Saturday's Daily.

And still another case of insanity is reported from Hood River. It looks like it had blossomed into an epidemic down that way.

Mrs. Hopkins was examined Wednesday by Dr. Brosius and Justice Soesbe of Hood River, as to her sanity and was sent to the insane asylum.

The alarm of fire at 1 o'clock this afternoon was caused by a small blaze on the roof of F. Lemke's saloon. The fire was under control in a moment and before any damage was done.

for the manufacturing of tomato catchup. They raise a fine quality of tomatoes at that place and White Salmon, and now that Hood River is incorporated and has this plant, it will, no doubt, soon catchup with its neighboring towns, both in wealth and population.

A prisoner was brought in from Antelope, arriving here yesterday morning, bound over by the justice court there to appear before the grand jury on the charge of stealing a watch. The young gentlemen who brought him in, came down through Sherman county to Biggs and from that point here on the morning passenger. While waiting for the opening of the sheriff's office, they forgot to keep a close watch on their prisoner, and he took a walk and as far as heard from is yet walking.

The meeting of the Oregon State Horticultural Society, which was to have taken place a few days ago, was postponed until Wednesday next. As notices were not sent out in time many fruitgrowers visited Portland and were of course sadly disappointed. The postponement was caused by the desire of the society to have a lot of Eastern fruit dealers who are visiting in California described the highbinders of Portland, where attend the meeting. As the commission they live, have been trying to kidnap If the inside history of the case could sharps will not come, and many of those who have already visited Portland will not attend, the postponement will work injury to the association.

Mr. Emil Schanno is firmly convinced that the statement that rats will leave a responsible for the following story:

When the high water was reaching after the second story of the buildings on the bluff last summer, his barn was about to float away. He took a turn or two around the barn with a rope and tied the end of it to a tree to keep the barn from floating away. The rope was not more than fairly fastened before a colony of rats that had inhabited the barn, no doubt, taking Schanno for the life saving department, and the rope for a life line, began to use it to get ashore. One at a time they walked the rope, and dropping to the ground scampered off to new quarters. The last to leave the barn was an old gray whiskered rodent, a father in Israel, so to speak, who deliberately stopped when he reached the tree, gnawed the rope in two and turned the barn adrift, evidently just because the family, his family, had no further
