

The Weekly Chronicle.

THE DALLES, OREGON

Clubbing List.

The CHRONICLE, which gives the news twice a week, has made arrangements to club with the following publications, and offers two papers one year for little more than the price of one:

Table with 2 columns: Publication Name, Price. Includes S. Y. Tribune, Weekly Oregonian, Weekly Examiner, Weekly New York World.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Walter Rowe was returned to Salem this afternoon.

Sixteen hogs and some other personal property were sold this afternoon by Constable Urquhart to satisfy a judgment of Perry Watkins against C. E. Jones.

A farmer from over near Goldendale left his team in one of the feed yards last night, and some heartless wretch stole everything that was loose in the wagon.

Hawthorne gave his testimony this morning in the Savage case and was taken back to Portland on the afternoon train. It was expected yesterday that the case would be finished today but that does not now seem possible.

The courthouse was crowded this afternoon, many ladies being present and taking a deep interest in the proceedings. There were several pretty lively conflicts between the attorneys concerning the admissibility of testimony. The attorneys for the defense are fighting every point, and laying the foundations, or trying to, for a new trial in case of conviction.

At the literary society Monday evening election of officers will be had. Subject for debate, "Resolved, That men are governed more by imagination than reason." Leader of affirmative, Miss Newman; negative, Miss Evelyn Newman. Quotations from Scott. All who are interested are invited to be present, and so decide whether or not it would benefit them to become members.

Frank Klein was placed on the witness stand this afternoon, and at 3:20 his examination had not been completed. His testimony varies from that given in the preliminary examination by being more full and giving some entirely new evidence. He testified, among other things, that in conversation with his father the Monday morning after the robbery, he told him he had committed the robbery.

The Union Savings and Loan Association bank in the Marquam building, Portland, was looted by burglars last night. The burglar-proof safe was blown open, the bold burglar having drilled a hole into it and with a nitro-glycerine fuse knocked the burglar proof theory as well as the safe to pieces. A census of the bold youths of The Dalles, we might mention for the benefit of the Oregonian, discloses the fact that our talent were not in it.

Maier & Benton now propose to give away a Ramona cook stove with reservoir, one copper teakettle and one Columbia Garland Junior stove, all now on exhibition in their window. The prizes will be awarded New Years eve. Do you want to know how you can get one of these prizes? If so, call at the store. You will find there everything in the hardware line, stoves, ranges, tin, granite and aluminum ware, cutlery and everything else.

While the K. of P. boys were holding forth in the hall over Gates & Leavin's store at the Cascades Thursday night, someone broke into the store. Two individuals giving their names as Thomas Moore and James Williams were arrested by Constable Trans, and after a preliminary examination before Justice Williams were bound over to the grand jury and brought here last night. It looks suspicious but we hardly believe the K. of P. boys would put up that job.

The Universal exposition at Portland will be formally opened tonight. The newspaper men of Oregon have been invited to be present at the opening ceremonies, and no doubt many of them will be there to enjoy the pyrotechnical display, and the something-to-eat afterwards. We have always had a kindly feeling towards the exposition, a feeling that began way back in the old "mechanics fair" times, and we sincerely hope the exposition commencing tonight will be profitable to its backers, as it undoubtedly will to the state.

The Portland exposition is to run seven days each week.

The meeting of the literary society has been postponed for one week.

Winter suits and overcoats in sizes from 42 to 48 at A. M. Williams & Co's.

The meeting of the King's Daughters has been postponed until next Tuesday.

From present appearances the Savage case will go to the jury some time tomorrow.

there is no chance of their ever reforming here. The girl's parents may be able to do something with them but it is not probable.

The jury in the Savage case were taken to the express office this morning, and thence to where the money taken from it was found.

The Seattle papers still insist that the shape of the summit of Mt. Ranier has changed, the middle peak being much lower than it was.

Mr. Sherar, who returned last week from Boston, is highly pleased with his trip. He says that the last lot of wool taken back by him was pronounced the finest ever reaching Boston from the Pacific coast.

