

The Weekly Chronicle.

THE DALLES, OREGON

Clubbing List.

The CHRONICLE, which gives the news twice a week, has made arrangements to club with the following publications, and offers two papers one year for little more than the price of one:

Table with 2 columns: Publication Name, Price. Includes titles like 'Chronicle and N. Y. Tribune' and 'Chronicle and Weekly Oregonian'.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Saturday's Daily.

D. H. Roberts has accepted a position in the county clerk's office.

According to a communication from Mr. Pague the weather tomorrow will be rainy.

The Portland Sun mentions ex-Gov. Moody among the eligibles from Oregon to the United States senate.

The rain of yesterday made the farmers a little cautious about hauling wheat and not as much came in today as usual.

Salem is holding her city election today. Claude Gatch, son of Prof. T. M. Gatch, formerly of this city, is a candidate for Mayor.

This is the night when The Dalles goes dancing. There are three dances this evening which considering the times is doing quite well.

The Congregational club of Oregon will hold its annual meeting Nov. 26th, at Oregon City. A very interesting program has been prepared for the occasion.

The law library and office furniture of John L. Ayer, the "ex-kid boss" in a political way of Oregon, was sold in Portland Thursday. The amount realized was $396.85.

Don't forget the soiree given by the Orchestral Union this evening at the opera house. Doors open at 8 o'clock. Dancing commences at 8:30. Gentlemen, 50 cents; ladies free.

A young people's whist club is being formed in the city. The young folks do not propose the older ones are going to have all the fun, and arrangements for the new club will soon be completed.

The pulpit themes of Rev. J. Whisler at the Methodist Episcopal church, for tomorrow will be, in the morning, "Life's Value Increased," St. John x:10; in the evening, "The Soul's Affinity for God," Psal. xl:1. All are cordially invited.

The Gesang Verein will give a grand ball at the Baldwin Opera House Thanksgiving eve, Nov. 28. The music will be furnished by The Dalles Orchestral Union and special preparations are being made to have it a grand affair. Tickets can be procured from members at 75 cents a piece.

If Mt. Hood has any pride at all she won't allow Mt. Rainier to make such a fuss and get all the credit for being progressive. Old Hood could get up just as good an entertainment as its northern competitor any time if it only would. Rainier has had better training, though, from living in a boom country.

The question for debate at the literary society Monday evening will be "Was Grant a greater general than Lee?" The speakers on the affirmative are Truman Butler and Miss Smith, and on the negative Dr. Sanders and Miss Davis. The society is prospering, and those who like that sort of thing would do well to become members.

A sure sign that Thanksgiving is close at hand can be found in the notices of turkey raffles. The turkey has no friends these days. Everybody is against him. Wherever he puts his head he is liable to leave it. The same quotation from Milton, which the New York Tribune thought fitted David B. Hill can be applied to the turkey. "Whichever way I turn is Hell."

An amateur theatrical club has been organized, and will be heard from during the coming winter. The club will give a performance in the near future. The organization is composed mainly of members who have appeared several times in amateur performances. Plays have been sent for, and practicing will soon begin. M. T. Nolan is director and stage manager, while J. T. Hampshire will act as business manager.

Mr. W. H. Wilson was today appointed acting prosecuting attorney during Mr. Jayne's severe sickness. Mr. Jayne is still no better, and his physicians thought it unlikely he would be sufficiently well for several days. His friends sympathize with him, and hope a speedy recovery will be given him. Mr. Jayne wished Mr. Wilson to act temporarily in his place, and accordingly Judge Bradshaw made the appointment.

Monday's Daily.

The weather forecast for tomorrow is rain and slightly cooler.

License to wed was issued today to Wallace R. Husbands and Alice M. Root.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon the selection of a jury to try the case of the State against Savage began. At 4 o'clock the attorneys were bueled engaged in questioning a juror, as to his qualifications, and if they succeed in agreeing upon him and get two more tonight, they will have three to start with tomorrow.

