LOCAL BREVITIES.

Wednesday's Daily.

The first rehearsal for the play, "Nevada," was had Monday night. This play will be given by the Home Dramatic Company about the second week in March.

One deed was filed for record today. It was that of Charles D. Hayner and wife to John I. Miller, for 145 acres in the sec. 18, tp 2 n, of r 10 e; consideration $1,000.

In Maier & Benton's window is a certificate from the managers of the horticultural department of the Columbian exposition, stating that Mr. Emil Schanno had contributed to the success of the exhibit by a display of apples, pears and peaches.

Mr. D. J. Cooper came home from Salem Monday night. He says that from conversation with prominent republicans from all parts of the state, the opinion is easily deduced that the election of Senator McBride will do more to harmonize the party than any other selection that could have been made.

Some complaint is made that Dr. Hollister appears in public after attending on the smallpox patient. It should be remembered that he takes every precaution, changing his clothing and using a spray bath disinfectant, and also that he has a wife and babies, whom he is not at all anxious to give the smallpox to.

James Curran was arrested yesterday, charged with larceny by bailee. It seems Curran, who is a bridge carpenter working for the O. R. & N., borrowed a watch from one of his companions, and getting too much liquor during the evening either lost the watch, or some one stole it from him. He was placed under bonds, but there is not much probability of his conviction, as there appears to be no evidence of criminal intent. His refusal to make any defense or explanation, left Justice Davis no alternative but to bind him over.

James Clark and John Fox were arrested last night, charged with stealing a keg of beer from the Columbia hotel bar. The keg was carried up the back stairs and thrown down in the alley, but unfortunately for the thieves, rolled into the cut where the sewer is being repaired. While trying to "get it out of that," they were overheard by someone, and one of them captured. Constable Urquhart was sent for, and turning the prisoner over to Nightwatchman Connelly, he went back and soon captured the other. This morning Clark pleaded guilty, and was given thirty days in jail. Fox demanded a trial, but this afternoon gave it up and entered a plea of guilty. He was also given thirty days. Both are hobos of the acute type.

Thursday's Daily

Licenses to marry were issued today to Fred Kantz and Miss Lucy O'Dell, and S. J. Hanna and Miss E. J. Eastman.

Official members of the M. E. church are requested to meet in the lecture room of the church this evening at the close of the prayer meeting.

Rev. L. Grey of Oregon City, who was to fill the pulpit of the Lutheran church next Sunday, will be unable to keep his engagement. Services will be conducted by Rev. A. Horn.

The city council has offered a reward of $250 for the arrest and conviction of the person and persons who set fire to the pest house. It is only a question of time until the person is discovered.

Postmaster General Bissell has tendered his resignation of that office to President Cleveland. It is said to be quite certain that Congressman Wilson of West Virginia will be his successor.

The old telegraph poles on First street are being chopped down, now that the new ones are in place. Although they have been in the ground a number of years they are quite sound, the sap alone showing signs of decay.

We spoke yesterday of Dr. Hollister having "a wife and babies," in which statement we were guilty of unintentional exaggeration. Instead of saying babies, we should have been satisfied with the singular, baby.

The male quartette will occupy a prominent place on the concert program next Wednesday night, and those who have not heard them, will have a treat on that occasion, while those who have heard them will take care not to miss it.

O. B. Hartley and E. Calkins of Hood River were in the city yesterday, on their way home from Sherman county. Mr. Calkins is the owner of some very fine thorough bred colts, which he had just taken to Sherman county for the summer.

Dr. Hollister reports the smallpox patient as being in fair condition, considering that he is at the most critical stage of the disease, and has strong hopes of his pulling through all right. The next two days will decide the matter for him.

There was a runaway yesterday about noon, the team that distinguished itself belonging to a Chinese vegetable man. The horses ran up First street, following the railroad track and those who saw the affair say that vegetables fluctuated very rapidly.

The suit of Urquhart against Eshelman has been occupying the time of the recorder this afternoon. The action was brought to recover constable fees in a civil suit, and we judge from the amount of argument over some of the legal points that there are several knotty questions involved.

