LOCAL REEVITIES.

Saturday's Daily.

Two carloads of sheep were shipped to the Union Meat Co., at Troutdale, by R. E. Saltmarsh & Co. last night.

Clarence English last Saturday caught a salmon trout in Hood river, a little below Indian creek, that measured 30 inches in length and weighed 8½ pounds. He caught the fish with a No. 8 trout fly hook.—Glaucier.

Complaint is made that the ever-active small boy is amusing himself these nights by tying strings across the sidewalk. The scheme is an old one but none the less dangerous, and if not stopped some person will be hurt and some small boy get in serious trouble.

Weather Observer Pague has returned from Washington and has resumed his duties. From the last weather signal displayed here under Mr. Blandford, it was certainly high time for a change. Mr. Pague gives us today "clearing and fair" weather and predicts for tomorrow "fair and warmer."

Miss Nellie Butler entertained about a dozen of her young lady friends at a party tea, complimentary to her guest, Miss E. Fogwell, who during the afternoon favored the company with some fine vocal solos. They were otherwise delightfully entertained, and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

Considerable wheat came in today, more than on any day this fall, but the regular hauling season has not commenced yet. The extra amount brought in today was due to the fact that it was Saturday and farmers coming to town brought a load with them. Some wool is arriving, and there is still considerable in the country that will reach the market yet this fall.

The China-Japanese war has become probably more wearisome to the readers of the American papers than to the parties to the war. The principal wear and tear on both sides is confined to their jaws. Under the present mode of conducting the war about the safest and most pleasant place for a Chinaman to be in is in the army, for there he is well fed and out of danger.

Charley Richmond says times are improving, and backs his assertion by saying that up to two weeks ago no drummers had hired teams to visit the country towns for nearly a year. Within the last two weeks several drummers have visited the interior towns, and the visits are made by invitation of the merchants, whose stocks of goods are about exhausted.

Judge Gordon E. Hayes of Clackamas county and Toll Thompson, special agent of the State Insurance Co., who were arrested for forcing a Mrs. Metcher to sign a release of claims for damages on account of fire on a policy issued by the state, had their preliminary examination in Portland, and yesterday were discharged, the court finding no evidence against them, and that the charge was a "trumped up one."

The case of the State against Stewart was up for preliminary examination before Justice Davis today, and as we go to press is not completed. The complaining witness is also named Stewart, and the offense charged is that defendant, Bertha Stewart, who is a lady of the acute blonde type, of pachydermatous morals, surreptitiously swiped a pocket book, containing $375, from him while he was visiting her at the Cosmopolitan hotel.

Those who were well acquainted with Til Glaze, deny that he was in any sense a bad man. He had it true, killed two men in the Willamette valley but both cases were in self defense, and so proven in court. But this fact gave him a sort of reputation he neither sought, desired nor deserved. He was a very quiet, gentlemanly fellow, brave as a lion, but never known to seek a quarrel. These same friends say that when the examination is over and the truth is known it will be shown that the quarrel in which Glaze was killed was not of his creating.

Monday's Daily.

Its blue Monday at the court house today, and no item in sight, neither deed, marriage license nor naturalization papers being filed.

Miss Blanche Jory instructor in voice culture, piano and organ. Rooms at Mrs. Brown's, one block east of academy, corner of B and Webster streets.

Mr. Waldo Brigham is agent for a sewing machine that runs without a treadle. Its motive power is generated by a lever that winds the machine up for a ten-minute run.

The city recorder's office has weakened, failing to furnish one of its stereotyped items for several days. Street Commissioner Butts is anxious for a little assistance, and insists that either it be furnished him, or that the city hotel be rented.

A Harney county girl was called upon at school to write a sentence on the blackboard containing the word delight. This is what she wrote: "Where was Moses when delight went out?"—Antelope Herald.

An exchange says that girls are of few days and full of mischief, and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise. When the fair girl cheweth her gum with great haste, and stampeth her pretty foot, then look out. She cometh forth in the evening in low neck and short sleeves, but in the morning she lieth in bed while her mother husheth.

Here is the latest blue grass yarn: At the conclusion of an impassioned address down in Kentucky the other day Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge announced that he was weary, and that as soon as his campaign was ended he would visit England. Whereupon the leader of the band, who happened to be an Englishman, struck up "God Save the Queen."

Messrs. Charles Powne and Charles Keogh came in from Tygh Saturday to play a return game of tennis with Messrs. Fred W. Wilson and J. C. Hostetter. The game was called in the afternoon and resulted in the defeat of The Dalles team by the following score: First set—Tygh, 6; The Dalles, 2. Second set—Tygh, 6; The Dalles, 4. Third set—Tygh, 6; The Dalles, 4.