Ed Gibson and his wife were arrested Saturday night, charged with stealing sixteen rolls of butter from Mr. Helm. These people are a disgrace to the community, and should be sent to the asylum. They are regular morphine fiends, and in consequence their moral susceptibilities are utterly destroyed.

An alarm of fire at 5 o'clock Saturday evening was caused by the burning of a chimney at Mrs. Obarr's restaurant. The engines and hose carts were soon on the way to the scene of the fire, though fortunately their services were not needed. The prompt response to the alarm speaks well of the discipline of the companies.

The collectors have been numerous and busy today, and each of them had a plethoric-looking sack it is fair to presume that all Dalles people had money to meet their bills. Prompt payment every collection day speaks stronger than anything else in favor of Wasco county and The Dalles. It is the best town in the state by great big odds.

The case of the State against Savage continues to draw quite a crowd of spectators, the courtroom being well filled with many ladies in the audience. The prosecution closed its case a few minutes before noon, and the defense opened theirs on the coming in of court this afternoon. Up to 3 o'clock Sam Simmons, Dick Nolan, Mr. Ferguson and Ad Edgar had been examined by the defense.

Elder M. Bramblet will preach at the Christian church tonight at 7:30. Subject "Angels and Hornets."

Licenses to wed were issued yesterday to J. H. Miller and Miss Laura Cooley, and to William Walker and Cylina Scenecal.

Two gentlemen overladen explained their unseemly conduct to the recorder this morning. They paid a fine of $5 each and departed.

Don't forget to get reserved seats for "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at Blakeley & Houghton's. Performance at opera house tomorrow night.

As we go to press Mr. Snow the council for the prosecution had not closed his argument to the jury. It is probable the case will be submitted by 5 o'clock.

Rush Sellinger and Miss Divers will be married by his honor Judge Bradshaw this evening on the adjournment of court. Both parties are from Hood River.

A trip down the river by the D. P. & A. N. Co's boat, now that the weather is clear, is one to be long remembered. For grandeur of scenery that route is not equalled in the United States.

Mr. George Herbert is in the city, coming down from Grant yesterday, and is looking as healthy and happy as possible. He tells us the distillery will start up between the middle of the month and New Years.

Mr. M. V. Harrison came up from Hood River this afternoon. He has been employed by the county court to prepare the delinquent tax list of 1892 and at the same time will assist in making a list for the use of those gentlemen who are engaged in making a set of present ownership books for the county.

Hood River is holding an election today to decide whether or not she shall incorporate herself, and at the same time is electing officers, so that if incorporation passes she will be ready to proceed to business. Parties who left at noon today say that both sides are confident of success, and that the odds seemed to be in favor of incorporation. Quite a number of voters are absent from the town, but as these are pretty evenly paired, the result would perhaps not have been altered had they been present.

The prizes given to their customers by Pease & Mays, consisting of a handsome bedroom set, and a fine bicycle, were awarded Saturday night. The one contained 11,161 tooth-picks. Miss Dorothy Fredden guessed 11,145 and received the bedroom set while Stanley Webb of De Mose Springs, Sherman county, guessed 11,163 and captured the bicycle. Much interest was manifested in this guessing contest and it is gratifying to know that some little country lad, has been made supremely happy through it.

A note dated Oct. 25, 1891 due Oct. 25, 1896 for the sum of $3,500 payable to John Robinson, signed by D. H. Stone and C. W. Stone. All persons are cautioned against purchasing the same.

Kelsay, county clerk of Wasco county, state of Oregon, do hereby certify that the above and foregoing is a full and complete statement of the claims presented and action taken thereon by the county court of Wasco county, Oregon, sitting for the transaction of county business at the November term, 94, thereof, save and except all claims, the salary or fees of which are provided for by statute.

Witness my hand and seal of the county court, affixed this 1st day of December, 1894.

A. M. KELSAY, County Clerk.

Mosier Happenings.

"Uncle Billy" Hayes has been quite ill for several days.

Wm. Watson will give a dance New Year evening at his home on Rock creek.

A very enjoyable country dance was given at the residence of Thomas Harlan Thanksgiving evening. About thirty couples were present, and the festivities, as usual, were prolonged until daylight.

