate because it did not work yesterday.

The Regulator made her trip yesterday as usual, but owing to the cool weather the excursion rates failed to draw a large crowd.

The firemen's tournament at Oregon City ends tonight with a ball, and most of the boys will be home tomorrow night at the latest.

The semi-annual business meeting of the Christian Endeavor society of the Christian church will be held Tuesday evening, Sept. 4th, at 8 o'clock, in the vestry of the church. All members of this society are requested to be present.

The city council did not meet Saturday night, there being but the mayor and one councilman present. Tonight is the regular meeting night but it is quite probable that nothing will be done except to meet and adjourn until Saturday.

The line officers of the Third regiment met at the armory here Saturday evening and elected Captain J. M. Patterson lieutenant colonel of that regiment. They may have selected a good lieutenant, but they have certainly lost a fine quartermaster.

The change in the temperature is a decided one. Last week it was hot enough to blister the legs on an iron pot, and today a little fire is conducive to comfort. If the cold spell continues for a few days the seaside will be deserted, and our little city will again welcome its own.

At the business meeting of the Veteran Volunteer Fire Department of Oregon J. W. O'Connell of Oregon City was elected president; W. H. Butts, The Dalles, vice-president; Nat Young of Vancouver, second vice-president; C. J. Curtis, Astoria, secretary; H. J. Maier, The Dalles, treasurer.

An 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Osborne fell from his horse Sunday evening at his home, thirteen miles from this city on the Canyon City road, breaking his left forearm. He was brought to town by his parents yesterday noon, and Dr. Logan attended to the case.

About seventy-five tickets were sold Sunday morning under the special rate to the firemen's tournament, and some fifty of the firemen made the trip. The train was five hours late, not getting away until about 9 o'clock. Among the boys were some gray-headed youngsters, who whooped up the old machine thirty or more years ago. They seemed to be the jolliest and happiest of the crowd. The engine was sent down on the freight train Saturday.

The news comes over the telephone this afternoon that Myron Hampton was killed by James Barnhard at Condon this morning. According to the report Hampton had turned state's evidence against Barnhard, who was one of the parties charged with the Roslyn bank robbery. Barnhard went to the sheriff's house where Hampton was stopping and called him out. As soon as he appeared Barnhard commenced firing, one shot passing through Hampton's head, another through his body and the third also striking him. He was killed instantly.

Hops on 15-Mile.

We were shown some hops today grown on Mr. Max Vogt's place on 15-Mile, that were first-class. The vines were planted in May, and only a few of them were poled. The others have made a dense mat over the ground, and expert hop men say that had they been cared for they would have produced 1200 pounds to the acre, which for the first year is equal to Yakima's best showing. Mr. Vogt has about thirty acres of land similar to that planted, and will probably plant all of it with hops next year. The present field contains about five acres.

A Fine Rain.

Yesterday evening the first rain of the season fell. Commencing about 9 o'clock it rained steadily until about 3 o'clock this morning. The dust was thoroughly laid, the streets being quite sloppy this morning and water standing in pools in the low places. According to the government gauge the fall for the shower was .53 of an inch. The best result of the rain was the clearing away the smoke, leaving the air as pure and clear as it is in early summer.

School Notice.

First and second grade pupils residing in the eastern part of the district will be accommodated at the Academy Park school until the East Hill Primary school is in position and ready for occupancy. JOHN GAVIN, Principal.

Concerning Fruit Shipments.

Ashland has just shipped a carload of peaches to Chicago, and expects to get enough for them to leave a handsome profit for the grower. The experience of our fruit growers in shipping to the Eastern markets has not been such as to cause any inordinate desire on their part to repeat the experiment. Last year and this shipments were made, which failed to pay the freight and commissions. It may be that the management had something to do with it. We are told by those who shipped this year that the company doing the shipping promised the growers that unless a full carload was procured the shipment would not be made. Instead of this, a half carload only was shipped the freight amounting to $325, or at the rate of about $650 a car. There is no fruit that can stand that freight and leave anything for the grower. It looks as though there had been bad faith on the part of the company which is now sending duns to the fruit growers for commissions. Last year fruit shipped from here by the Earl Fruit Co. left nothing for the growers, yet some of that same fruit has bought by Dalles people in Chicago, they paying twenty cents a pound for it. As it sold wholesale for an average of about two cents a pound and the retailer made 900 cent profit, it looks like the fruit grower was pretty thoroughly plundered. With proper management there ought to be money in shipping fruit East, but the growers will have to get together and ship it themselves.