"The notion that the power of the toes of the men and women of modern times is destroyed by the binding up of the feet in leather through the greater part of life is incorrect," says a great London physician. We think the physician is correct; indeed the binding up of the feet in leather is conducive to their strength. If rubber is used instead of leather the effect is still more powerful, in fact overwhelming.

We have made arrangements with the San Francisco Examiner to furnish it in connection with THE CHRONICLE. Having a clubbing rate with the Oregonian and N. Y. Tribune for our republican patrons, we have made this arrangement for the accommodation of the democratic members of THE CHRONICLE family. Both papers, the Weekly Examiner and Semi-Weekly Chronicle will be furnished for one year for $2.25, cash in advance.

Tuesday's Daily.

The pay checks came up today. Where did you get that hat, Mr. Butts?

Agent Lytle returned from Portland today.

Bran and shorts (Diamond mills) $13 a ton at Joles, Collins & Co.'s

The city hall is being treated to a coat of paint, an overcoat as it were.

The grand lodge K. of P. meets at Portland October 9th, the same day the county fair begins here.

The Hattie Bell, a small boat of probably 150 tons, made the trip to the Cascade Locks yesterday, making the landing at the wharfbat.

Dr. K. A. J. McKenzie has been appointed chief surgeon of the O. R. & N., his appointment taking effect Saturday, the 15th inst.

The wheat teams are coming in briskly and the East End presents a lively appearance. This will continue as long as the roads remain passable.

A. D. Bolton of 15-Mile owns one of the oldest horses in the state, thirty-three summers and as many other seasons having passed over his head.

A box of fine grapes found their way to this office this morning, being directed by Mr. M. M. Cushing. The fruit was pronounced excellent by the whole force, and when a printer says anything is so it is so.

The state fair at Salem opened yesterday, and strange as it may seem the weather was fine. The attendance is good but if it doesn't pour down rain before the close of the fair, all previous records in that line will be broken.

Sunday a party of bicyclists consisting of Ed Riggs, Hal French, F. L. Houghton and Frank Menefee made a visit to Dufur, and had a very pleasant time. As it was Mr. Menefee's first long ride on his bike he was pretty badly used up, but will recover.

The city recorder is moving his office into the old office occupied by city recorder Knaggs. The room is being repaired and cleaned up, and the vault put in condition to use. This latter, however, cannot be accomplished for the next six months as it will take that long for the walls to dry out.

Mrs. A. C. Stubling, who returned from the coast last week, took advantage of being in Astoria to visit the magnificent greenhouses of Astoria's celebrated florist, Mr. A. J. Johnson. As a result of her visit she has a selection of bulbs of rare and beautiful plants. With the fine stock she already had on hand it will be a fastidious person indeed who cannot find something to suit them.

Deputy Sheriff Kelley has a sample of black barley, grown on his place, is remarkable for its weight, being heavier than wheat, weighing about 160 pounds to the sack. Mr. Kelley has fifteen acres of it, but had not received the returns from the threshers, so does not know the yield. The barley is said to be of extra quality for brewing purposes.

Lost His Head.

Charley Frank's brindle bull pup is no more; he ran up against the inevitable and both his life and body were curtailed. About 7:30 this morning a freight pulled in from the west, and as it passed Frank's place the brindle pup found himself on the opposite side of the street from his master's house. As the train rattled by the pup got rattled too, and suddenly concluded he was needed at home. With a wild rush he leaped on the track between the wheels of a freight car, but before he could leap off again the car wheels had come between him and liberty. With a wild yell he turned and dashed down the track along with the train, outrunning it. As he gained on the swiftly flying wheels and saw daylight off to the side he tried to head the wheel off, and the wheel, relentless, played at the same game successfully heading him off. There was a sudden crash, and the fat misguided doggy had lost his head. All of which goes to show that even a dog should remember that he can go home when he can't go anywhere else and not be in such a hurry about it either.

For the Defendant.

The case of the State against Stewart was finally decided Monday morning, the evidence being all in and arguments submitted about 11 o'clock. Justice Davis decided that the evidence was not sufficient to justify binding the defendant over to appear before the grand jury, and she was therefore discharged. The case was very hotly contested all the way through, Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Phelps putting up as good a case as the circumstances would admit, and Hon. Hon. E. B. Dufur, who conducted the defense, seeing that no debatable points went against him. The moral to this case is that it is dangerous to have $75 all at once, sometimes and places—or to think you have it.

Where is McGuire?

Near the bank of the Klamath river at Pokenama dam, projecting a little out into the roaring flood, is seen a box in which nearly 100 salmon trout a day are handsomely caught. Among the salmon trout jumping the dam are the unfortunate ones that never look before they leap, but land in the box and lay there gasping and floundering all day, until the owner of the box comes along and shovels them into his fish cart.