The telegraph line outfit have removed their mess car to Hood River, having progressed from here three miles westward.

Miss Alice Root, one of Mosier's most estimable young ladies, and Mr. Wallace Husbands, also long and favorably known in the vicinity, were married Thanksgiving day at the schoolhouse.

Weddings and King of Tompkins County apples are ripe in this neighborhood. There have been two of the former, and two others are daily expected. Neither has reference to Carl Weidner, whose horse fell dead under him while on his way to see his inamorata. His remark was scarcely like King Richard's when a similar accident befell him—"My kingdom for a horse." All Carl said was: "Well, I'll be danged."

Miss Myra Rowland was married Friday evening, November 30th, to Mr. Oscar Depee of The Dalles, late of Chicago. The marriage was to have taken place Thanksgiving day, but the groom committed the extraordinary offence of being late in his appointment, having missed the boat in the morning. The nuptial knot was therefore tied the following day at Mosier by Theo. Harlan, justice of the peace. The good wishes of hosts of friends follow the young couple in their new relation of man and wife.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 37, 1894. The democratic senators who have arrived in Washington are disposed to accept philosophically the fact that the republican senators are masters of the situation and that no more tinkering of the tariff will be allowed. Even as radical a free trader as Mills of Texas, who prefaced his vote for the Gorman-Brice tariff bill with the statement that he would follow it up with an attempt to further extend the free list, now confesses that he has little hope of seeing any of the popgun tariff bills passed.

It is noteworthy that the most sensational stories concerning the alleged danger of war with England, on account of the diplomatic complications arising out of the changed attitude of England towards Nicaragua, emanated from sources friendly to the administration. This is absolutely nothing in the situation so far as known here that cannot easily be settled by diplomacy, even of the bungling sort, which has heretofore characterized this administration, but there is little doubt that the administration would gladly welcome a serious disagreement with England, or any other country, as anything calculated to arouse the patriotism of the country would distract public attention from the monumental failure of the domestic policy of the administration in all its branches. Mr. Cleveland would much rather that the Monroe Doctrine be discussed in congress than some other things.

A Villainous Deed.

At about 9 o'clock on the night of the 22nd two barns belonging to George Saxon, whose place is about a mile west of the Pleasant postoffice, were burned to the ground. The fires occurred simultaneously and, as the barns were nearly three-quarters of a mile apart, they were beyond question the work of an incendiary. Mr. Saxon had gone to bed and was waked up by the hired man who in turn had been waked by the roar of the flames of the barn nearest the house. But it was too late to save anything. The buildings contained about 40 tons of hay, Mr. Saxon's sole reliance for the winter feed of 450 head of sheep, besides a number of cattle and horses. Two horses were roasted in their stalls while a third broke loose after his halter rope had been burned in two, but so badly roasted by the flames that he had to be shot to put him out of misery. A valuable brood sow also escaped but not till her ears and tail had been burned to a crisp and her body fatly scorched. A new hack, two sets harness, nearly new, a $35 saddle as good as new besides a lot of ropes, halters and other such articles as are usually found in a farmer's barn also perished. Mr. Saxon is an industrious young man, and the loss represents the labor of four years of hard work, all reduced to worthless ashes to appease the vengeance of some cowardly miscreant for whom a gallow as high as Haman's would not be sufficient punishment. It is devoutly to be hoped that the perpetrator of the crime may be discovered and punished as he deserves. There was no insurance and the loss falls with crushing weight on Mr. Saxon, more especially at the beginning of the winter.—Goldendale Republican.

Uncle Tom's Cabin.

The next attraction at the opera house will be Ruseo & Swift's big spectacular Uncle Tom's Cabin, Wednesday night, Dec. 5th, with a large company, band and orchestra, blood hounds, Shetland pony, Egyptian donkey, special scenery, etc.