Mr. J. R. Bone came up from Vancouver yesterday for the purpose of buying wheat here. He finds that owing to the especially low rates to Portland caused by the D. P. & A. N. Co.'s boats that this market is one of the highest priced ones in the Northwest, and that he can get his grain from Portland at as favorable prices as from here.

Yesterday afternoon the officers quietly took the six quarantined persons to the pest house, and had them safely lodged therein before anyone knew anything about it. Up to date none of them have shown any symptoms of the disease, though this is the sixth day since they were exposed. By Monday both scare and danger will be over, unless in the meanwhile a new case should develop. This is possible, of course, but hardly probable.

Mrs. Mattie A. Oilar of Hood River was arrested a few days ago on the complaint of the road supervisor of that district, charged with obstructing a public highway, and was tried before Justice Soebe, of that precinct, yesterday, found guilty and fined. The case will be appealed. The road which Mrs. Oilar is charged with obstructing, is that portion of the old Dalles and Sandy wagon road leading from a point a few rods west of the Hood River bridge to the river, a distance of perhaps fifty yards. Mrs. Oilar owns the land, and claims that the change in the road from the old route, which crossed the river and came out on the east side near the end of the railroad bridge, to its present route, was an abandonment of that portion of the road. The matter has been a source of continual quarreling and we hope will now be settled permanently.

Friday's Daily.

County court meets Monday, and commissioners' court Wednesday next.

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah Stais will take place tomorrow afternoon, at 1 o'clock, from the residence of Mr. D. J. Cooper.

A wrecking train was sent down to Mosier this morning, on account of the engine and tender of freight train No. 21 getting off the track near that place.

J. M. Huntington & Co. have moved their abstract and insurance office into the rooms formerly occupied by Huntington & Wilson, next to Dr. Logan's office. lwd&w

The local train from Portland arrived an hour behind time today, being delayed by the derailing of an engine, this morning at Mosier, which blocked the track.

The many friends of Ed Martin will be pleased to learn that he has so far recovered from his attack of rheumatism as to be able to get out of the house. It's a pretty close game between Ed and the rheumatism, but the latter seems to be on top at least half the time.

Rev. I. H. Hazel has accepted a call to the pulpit of the Christian church of this city, and will remain here for a year or more. The subject of his discourse Sunday morning will be "The Household of Faith" and evening "Books Opened on Judgment Day."

The little steamer Eagle, built to navigate the Willamette up to Eugene, is becoming famous. She is running on the old-fashioned salmon plan, up in the spring and down in the fall. The boat has only about sixteen candle-power, and is unable to stem the current or climb over the riffles.

School Superintendent Shelley has created a new school district, or rather has re-established an old one. The district will be known as No. 27, and is a portion of the present Dufur district, lying on upper 15-Mile. The district was attached to the Dufur district four years ago, but has grown populous enough to become again self-sustaining. Such things as this give strong evidence of the prosperity of the country and show that our lands are being rapidly occupied.

When the smallpox scare first started six children were taken from the public schools, and since that time the number has steadily increased, until now about sixty pupils are kept away. There is no good reason why they should be taken from school at all, and as most of them are allowed to play on the streets, the reason is removed entirely. Of course if the smallpox should start after them, they are outdoors where they can run, which is a small advantage over those shut in by the walls of the schoolroom.

All pain banished by Dr. Miles' Pain Pills.

They Must Be Moved.