The Bear Stays.

Floyd Harman's bear did not go to Oregon City. The boys had made arrangements to take him, but on the way up town he was backward about coming forward, and the man leading him lost his patience and gave him a few yanks that upset him. This game was kept up for a few minutes when an extra hard yank took the collar off over bruin's head, and he from the sudden releasing of the tension on his neck turned three or four back headsprings. As soon as he regained his feet he struck out up Second street with most of the boys and all the dogs in the town after him, and all finally treed by crawling under Mays and Crowe's hardware store, where deaf to entreaties and un mindful of profanity he remained as though he had holed up for the winter. After an hour or two's ineffectual attempts to move him a man, a German, undertook to crawl under the building and bring him out. The building is close to the ground so that by the time the bear was reached the man was full length on the ground and wriggling along like a snake. He was dead game too, and proceeded deliberately to tackle the bear, giving him the benefit of first bite and blood. It was dark under the building so that their ears alone could tell those outside what was going on. Directly there was a series of growls and mingled with some exceedingly high German and sounds of heavy breathing and deadly strife. In ten minutes the man came out feet foremost having the bear by the neck, and also having considerably the worst of the encounter. The man's hands were very badly scratched, and about the first thing he did after he got a rope around the bear's neck and surrendered him to his owner was to hold up his hands to the grinning crowd and exclaim, "Look what he do for me."

The Bing.

The Bing cherry, one of Oregon's beauties, and one of the most valuable acquisitions to the fruits of the United States draws comment and praise from all who see it, even in California where they are loath to acknowledge any fruit superior to their own, the Petaluma Courier says, "J. W. Cassidy, the orchardist, showed us a superb specimen of cherry the largest in existence, heretofore not on the market. It originated at Milwaukee, Oregon. Seth Liewelling was the originator, and the agricultural department at Washington spoke of it in its reports, and Mr. Cassidy sent on for samples, of which he received a ten-pound box. The cherries are superb—a rich black with excellent flavor; in fact, Mr. Cassidy thinks they cannot be surpassed. They measure over an inch in diameter, and the quality is superb. They are called the Bing cherry, and Mr. Cassidy intends to put in a lot of grafts.—Pacific Northwest.

A Lively Trip.

A party, consisting of Professors Lloyd and Powell of Forest Grove, Wheelock Marsh, editor of the Forest Grove Times, and Mr. Lamson, clerk of the U. S. court at Portland, returned last week from a camping trip in the country west of Mt. Adams. The trip was one of more than usual interest, the incidents of which will not soon be forgotten by those who made it. They went first to Trout lake, and then by the way of the western slope of Mt. Adams to Lewis river, a distance of sixty miles. The first morning after they reached Lewis river the horses got loose and took the back track, and although they had but ten or fifteen minutes start, the party concluded they would have breakfast before going after them. After breakfast they decided that the horses had so much of a start that they couldn't catch them short of Trout lake, so they piled their blankets and provisions up and, taking only enough to last them into the settlement, struck out on foot.

They made the trip in to Trout lake, arriving footsore and ragged. Hon. E. L. Smith took the weary wanderers in and gave one of them a suit of his clothes to hide in.