The case of the State against Savage is up for trial this afternoon, the selection of a jury being the business in hand. This will probably occupy considerable time, indeed we doubt if a jury can be obtained.

W. B. Huriburt, who has been employed as engineer in the Johns' planing mill, has now recovered from an accident by which he lost a finger nail. He was fortunate enough to hold a polley in the Fidelity, and received $14 on account of the accident.

Pease & Mays have kindly given the ladies of the Good Intent Society the use of their center show window until after Christmas. Until after Thanksgiving they will sell cakes, pies, and most anything in that line, and from that time on may be found all sorts of articles suitable for Christmas gifts, which they will sell very cheap.

The case of the State against Broadbent is in such a shape that the defendant is likely to go clear without a trial. The law says that the indictment must be set aside on motion of the defendant if the names of the witnesses who appeared before the grand jury are not endorsed upon the indictment. In the case of Broadbent, it seems the name of one immaterial witness was not so endorsed. That the defendant cannot be tried upon that indictment seems not only possible, but exceedingly probable.

Tuesday's Daily.

Thanksgiving Thursday. Get your turkey and fixins and prepare to enjoy them.

Princess Bismarck died at 3 o'clock this morning. She was married to Bismarck in 1847.

As there will be a general cessation of business Thursday, The Chronicle will not be issued on that day.

There will be union services at the Congregational church Thanksgiving morning. Sermon by Rev. Whisler.

The Taine English Literature class met at Dr. Shackelford's last evening and passed the time in reading Julius Caesar.

The Smith Bros. desire to state that there will be no dancing school Thursday evening. Regular dance Saturday evening.

An entertainment will be given by the Kindergarten, under the direction of Miss Hall at Keller's hall Friday, Nov. 30th, at 2 p. m.

E. J. Lake was this morning appointed official reporter by Judge Bradshaw and will take down the testimony and proceedings in the Savage case in full.

We acknowledge the receipt of the Mitchell Monitor, but somehow before we got to take a look at it disappeared. Someone with curiosity largely developed just swiped it. The only thing we had time to notice about it was, that the print was not good.

The Mitchell Monitor, it is said, was started to aid the people of that neighborhood in getting a new county formed from portions of Crook, Grant, and perhaps Wasco, though it is said that the county seat question at present is an objection to taking in any part of Wasco.

The people of Harney county, according to Mr. J. M. Vaughan, deputy sheriff, are in a prosperous condition, says the Portland Sun. During the last six months over $600,000 worth of beef cattle have been marketed, besides a large number of mutton sheep. Taking it all together, this inland county, the largest in the state, seems to feel less effect of the prevailing hard times than other more favored localities.

The teachers' institute will be held here next month, beginning on the 12th and lasting three days. Heretofore the institutes have always been held in the summer time, and the present departure is a pet idea of the county school superintendent. The results, will, we think, show that the change is a good one.

There is plenty of room in Wasco county for one-half the destituted of Dakota and Nebraska. Our foothills are the finest orchards lands in the world, and there is an immense area of them. Santa Clara county, California, shipped last year $6,000,000 worth of fruit, and it was grown on 31,000 acres, or one township and a half.

Foreign newspapers have been shut out of Turkey, on account of the articles contained in them concerning the Armenian outrages. It now transpires that the first account instead of being exaggerated did not tell half the truth; ten thousand of the helpless inhabitants were murdered. As a result of the bodies being left unburied, cholera has broken out in a malignant form.

Mr. M. H. Nickelsen, clerk of school district No. 3, was in the city today on business connected with the building of the new schoolhouse. The bonds of the district were sold some time since, but the money only arrived Saturday. Work on the building will now be pushed and by next summer Hood River should have one of the best, most convenient and best equipped school buildings in the state.

W. P. Watson of Hood River has been visiting Menalosse island, and thinks it the most wonderful cemetery in the country. He estimates the number buried there as not less than 5,000. He is also convinced that the high water last summer was the highest that has occurred in the Columbia for hundreds of years, basing his belief on the position of the bones on the island that were below the present high water mark.