In spite of the meeting yesterday and the positive assertions of the physicians that no one's health would be endangered by moving the persons quarantined in the Obarr house, to the pest house, the unreasoning fear of some caused the burning of the pest house last night. Who did it, of course we do not pretend to say, but that it was done to prevent it being used is perfectly plain. Surely the people living in the neighborhood of the pest house cannot believe that the city council, the committee on health, or the balance of the citizens of the city would desire that any of the people in the city should be exposed to the disease. We are all here together, and whatever exposes one citizen to the risk of a contagious disease, increases the danger to every other citizen. It was not intended, and is not now intended, to move the smallpox patient. But in the same house with him, though on the lower floor, are six persons, two of them young women, and certainly these people have some rights. They have the right to be removed to some place where they can, after the lapse of eight or ten days, provided at the end of that time they show no symptoms of disease, be liberated. It is quite probable that none of them will even take the disease, though of course it is possible; but they have the right to be set at liberty as soon as possible. Kept where they are, it is unsafe to let them go for an indefinite period, for as long as they are kept in the house there is a possibility of their taking the disease. The protection of the whole people demands that they be removed.

We do not believe there will be any further cases, if proper quarantine is kept on the Obarr house, and those who are not sick are taken from it. We hope that calm and cool reason will prevail, and that further opposition to the action of the committee of health will cease.

The juveniles.

The entertainment given last night by Harmon Juvenile Temple was greeted by a full house, and the program was a success throughout, some of which is deserving of special mention.

The recitation, "Only Sixteen," by Master George Hitchcock, was very good, and a recitation, "Save the Little Barnes' Feet," by Miss Fannie Cheeseman, was well delivered, and showed the training of a thorough elocutionist.

The comic speech, "Snayder's Party," by Park Bolton, in his favorite roll of Dutchman, brought down the house in a lively manner.

The company of young ladies drilled by Mr. J. M. Patterson, made a fine military display in their broom drill, and was highly appreciated by the large audience, as evidenced by the continued applause, bringing them on the stage the second time.

The infant company, drilled by Miss Louise Ruch, made a lovely display in their good night drill. In fact, it was all good, as you can find out by asking those that were there.

Thinks the Bill Will Pass.

A letter has been received by parties here from Senator Mitchell, concerning the situation of the settlers who have made improvements on the forfeited railroad lands, and stating that he has had considerable trouble in accomplishing anything in the senate. The secretary of the interior takes the position that the original act required "actual settlement," and that he has no power or right to change it. The commissioner of the land office, however, takes the settlers' view of it, that possession and improvement are sufficient, without actual settlement. Mr. Ellis has succeeded in getting a favorable report on a bill in the house for the relief of such as have made improvements on said railroad lands, in good faith, and Senator Mitchell has strong hopes of getting favorable action on the bill in the senate before congress adjourns, as he fully realizes the justness of the settler's claim.

Try Vaccination.

The physicians of the city have ordered a lot of vaccine points from St. Louis that should be here tomorrow. As a precautionary measure everyone should be vaccinated just as soon as possible. With some there is an unreasonable prejudice against vaccination, yet the medical authorities, the very latest and best, say that vaccination is as absolute a protection against smallpox, for a time, as having had the disease. With pure vaccine matter, and nothing else but that is used in these modern days, there is absolutely no danger, and one authority makes the statement that out of 400,000 cases vaccinated with virus obtained directly from the heifers, not one showed any bad results. Vaccination and good sense will soon get rid of both smallpox and the fear of it.

How the New Remedy for Diphtheria Was Discovered.

A number of series of experimental observations regarding the nature and causation of diphtheria preceded the discovery of the new remedy. These began with the discovery of the diphtheria bacillus by Klebs in 1883. In the following year, 1884, the organisms described by Klebs were more carefully studied by Loeffler, were cultivated outside the living body, and diphtheria, or a disease resembling it, was reproduced in animals by inoculating them with the cultures of this germ. Loeffler was

PEASE & MAYS.

A Broad-Minded Railroad Manager.

