CRUEL SPORT IN INDIA.

Hunters' Train the Panther to Catch Deer.

Hindoos Care Nothing for Amusement Unless Accompanied by Physical Suffering or Great Danger-Battle of Hands and the Swinging Festival.

India is a land of sport, but occidentals are always much surprised to find that sport, to be appreciated by the average mild Hindoo, must have some thing cruel about it, either to man or beast. It is to India, by the way, that Europe and America owe polo, which was introduced into British cantonments by the Manipuris. Hindoos are great cock fighters, says a writer in the San Francisco Chronicle. Large sums of money are spent on these contests, nor are the birds furnished with spurs to make the combats still more sanguinary. The cocks use only nature's weapons and the wounds inflicted are severe enough to satisfy the Hindoo craving for bloody spectacles. Of horse racing the Hindoo is passionately fond; and a race will practically close all business. The government printing offices at Allahabad have on occasions been closed because the compositors abandoned their cases to see the races. A steeplechase where there is every possibility of some one being thrown exerts a wonderful fascination on the people, who do not hesitate to call themselves the greatest physical cow-ards in the world. Their hunting, too, is of the cruel order. Panthers, or, as they are called in India, cheetahs, are trained to pursue deer and kill them. There is no risk attaching to the hunters, but there is a great deal of danger to the unfortunate shekari who trains the ferocious beast. The panther is blindfolded, a leash is placed around his middle, and he is thus lea to the plain where deer can be found, or to where the deer have been driven by a swarm of beaters. The assemblage, mounted upon elephants or horses or in conveyances, keep a respectful distance from the cheetah, who is led into the open and the hood quietly removed and the leash slipped. The cheetah, when furiously hungry, has been known to turn upon his trainer as the quickest prey, and this is the supreme, the agonizing moment. The cheetah stands straight, his forelegs stiffening and his tail slowly moving. He purrs like a huge cat, looks angrily around him, then, crouching, bounds after his prey-

The cheetah catches his victim and, seizing it by the throat, buries his fangs deeply, sucking in the blood with greedy gasps. The trainer approaches gently, so gently that his footfall can scarcely be heard. The cheetah is growling ominously. His tail beats his sides in ferocious impatience. Quietly the man steals toward the crouching beast and slips the hood over the eyes; then the leash is passed around and all danger is averted. The head of the deer has to be severed, still leaving in the cheetah's 50c and $1.00 per bottle. mouth a goodly lump of bleeding flesh. There is nothing very sportsmanlike in this performance, but there is a great deal of danger attaching to it, and that danger devolves upon one man. There have been cases where the panther has absolutely rehunting party. Then the game was not flats?"-New York Record.

voted a success. A villainous amusement in India is that called panjan. It consists in lock-map of Turkey and tell us all you can to kneel. There is no fun in it, but I wait until next week? Teacherinane form of sport. Kite-flying is a national affair and bets of the most extraordinary magnitude are made as to who shall cut his opponent's string. The swinging festival, or churruk poojah, is another form of pleasure which could only satisfy a race naturally cruel. There is now a good deal of correspondence between the India office and the government of Calcutta with a view of stopping this detestable sport. Hundreds of Europeans visit the scene and leave immeasurably disgusted, but the natives find much to enjoy in it and beat their tom toms and blow their pipes with great gusto while the poor victims are swinging in midair. This sport has some remote connection with a religious rite, and the men who permit themselves to be thus tortured are probably fulfilling some hideous vow. Vows in India are common, and no vow can avail unless its performance inflicts some dreadful punishment upon the body. The affair is thus managed: A devotee has a hook passed through the muscles of his back, which hook is tied to the end of a crosspole. This beam can be tilted for the express purpose of having victims fastened to it. After the man is securely lashed to the pole he is lifted up into the air with his hands folded on the chest and the body fairly hanging by the hooks. There is no other support. The muscles of the back alone hold him to the hook. The pole is then rotated by pulling on the ropes at the counterbalance end, its attachment on the vertical part permitting of free rotation. This gentle amusement the Indian government intend to abolish, but whether it will be done without serious trouble is a question.

Cruel Sport.

The Hindus are great swimmers, and swim dog fashion with their hands and feet beating the water. The reason of this is to scare their aquatic enemies. There is a great swimming festival enter the turbulent flood and swim a given distance, shouting like demons and creating an enormous commotion. Crocodiles follow the swimmers and the slower swimmers fall an easy prey to those awful monsters. But it is sport-sport to those who take part in the exciting adventures, but greater sport to the thousands who follow the men in the water from the banks, and the victim to the nugger has little sympathy wasted on him by the eager, fun-loving crowd.