The following is a list of the officers nominated at Hood River last Saturday. The election for the incorporation of the town will be held Dec. 4th: Mayor, C. M. Wolford; aldermen, F. H. Button, Elmer Rand, Dr. Watt, S. E. Bartness, T. C. Dallas, A. B. Hartley; Treasurer, M. H. Nickelsen; recorder, J. E. Soesbe; marshal, E. S. Olinger. This is the regular ticket, but it is probable there may be an opposition ticket placed in the field.

The selection of a jury in the Savage case began last night and six jurors were chosen before the panel was exhausted. The state used one of its peremptory challenges, and the defense three. This leaves the state two and the defense three of this kind of challenges. A special venire was issued and returned this morning, but as most of those summoned lived in The Dalles and had formed an opinion concerning the case, the jury did not grow very rapidly.

At the Locks.

Saturday morning in response to an invitation extended by the D. P. & A. N. Co. to meet the delegation from the chamber of commerce and other gentlemen of Portland, who were to visit the locks that day, about twenty gentlemen of this city boarded the Regulator at 7:30 bound for the Cascades. The run down was without incident, save that a heavy fog caused a slight delay, near the mouth of the Klickitat. The Dalles party arrived at the Locks about 11 o'clock, and proceeded to make an inspection of the works on their own account. After an hour spent in this manner everybody struck out to find something to eat and this was easily found at the elegant little restaurant owned and managed by Dr. Candiana. An elegant dinner put everyone in good humor, and a further inspection of the work was made.

It has been some time since the writer hereof was at the Locks, and the amount of work accomplished in the past season seemed for this reason perhaps the more striking. It is claimed by some that the Day Bros. had an extra lot of men at work Saturday. Whether this is true or not, the fact remains that an immense amount of work has been done, and that the work is now progressing very fast.

The fear that the contractors will not complete the work, is without foundation. Ten per cent of the total amount earned by the contractors, is kept back by the government, until the contract is completed, and as this will amount to nearly $200,000 it will of itself be sufficient to compel the completion of the work. Besides this the last work is not going to be very difficult. The trenches are now about completed above the upper bulkhead, and out as far as the walls will be built. These walls will be in place within the next ninety days.

At the same time the excavations are being made for the terminal walls at the lower end of the canal, and these can also be speedily finished. All that is to be done besides this is the excavation at the two ends of the canal to deep water, and the removal of the bulkheads. At the upper one there is considerable work to be done, but everything is well in hand and we believe if pushed the works will be completed next fall, by this time. One gate is on the grounds ready to be put together and in place. The walls for the locks are all completed and the wall for the lift gate is rapidly approaching completion. It is a small job comparatively to put the gates together and get them into place.

Major Post is insisting upon the work being completed as rapidly as men can do it, and the Days are certainly responding to the call for speed. At 1:30 the Dalles City arrived with about 100 gentlemen from Portland, who at once proceeded to investigate the work, and many were the expressions of surprise by those who had never before visited the locks, at the magnitude of the works. At 3 o'clock The Dalles delegation left for home. In closing this brief article, we feel that some acknowledgment is due the Day Bros. for their valuable assistance to the D. P. & A. N. Co. in opening a way for the new line of the portage railroad. They moved an immense pile of stone at their own expense, and after the track was laid sent their dump cars, loaded with gravel, from their pits to ballast it. They have extended every aid and courtesy to the portage road and to the D. P. & A. N., and the people of The Dalles owe them a debt of gratitude for keeping the portage open for the boat line. Lieutenant Taylor, who is in charge of the work, has also proved uniformly the friend of the people.

Among those who went down from here we noticed Messrs. Robert Mays, Z. F. Moody, Geo. Ruch, S. L. Brooks, Orin Kinersly, Dr. Shackelford, M. T. Nolan, L. E. Crowe, Hugh Glenn, A. Bettingen, Sr., Capt. J. W. Lewis, Douglas Dufur, S. Wilkensen, E. Schanno, I. I. Burget, A. S. Macallister, besides several others, whose names we cannot now recall.