Receiver McNeill is in the city. In conversation with a CHRONICLE reporter this morning, he took what we think is a sensible view of the boat railway proposition, although it is one seldom expressed by men in his position. Although manager of the O. R. & N he is a firm friend of the boat railway proposition, and thinks that the opening of the Columbia instead of injuring that road will benefit it greatly. That it will open up the Inland Empire to settlement, will result in rapid increase of population, and will in a few years double the products of the country. The rates will, of course, be reduced; but this will be more than compensated for by the greater amounts carried. Though not saying so, it was plainly to be seen that Major McNeill is a firm believer in the doctrine that like causes produce like effects, and that even with the river open the railroad would here, as other roads do that parallel the Ohio, Mississippi and other great streams, carry the greater portion of the products of the country to market. He expressed the opinion that the whole Northwest should unite in petitioning congress for an appropriation sufficient to complete the boat railway at once, and that if this were done the work could be accomplished within eighteen months.

Concerning the locks at the Cascades, he said, "the end can now be seen, and a very brief time will see that work accomplished." From all of which it can be seen that Major McNeill is a broad-minded gentleman, who can see beyond the apparent results of improving the Columbia, and realize what will actually occur, and further that he appreciates the fact that Eastern Oregon cannot develop and prosper, no matter under what circumstances, but that the O. R. & N. will be benefited thereby.

Some Resolutions.

At a meeting of representative citizens called by the council and held at the council chambers, at 10 o'clock a. m. today, in the matter of suppressing the threatened epidemic of smallpox, it appearing that serious opposition was being made to the enforcement of health measures, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, This city is threatened with a smallpox epidemic, and

WHEREAS, Opposition has been made to the enforcement of the sanitary measures ordered by the council,

Resolved, That we, a body of representative citizens, do unanimously endorse the acts and recommendations of the committee on health elected by the council from their body, and do recommend that they employ any aid that may be necessary to enforce their rulings.

Dated Dalles City, Or., Feb. 27, 1895. W. L. BRADSHAW, Chairman.

The smallpox scare has abated, and those who were most frightened have discovered that they are still alive and not in immediate danger of dissolution. The quarantined people on the hill are taking things quietly and philosophically, and although this is the eighth day since Monahan came in the house with them, none of them show any symptoms of the disease. Monahan is getting along nicely, and this morning was demanding toast, eggs and chicken for his breakfast. The critical stage is about over, and within another week we hope to chronicle the fact that as far as The Dalles is concerned, the smallpox was, but is not.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Wednesday.

Miss Anna Dehm is visiting Mrs. Roach.

Mr. R. D. Cameron of White Salmon is in the city.

Friday's Daily.

Mr. W. H. Wilson arrived home from Portland today.

Rev. J. Wood returned yesterday from a visit with his family at University Park.

Mr. W. E. Miller, representing the H. N. Richmond Paper Co. of Seattle, is in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Chandler Cooper of Starbuck, Wash., are registered at the Umatilla.

Messrs. W. B. King and J. H. Thatcher, of the Oregon and Washington Telephone Co., are in the city.

Mrs. A. M. Williams, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. O. D. Doane, and friends in the city, returned to Portland on the afternoon train.

BORN.

At Hood River, Sunday, February 24th, to the wife of J. H. Shoemaker, a son.

The United States circuit court of appeals has affirmed the decision of Judge Bellinger in the case of Frank Tracy against the Oregon Short Line and Utah & Northern, the action being brought to recover damages for injuries received by plaintiff, who was an employe of the road. The lower court gave plaintiff $4000 damages, and the court of appeals now affirms that judgment. Judge Bennett of this city was plaintiff's attorney.

Stockholders Meeting.

THE DALLES, Or. March 1st, 1895.

Notice is hereby given that there will be a stockholders meeting of The Dalles, Portland and Astoria Navigation Co. at the Chronicle hall on Saturday, April 6, 1895 at 2 o'clock p. m. for the purpose of electing seven directors, and transacting such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

By order of the president.

will cure a stubborn cough when all the ordinary cough remedies have failed. Try it for yourself. We are putting up a fifty-cent bottle chiefly for that purpose. A cough is usually the tolltale of a weakened physical condition. Correct that condition by the use of a proper remedy and the cough will soon disappear.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites acts in two ways. It nourishes, strengthens and builds up the system, at the same time allays the irritation and heals the inflammation. It gives immediate relief at night from the choking sensation so often accompanying a cold.