Those who have witnessed the rendition of this wonderful and ever-popular play are always anxious to see it once more. Because it gives them joy and happiness, and they always learn a lesson of morality. Those who have never had an opportunity of seeing Uncle Tom's Cabin played by this ever-popular company should avail themselves of this occasion to witness this most wonderful performance. All the characters are lifelike and original. Rendered as they are by some of the most talented actors of this country, all Christian people should not only come and see it themselves, but they should bring their children with them, that they too may be permitted to learn a lasting lesson of morality, one that will ever follow them through life. All the characters of this play will be represented true to life, without being exaggerated. Popular prices of admission are always maintained. 25, 50 and 75 cents.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 37, 1894. The democratic senators who have arrived in Washington are disposed to accept philosophically the fact that the republican senators are masters of the situation and that no more tinkering of the tariff will be allowed. Even as radical a free trader as Mills of Texas, who prefaced his vote for the Gorman-Brice tariff bill with the statement that he would follow it up with an attempt to further extend the free list, now confesses that he has little hope of seeing any of the popgun tariff bills passed.

It is noteworthy that the most sensational stories concerning the alleged danger of war with England, on account of the diplomatic complications arising out of the changed attitude of England towards Nicaragua, emanated from sources friendly to the administration. This is absolutely nothing in the situation so far as known here that cannot easily be settled by diplomacy, even of the bungling sort, which has heretofore characterized this administration, but there is little doubt that the administration would gladly welcome a serious disagreement with England, or any other country, as anything calculated to arouse the patriotism of the country would distract public attention from the monumental failure of the domestic policy of the administration in all its branches. Mr. Cleveland would much rather that the Monroe Doctrine be discussed in congress than some other things.

REGULAR.

Mr. Cleveland did not enjoy his Thanksgiving day dinner, for several good and sufficient reasons. He has a bad attack of the gout, and everybody who has had any experience with a man suffering with that complaint knows that it makes the most amiable of men savage. Besides, he has a number of very troublesome questions to deal with in his annual message to congress. He hasn't been to the white house for ten days.

A lot of defeated democratic congressmen thought they had a nice little snap to get sums running from $1,500 and upwards for each man from Uncle Sam's coffers, without even making a pretense of earning it. Present indications are that the snap will have to be abandoned as unworkable. These men concluded that they would not come to Washington to take part in the short session of congress, but would utilize the time in trying to "catch on" to something out of which they could live, meanwhile continuing to draw their salaries as congressmen—$416.66 a month—until the 3rd of next March. But that was not enough for them. They actually had the audacity to write to the sergeant-at-arms of the house, directing him to forward them checks for the mileage which would have been due them for coming to Washington and returning to their homes at the close of the session. That demand has probably broken up the whole scheme, as the sergeant at arms has very properly refused to pay mileage to members who do not come to Washington, and a movement is on foot to stop the salary of members who remain away from Washington, except when compelled by sickness to do so.

Although the members of the administration pretend to be entirely indifferent as to whether democratic senators and representatives carry out their threats of making an attack upon Mr. Cleveland in congress, it is known that Mr. Cleveland has, through third parties, made overtures to some of the most vigorous kickers looking towards patching up a truce, and intimating very plainly that some of those who have not been able to even name a fourth class postmaster will be allowed to control a certain amount of patronage during the remainder of the administration, if they will refrain from abusing the president and the administration. Several have been promised, it is said, that they will personally be taken care of after their terms expire. But there are some of the kickers whom it will be difficult, if not impossible, to muzzle, with offices or anything else.

The democratic congressional leaders might as well be deaf and dumb so far as giving any intimation of what they propose to try to do during the coming session, for publication, is concerned. Among themselves, they express the opinion that they will be fortunate if they can keep a quorum of the house here without the assistance of the republicans, in order to pass the appropriations. There is no occasion for them to indulge in any fears on that account. The republicans will gladly assist them in maintaining a quorum to act upon the appropriation bills, but not upon other legislation.

There are rumors of an attempt to kill the income tax law, either by direct repeal or by withholding the half-million dollar appropriation that will be asked for by Secretary Carlisle to put the law into effect, but they are probably without material foundation. There is likely to be much talk against the law when the appropriation comes up, but there is no good reason to expect the failure of the appropriation, and no probability of repeal. Cas.