Senator Dolph accompanied the party from Portland, and from the way he tramped around over the walls, we think he was pleased with the condition of the work. Just when the canal will be completed cannot be told, but if it is crowded as fast as it ought to be, certainly six months steady work would suffice.

YET ANOTHER BURGLARY

MAYS & CROWE AGAIN THE VICTIMS OF ROBBERS.

People Going Home From the Dance Hear the Burglars, and the Marshal Makes a Capture.

Saturday night about midnight, when the sound of the violin was hushed and the clarinet and piano ceased trombling, the gay gallants or some of them escorting the fair ladies to their respective homes passed by Mays & Crowe's store. Suddenly as they passed there was a rattle as if falling hardware a sharp shrill exclamation such as an angry or annoyed person might make. It was evident that burglars were at their old job robbing Mays & Crowe. The gentleman and lady who heard the noise at once retraced their steps and finding City Marshal Blakeney informed him of their discovery. He at once called a half a dozen or more citizens to his aid and surrounded the building, sending one for Johnny Hampshire to get the keys to the store. Two or more men were armed with clubs and stationed at every door or window by which the burglars might escape. With nerves at their highest tension and muscles rigid each bold watcher stood at his post ready to be the first thing that put in an appearance.

Finally the key was procured, and Marshal Blakeney and several others entered. By this time the excitement of the watchers was intense, and directly when a heavy fall was heard on the inside, and the triumphant notes of victory were heard announcing the capture of the thieves the guards broke for the door to share in the capture. Marshal Blakeney came out dragging a chain the other end of which was fastened around the burglar's leg. As the crowd gathered Jim held his capture up, in spite of his shrieks, and when they saw it was a rat that had gotten into a trap set by Fletch Faulkner, they dropped their clubs and without having the riot act read to them, dispersed. The burglar suffered death without the aid of the grand jury.

Report of the Grand Jury.

Following is the report of the grand jury as presented to the court last evening. The grand jury has been discharged from further attendance: In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for Wasco County.

In the matter of the final report of the grand jury for the November term, 1894. To the Honorable, the Circuit Court, above named:

We, the grand jury for the November term, 1894, respectfully show to the court that we have been in session eleven days, and inquired into all crimes committed in this county as they have been brought to our notice, and as a result of our labors have returned into court thirteen indictments and have returned five not true bills.

We have visited the various county officials and have been courteously received by all and have been shown every facility in the examination of the books and accounts of the county officers.

We have also visited and inquired into the condition and management of the city jail and county prison, and find the city jail is secure and neatly kept. Our county jail is well kept, and probably as secure as its construction will admit, and while its ventilation is poor, and the facilities for keeping prisoners secure is faulty, we would not at this time recommend any considerable outlay on improvements, believing that in the near future necessity will demand the building of a new structure for jail purposes.

We visited the county hospital for the care of and treatment of the indigent poor, and found the inmates contented and happy with their present surroundings. Our county poor house is neatly kept. The inmates are cleanly, and upon personal inquiry found that they are provided with an abundance of wholesome food, comfortably clothed and plenty of bedding.

Having disposed of all the business that has been brought before us, and having no further business to transact, we respectfully asked to be discharged. Dated Dalles City, Or., Nov. 23, 1894.

Horace Pennoyer Dead.

Horace, the only son of Governor Pennoyer, died Saturday afternoon, at Williamsburg, Mass., where he had been attending Williams college. The boy was exceptionally bright, the pride of his parents, whose hearts are broken by his loss. The governor had made arrangements to start East to be at his son's bedside, when the news of his death reached him. The body will be brought to Portland for interment.

Mitchell News.

Weeks have found me silent on account of ill health, principally, although there were minor causes that kept me quiet, such as vacating one house and moving into another. I know my friends will give a sigh of sympathy when they know I, too, have been afflicted with that dread complaint, home-moving, a very serious affliction I assure you, something I do not want to endure very often.