After a day's rest, the horses not being found, they hired a man named Wagonblatz to haul them to the White Salmon landing. On the way down a big brown bear crossed the road, and Lamson, in trying to get his rifle from the bottom of the wagon, discharged it. The bullet went through Professor Rowell's legging, burning the flesh, on through the dashboard, and into the hip of the off horse, crippling him badly. The wounded horse was unharnessed and turned loose, and Wagonblatz took the horse's place, and, holding up a neck-yoke, brought the party as far as falls, three miles, where another horse was procured, and the party reached the boat landing without further mishaps.

They had told Mr. Smith that their blankets and plunder were left in a deep canyon, where they would probably never be seen by a white man; but three days after they left a man from High Prairie came in from the mountains with his pack-horses and brought the abandoned camp outfit. Mr. Smith told us confidentially that the robins would have covered the whole party up soon, for they were veritable "babes in the woods."

Among the Little Templars.

Saturday evening the Juvenile Temple, in connection with the Independent Workers Lodge, I. O. G. T., gave a very enjoyable social at Fraternity hall. The first part of the evening was taken up in the carrying out of the following program:

- Song "On to the Field" Temple
- Recitation "A Sign Heard" Martha Schooling
- Recitation "A Problem" Grover Young
- Song "A Song of Love" Susie Johnson
- Recitation "The Little Pledge" Ellie Adams
- Rec. "Little Kegs of Whisky" Winnie Frazier
- Rec. "Don't Be Led Around" Stella Young
- Piano Solo Edith Randall
- Rec. "Tommy's Prayer" Fannie Cheeseman
- Song "The Little Temperance Band" Temple

The program was well rendered, the little folks fulfilling their parts very nicely. The temple has now thirty-five members, and meets every Saturday afternoon in Fraternity hall. The have a regular lodge of their own, the little people filling the offices and conducting the exercises, under the charge of a superintendent. This is a department of the I. O. G. T. work that is very useful, as the children are trained in temperance ideas. Parents would do well to send their children Saturday afternoons to be trained in this manner. The boys and girls of today will make the men and women of tomorrow.

KNOW NOTHING.

Among the Older I. O. G. T. People.

The Coffee Club (an organization composed of Good Templars) gave a very enjoyable social on Monday evening at their hall. The literary part of the entertainment was especially enjoyed.

Miss Helm's recitation entitled "Flying Jim's Last Leap," is to be commended.

Mrs. Varney's piano solo was enjoyed.

The recitation of Mrs. S. P. M. Briggs made us all laugh.

Mr. Wyndham's guitar solo was a pleasure.

Miss Schooling painted a sign board for the saloon keeper.

Miss Cheeseman deserves credit in the way she delivered the recitation entitled "Only Leaves."

Refreshments occupied the next half hour and all were served with lemonade and cake.

The closing part occupied more time than the earlier parts and "tripping the light fantastic toe" seemed to fill the evening full to overflowing with enjoyment.

Look out for the Coffee Club again. You'll hear from it.

DIED.

At Wauve, Saturday, Sept. 1st, Frank Gordon, aged 26 years and 1 month.

THE WIFE OF FORTY YEARS AGO

English Married Women Were Then the Mere Chattels of Their Husbands.

As late as forty years ago, says the Boston Herald, an English married woman was financially speaking, the mere chattel of her husband. She had not the right to control her own income, if she had one, or even to enjoy her own earnings if she earned anything. She might have a worthless, drunken, brutal husband, who, after ill treating her for years, might turn up again some evil morning from Norway or Nicaragua or Newgate and break up the home she had formed for herself and her children during his absence, seize and squander what money she had scraped together, sell her furniture and then abscond again for an indefinite period.

If she had riches, her wealth could not be secured to her without cumbersome and costly legal settlements, while a dissipated or heartless husband might wrench from her every penny of interest accruing from her capital.

There was no cheap or expeditious law of divorce which could free her from the matrimonial tie when her life had become intolerable through the cruelty or infidelity of her husband. She had first to go to the ecclesiastical courts to get a divorce from bed and board, and next a private net of parliament had to be procured before the conjugal shackles could be dissolved. To get a divorce was like walking over broken bottles—you died at every step. The cheapest divorces cost one thousand pounds.
