THE DALLES OREGON

Entered at the postoffice at The Dalles, Oregon, as second-class mail matter.

- STATE OFFICIALS. Governor: S. Pennington. Secretary of State: H. K. Rainold. Treasurer: Philip McWhorter.

- COUNTY OFFICIALS. County Judge: Geo. C. Hahsler. Sheriff: J. J. Driver.

UTAH TO DECIDE.

The latest proposition concerning the organizing of the next senate is contained in a dispatch from Washington yesterday, which is as follows: "A point that has been overlooked in computing the political complexion of the next senate is the admission of Utah with two senators. The act of the last session of congress admitting Utah provides that in March, 1895, the constitutional convention shall be held."

IN THE SAME BOAT.

China has asked this government to intercede for her with Japan, and stop the further advance of the Japanese army. By the grapevine telegraph line we have been enabled to obtain a copy of Secretary Gresham's reply to the request, which is as follows: "Li Hung Chang, Peking, China, etc., etc."

"GRESHAM."

Miss Fay Fuller, the eminent Mazamores, has accepted a position as city editor and reporter on the Pendleton Tribune. Miss Fuller is said to be a brilliant writer, and to have a "nose for news."

Oscar Wilde says "a man marries because he is tired and a woman because she is curious." A recent wedding in the Wilde family demonstrated the truth of this epigram.

UTTERLY BOOMLESS.

A gentleman named Haller writes from Goodland, Kansas, to the Oregonian, in order to reach Oregonians and tell them what to do and how to do it in regard to advertising Oregon and directing the tide of eastern emigrants this way.

"Mr. Stearns says it is harder to get people to come to Oregon than any other western state. I do not think it would be if Oregon was advertised as much as some of the younger states, who are trying to increase their population and wealth as fast as possible."

"My advice to your colonization society is to be very careful not to get up its advertising matter as too flashy. Too much booming is not what holds the thinking man, since booms all over the country have left so many worse off than before they invested. Get reports such as your chamber of commerce and state board of agriculture get out, and with other good matter sent through the eastern states, I am sure it will do your states untold good. H. M. HALLER."

It is self-evident that Mr. Haller is not acquainted with Oregon, or Oregon methods, and his advice not to make our advertising matter too "flashy" provokes a smile.

THE SHADES OF VICE.

Dr. George R. Wallace, who made himself talked about in connection with his attack on the Mrs. Brown-Potter-Belle troupe of theatrical people a few months ago, is again to the front but this time he has something substantial to stand upon.

We mention this only to show that all cities are alike and New York and Tammany are no worse than cities with the same systems, but whose ringsters are nameless.

to copper the ace-king than to bear the pork market. Gambling with stocks is as much gambling as with cards and when one is suppressed the other should be.

THE RAILROAD COMMISSION.

The following letter reached us this morning: "I have noticed from time to time articles relating to the railroad commission of Oregon. Would like, if you have space in your paper, to know what are the duties of the commission, and if a private citizen can place a grievance before it for adjustment without cost? Who are the members of the commission and the address."

1. It is hard to say just what the duties of the commissioners are, as they have never been exemplified. The general supposition is that the commission should look after the interests of the people, see that rates are uniform and not exorbitant, examine the roadbeds and rolling stock at times to see that they are kept in good order, to hear complaints from private citizens, and give, or suggest, such redress as the occasion requires.

The Albany Herald twitted us recently in commenting on the uselessness of the railroad commission, over the fact that "one of our patrons" had filed a complaint with the board that he would have to wait months to get settled if he had to go to the courts.

The Championship Belt Stolen.

DAVENPORT, Ia., Nov. 12.—Richard K. Fox's diamond championship belt, exhibited by James J. Corbett in the window of C. E. Sherriff's drug store, was stolen last evening by an unknown man.

We have made arrangements with the San Francisco Examiner to furnish it in connection with THE CHRONICLE. Having a clubbing rate with the Oregonian and N. Y. Tribune for our republican patrons, we have made this arrangement for the accommodation of the democratic members of THE CHRONICLE family.

Circuit Court Proceedings.

The docket was called in the circuit court yesterday and the following action taken: Mary Denton vs Thomas Denton, dismissed.

George A. Liebo vs John J. Eriessman, judgment in vacation. Garretson, Woodruff, Pratt & Co vs A. Urquhart, default and judgment.

Hindooism Constantly Struggling Between Polytheism and Monotheism.

The gods of India are everywhere, and yet they seem to be nowhere. The religion has been one long winter of discontent, one prolonged struggle on the part of the people to worship many gods under many shapes, while always on the point of believing in one single divine essence as the cause and creator of all things; a hand to hand fight between polytheism and monotheism, in which the priests have continually endeavored to play the part of reconcilers.

The monks took the vows of poverty and mendicancy as individuals, but the order, as a body, owned vast estates, magnificent buildings and untold riches. Their error lay in severing themselves too much from the people, in making their religion too abstract for popular comprehension, in leading lives which were too secluded to admit of any breadth of view and too well provided with good things for any great intellectual activity.

A RETIRED BUSINESS WOMAN.

A Page From Her History. The important experiences of others are interesting. The following is no exception. It had been written by one of our readers in the year 1880, and was published in the Chicago Tribune. It is a story of a woman who had been a successful business woman for many years, and who had retired from business in 1870.