Since I wrote you last many improvements have been changing our little town into a very neat little village. One more high water and we—well, I expect The Dalles will try to hide its insignificance.

A sidewalk from Oaks' store to the barber shop in lower town accommodates footmen, and sometimes horses, on their weary way from one town to the other.

A printing office, that puts out an excellent sheet, the first of which was distributed among the citizens of town today, is another improvement. It comes out with good print, clean, newsy and spicy; one of the best papers in the county, and well worthy the name of Mitchell Monitor.

One furniture shop is completed, and another fast nearing completion. A butcher shop is but a few days old, but furnishes meat sufficient for the town. A barber shop accommodates those that are in need of head-grooming.

The W. C. T. U. has organized here, with a membership of ten or twelve.

Am sorry to say our literary society is a thing of the past since the leader, Dr. Hemlock, has been caught in the meshes of matrimony. Perhaps by Christmas times he will have had time to regain his accustomed composure to again fan into life the Mitchell literary society.

Freezing weather has visited us, and to such an extent as to burst water pipes in town. E. V. E. Mitchell, Or., Nov. 21, 1894.

Court Notes.

The following proceedings were had this morning in the circuit court:

State against Southwell, continued for the term.

State against Broadbent, motion to set aside indictment, because the names of all the witnesses examined before the grand jury were not indorsed on the indictment, was filed.

State against E. Martin, demurrer filed.

State against Savage, motion for change of venue denied, exceptions taken and allowed. Application was then made to have the regular panel of jurors filled before selecting the jury. This was denied, exception taken and allowed. Motion was then filed for a continuance for the term so that a full panel would be on hand from which to select a jury; motion denied. A motion was then made that the court instruct the clerk to fill the panel from the tax roll before selecting a jury. Protest was then filed against going to trial without a full panel.

State against Dan Maloney; fined $100, which was at once paid.

Business Men's Trip to the Locks.

The Regulator left this morning with a delegation of Dalles citizens who wished to view the work at the Cascade Locks and to meet the excursion from Portland, which included the chamber of commerce, the military officers from Vancouver and Senator Dolph. It was a thoughtful act of kindness on the part of the steamboat company to furnish transportation to all who wished to go and it is to be regretted more did not avail themselves of the opportunity. Quite a number attended however. The day was raw and foggy and the beautiful scenery on both sides of the Columbia hid from view. We hope this visit will be productive of much good and show to the people of Eastern Oregon the exact status of the work being done. Senator Dolph will be asked to state fairly and squarely if the present contract provides for the completion of the locks or whether there is any loop-hole for dishonesty to enter. A full report of the trip and the proceedings at the Locks will appear in Monday's CHRONICLE.

Another Sensation.

A sensation was caused Friday evening by the grand jury bringing in three indictments against Edward Martin charging him with issuing fraudulent county warrants. Mr. Martin has been deputy county clerk for several years and has held the confidence and friendship of the people to a marked degree. Everyone has faith in his innocence, and all the circumstances, however dark, will be satisfactorily cleared at the trial. His friends firmly believe his hands are free from any guilt, and will stand by him through the ordeal, for such it is even to an innocent man. The indictments were read to Mr. Martin last evening, and he was given till Monday morning to plead.

Mr. Martin was the democratic candidate for county clerk at the late election and polled a large vote throughout the county.

Otis Savage Wants a Change of Venue. A motion was filed this morning by Huntington and Wilson and A. S. Bennett, attorneys for Otis Savage, asking for a change of venue to Sherman county. The affidavit, accompanying the motion, states the fact that a fair and impartial trial cannot be had in Wasco county and that the interest of justice could be better served by the case being heard in Sherman county. The affidavit further states Savage was informed by one of the county officers that a not true bill had been found against him and that this fact becoming known throughout the city occasioned much talk and comment. It is stated also that some of the county officers who are intimately connected with the serving of judicial commands are active in the prosecution of the defendant and for this and other reasons he firmly believes a fair trial could not be given him here. Mr. W. H. Wilson, on the part of the state, asked for time to prepare counter affidavits and was given till half past one this afternoon. From that time the hearing of the motion was postponed till half past seven this evening.