The above item is going the rounds of the press, and it does not seem possible that it can escape the eyes of our doughty fish and game protector. We suggest that here is a case where a conviction might be had for violating the game laws.

School Notes.

Forty-eight new pupils entered the public schools Monday. The total enrollment for the week ending yesterday is 612. Of this total seventeen are non-residents and fifty-four are enrolled in the high school department.

The high school bookkeeping class began work Tuesday.

The East Hill Primary schoolhouse has been moved to its new location in Tackman's addition to Dalles City. The plastering and other repairing will require a few days more time. The building will be used for school purposes on Monday, Sept. 24th.

Saturday night Mrs. Morgan will speak on the "Rescue Work." Sunday night the major will speak on the general Salvation work. Saturday and Sunday night 10 cents admission will be charged for the rescue fund.

Another Story.

Attorney J. L. Story, formerly of The Dalles, has established a new paper at Goldendale, Wash., named the "Klickitat County Agriculturist." Every live town should have a newspaper, but Goldendale is blessed a little too "abundantly" in this direction.—Antelope Herald.

The above news item is all right only Brother Shutt got hold of the wrong Story, W. J. being the man instead of our own J. L. It's funny though to think of the latter as occupying the editorial chair on an agricultural paper.

Real Estate Transactions.

The following deed was filed for record today:

H. C. Nielsen and wife to Jesse Simonson, lots E and F, block 41, Fort Dalles Military Reservation addition to Dalles City; $300.

Natural Science: Teacher—When water becomes ice what great change takes place? Pupil—The change in the price.—Harlem Life.

Mitchell News.

On the 6th the clouds came thick and heavy, and at 2 in the afternoon a heavy shower began to fall and continued until near 12 o'clock. Since the atmosphere, which had been very smoky for more than a week, has been clear and bright. Contrary to expectations, the weather has been very warm, although there seemed perfect indications for fall weather and cooler days.

Hamlet has been in his old haunts again. He was at Lew Relling's and staid all night and part of a day; but there seems to be no move to arrest him. Fred Wallace found his work almost too confining in the store at Oaks' and returned to his home at Antelope.

Miss Dolly Gleason, who has been working for Mrs. Oaks the past month or six weeks, has gone home on account of ill health.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace of Antelope came up Thursday to visit their daughter, Mrs. Oaks. Mr. Wallace started home yesterday, but Mrs. Wallace will stay an indefinite period.

An attempt was made to restore the schoolhouse to its former solid foundation, but found it an unprofitable task and relinquished it. O. S. Boardman bought the lumber for a very small consideration and will use it in house building.

I do not doubt but long before this you have heard of the sad death of Mr. Schutz. Instead of finding the health he so much desired, he found his last rest. Mr. Schutz was well known from The Dalles to Canyon. He has many friends here, who were shocked to know of his unexpected death. To Mrs. Schutz, who in the loss of a dear companion is left so lonely, I extend my sympathy.

Mitchell, Sept. 9, 1894.

He Made the Trip.

The case of the state against Stewart was undecided Monday, having been postponed until that morning. One of the gentlemen wanted as a witness was not forthcoming Saturday simply because he was not served with a subpoena. That witness was Mr. Branner. He was preparing to go hunting over in Washington when he discovered the constable was looking for him, and although busily engaged in loading eatables into the wagon at the time, he surrendered that job to his friends and struck out at a Robert J. gait around the corner from his restaurant and down Court street. A kind friend suggested to Constable Urquhart that he had gone up to Mays & Crowe's to buy ammunition. The constable who is on to his job, remarked that he guessed he would catch him, and so climbed into the wagon. It was a good piece of strategy under common circumstances, but the strategist overlooked the fact that the party was going hunting in Washington. When the load was completed the party drove down to the ferry landing, and there the constable discovered that Branner was profiting by the Salvation Army's advice to "Pull for the shore," and was half way across the Columbia. Branner had the hunting trip and the constable had the pleasure of making a return to the effect that witness was not found. The party arrived home last night with seventy birds.

A Pretty Home.

Sunday we visited Hood River and took a drive out through the valley, taking dinner with Mr. and Mrs. John Parker at their new home. It was astonishing to see how rapidly that section is developing and the pretty home and young orchards of Mr. Parker were a typical example. Three years ago the forest alone held sway where now thrifty trees and luxuriant vines give promise of future wealth. It is one of the prettiest places in the valley and that is saying a great deal. There is a fine view of Mt. Hood, and the land sloping gently down to Hood river gives a magnificent view of that stream as it plays leap-frog over the boulders on its mad chase to the Columbia. The scenery was grand and twenty years ago might have evoked a half column of sentimentality, but gray hairs have brought wisdom and we confess that our tenderest recollections are of the dinner.