Hilarious Boys.

Three boys from 12 to 14 years of age were arrested by Marshal Blakeney this morning on a telegram from Chief of Police Minto of Portland. They were evidently taking a trip without their parent's consent. When put in the corridor of the city jail the boys had a large can of sardines, a paper sack full of crackers and about five pounds of cheese. Just to be doing something they opened the can of sardines, emptied the contents on the floor, and spreading the cheese and crackers over it proceeded to have a war dance on top of the mess. Marshal Blakeney soon put a stop to that fun, and compelled them to scrub the floor, after which he locked them up in a cell while the floor dried. They did not like that kind of treatment, but it was just what they have needed evidently for some time.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Saturday.

Mrs. Alice McCauley is visiting friends in the city.

School Superintendent Shelly returned to his Hood River home today.

Mrs. W. H. Wilson was a passenger on the Regulator this morning.

Mrs. J. H. Cradlebaugh left on this afternoon's local for a short visit in Hood River.

Mr. Zera Snow, who has been attending court, returned to Portland this morning.

Mrs. A. McCully, who removed to Butteville some time ago, has returned to The Dalles.

Mrs. J. H. Moser, who has been visiting friends for several days, returned to her home at Mosier today.

The condition of District Attorney Jayne still continues unchanged, and he remains quite sick. His illness coming at such a time, is all the more regretted, and we hope to report his early recovery.

Ex-Gov. Moody, Hon. Robt. Mays, Hugh Glenn, S. L. Brooks, A. Bettingen, M. T. Nolan, J. W. Lewis, E. Schanno, Dr. Shackelford, S. Wilkenson and W. C. Alloway were among those who went to the Cascades this morning.

Monday.

Miss Mamie Smith left on yesterday morning's train for a visit in Portland.

Mr. L. Jones, formerly of the Pasco News, was in the city yesterday, and left for Portland this morning.

Tuesday.

Mrs. Caroline Dunlap of Portland is visiting in the city.

Mr. Ed. Smith went to Arlington Sunday evening and will return some time next week.

Mr. Robert Mays, Jr., came in from Antelope yesterday, and will spend Thanksgiving at home.

Mrs. O. J. Lewis and daughter, Mrs. R. G. Davenport, went to Portland this morning for a brief visit.

Mrs. A. M. Kelsay left for Antelope this morning, being sent for on account of the serious illness of her father, W. D. Jones.

J. E. McCormick will leave tomorrow for Wasco, Sherman county, to look after the business of his insurance company, the Fidelity Mutual Aid Association.

BORN.

At Wamic, Nov. 15, 1894, to the wife of G. W. Burlingame, a daughter, weight 10 pounds.

MARRIED.

At the residence of Frederick Wilen, on Seventh street, this city, Saturday evening, Nov. 24th, by W. C. Curtis, pastor of the Congregational church, Victor Norby and Miss Matilda Nelson, both of this city.

First Quarterly Meeting.

The first quarterly meeting of the Dufur charge, Columbia River Conference, will be held at Dufur, Dec. 1st and 2d. Preaching Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, quarterly conference immediately following; preaching again at 7 o'clock, also Sunday morning at 11. All are cordially invited.

G. W. BARNHART, pastor. R. C. MOTOR, P. E.

PORTLAND EXPOSITION.

Opens December 1, 1894, and Closes January 15, 1895.

During this time the Dalles, Portland & Astoria Navigation Company will sell tickets from The Dalles to Portland and return, including two meals on the steamer Dalles City at $2.50. Tickets limited to ten days from date of sale. Regulator will leave at 7 a. m. and the Dalles City will arrive at Portland at 5:30 p. m. Quick transfers at the locks. W. C. ALLOWAY, Gen.