Special Notice—Painting Lessons. Miss Bessie Holcomb will receive pupils in painting and drawing. Private lessons 50 cents. Lessons in classes of two or three 35 cents. Address sep-1w. Miss Bessie Holcomb.

Children who are puny, pale, weak, or scrofulous, ought to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That builds up both their flesh and their strength. For this, and for purifying the blood, there's nothing in all medicine that can equal the "Discovery."

In recovering from "Grippe," or in convalescence from pneumonia, fevers, or other wasting diseases, it speedsily and surely invigorates and builds up the whole system. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it sets at work all the processes of digestion and nutrition, rouses every organ into natural action, and brings back health and strength.

For all diseases caused by a torpid liver or impure blood, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Scrofulous, Skin and Scalp Diseases—even Consumption (or Lung-scrofula) in its earlier stages—the "Discovery" is the only guaranteed remedy.

If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you have your money back.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14, 1894. Representative Grosvenor, of Ohio, who took an active part in the Maine campaign, thus sits down on the democratic attempts to belittle the great republican victory: "Contrary to reports as to the lack of organization among the democrats in Maine, the democratic party made a strong campaign. Their most popular man was pitted against Mr. Reed for congress, and he discussed the tariff question on every stump; their candidate for governor made a thorough canvass of the state, as did a host of lesser lights, and the populists delivered more speeches than did all the other parties combined. This shows that the republicans had no walk over. The main question discussed on the republican side was the tariff. On that we made our fight. The Hawaiian affair entered into the campaign, but did not cut much of a figure. The live issue was the tariff, and but little else was talked of." Gen. Grosvenor believes that the example of Maine and Vermont will be followed by the entire country, excepting always the southern states, in November, and that the election of a republican president two years hence is as certain as that the sun will rise tomorrow.

Mr. O. J. King, an Omaha business man now visiting Washington, says of the situation in his state: "The republicans of Nebraska are not going to win without a hard struggle this year, but it is my opinion that they will gain a decisive victory over the democrats and populists. The fight that Editor Rosewater, of the Bee, is making against Tom Majors for governor is hurting Rosewater far more than it is damaging the candidate. In fact, I think it will make many a vote for Majors, for while his assailant has some following, there is a larger element that is bitterly opposed to him. They say that he has used his paper systematically, to castigate his enemies, and that his opposition to the head of the ticket is the outcropping of spite."

Chairman Babcock, of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, was asked what he thought was the meaning of the big republican majority in Maine, and he replied: "What does it mean? Why, there can be but one meaning to it. There has been a change of conviction way down in the hearts of the people. It shows that the people were thoroughly worn out and disheartened at the results of democratic administration and the evils it has brought to the country. It shows a dissatisfaction with democratic policies, which goes deep enough to cause men to change their political opinions, and it is a most significant augury for November. If such intense feeling among the people exists in one section of the country, as was shown by the sweeping change of sentiment in Maine, it must exist in other sections too. The democratic party has fooled and deceived the people and brought them face to face with an industrial and financial crisis more severe in its effects than any before known, and causing idleness and want to take the place of employment and plenty in a very short period of time. Is it any wonder that the American people repudiate this party that has no fixed policy upon any subject except to reduce the pension appropriation? They already see the handwriting on the wall, but, unlike Belshazzar, they need no Daniel to interpret its meaning, which is so plain that he who runs may read. There is absolutely no hope of even a moderate degree of prosperity for the farmer, the laborer or the manufacturer if the next congress is controlled in both branches by a democratic majority, having for its fixed policy an agitation looking to a free trade basis. I have perfect faith in the American people. They can be relied upon in great emergencies to do the right and proper thing for the welfare of the country; and fully realizing, as the recent elections indicate they do, the necessity of a republican majority in the next house as a check against vicious legislation, they will see to it that this result is brought about. It is with the people a matter of patriotism and of country, and not of party, and you know that Americans are always for their country first."

The republican campaign text book is out and the congressional committee is now prepared to supply them to editors, speakers and others who may desire a handy reference book of the issues involved in the campaign. The book is slightly larger than it usually is, and is arranged in alphabetical order, according to subjects, making it a very useful companion to a working republican during the next weeks, bristling as it does with facts and figures showing the incapacity of the democratic party to manage the affairs of the country.

Notice to Water Consumers.

The charges for patent closets when used when necessary only, is 25 cents, but when a constant stream is allowed to flow, the charge is $5 per month. In the last two years a large number of closets have been put in, and in a large number of them a constant stream is allowed to flow. The drain on the water supply has become so great that I am compelled to enforce the rules, and will hereafter charge $5 per month for all closets using a constant stream of water.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, as we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their real popularity purely on their merits. Snipes & Kinsler's druggists.
