LOCAL BREVITIES.

Wednesday's Daily.

A. S. Roberts shipped 585 sheep to Troutdale on the Regulator this morning.

Parties quarantined in the old pest house were ordered discharged from further surveillance this afternoon.

Five carloads of cattle were shipped from Saltmarsh & Co.'s yards this morning to Chicago, and two carloads to Troutdale.

The carpets, bedding, etc., used in the Obarr house during the time Monahan was confined there, were burned this afternoon.

The county court has dispensed with the services of Mark V. Harrison as special tax collector, and has turned all delinquent rolls over to the sheriff, with instructions to force collections by publication and sale, if necessary.

The next show billed for The Dalles is "Lord Rooney," which will be played by the Pat Rooney Company next Tuesday evening. We suppose, according to the eternal fitness of things, the band will upon that occasion play "Annie Rooney."

New Orleans has had another serious riot, this time the whites attacking the negroes and killing several of them. The trouble was caused by negroes taking the places of white men in loading cotton ships. Mr. Bane, purser of the English ship, was seriously wounded.

Hon. W. E. Ellis arrived home from Washington Sunday morning. The Heppner Gazette gives him a nice little notice on account of his good work in getting the bill passed that will permit those owning railroad lands, who have not lived upon them, to purchase. The notice is every bit of it true, and all deserved, and that is where the beauty of it comes in.

The women are all right to vote—sure. In Pendleton the election was hot, and one of the ladies, whose vote was challenged, is out in a card that sounds just like a man had written it. She says: "The pulpit local editor of the E. O. voted a thirty-cent ticket, together with most of the teachers and other good Christians, who are not yet through with this matter by any means." Women should vote, of course they should.

One of the big white horses belonging to the Teague Bros., and used by them in their draying business, died last night. He was quite an old animal and blind, but a true and trustworthy one that did his work cheerfully and unflinchingly. He never reneged when called upon for a pull; and if there is a place where the good, though speechless animals go after death, surely there will his "manes" be found.

Considerable building will be done here this spring. Harry Clough let a contract this morning to A. Anderson for the erection of a cottage on the southwest corner of Fourth and Federal streets. C. J. Crandall is drawing plans for a residence for Martin Donnell, that will be built in the western portion of the city; also for a house for Mrs. Sylvester, to be built in the East End. He is also preparing plans for the house recently purchased by Theo. Seufert from Mrs. Booth, which will be raised and re-modeled.

Thursday's Daily

Messrs. Thompson and Lauer have just completed three fine coaches for Richard Gaunt. They will be put on the Prineville route. They are models of their kind and a good kind too. Mr. Kuck put the leather work and trimmings on them.

The storm of Tuesday was followed by a very sharp cold spell. It was feared this morning that some damage had been done the fruit trees, especially the peaches; but those who have examined them say they are all right, they not being far enough along to be hurt easily, and the cold being "dry."

Mr. Martin Donnell will open his drugstore, next door to the First National bank, Monday morning. The room has been nicely painted and put in good shape, and it will be one of the neatest little stores in the country. Martin has lots of friends, and will no doubt secure a liberal share of patronage.

A Chinaman named San Lui tried to steal the money from Quong On Tai right before last. He was sleeping in the house with some others and in the night got up and was going through another Chinaman's trunk, when he was heard, and being caught in the act, skipped, and has not been seen since. This is the Chinaman who was hurt by being thrown from a wagon last year and who has been "irresponsible" ever since.

The Um-zoo-ee Whist Club spent last evening most pleasantly, entertained by Hal French, who, assisted by his mother, did the honors of the evening to perfection. After ten of the regular games of whist were played, the other ten were devoted to blind whist, which caused no end of merriment. Lunch being served, a grab bag was introduced, from the contents of which each guest carried away a souvenir of one of the most pleasant evenings the club has yet spent.

Friday's Daily.

The Washington legislature adjourned last night.

St. Patrick's day this year falls on Sunday, day after tomorrow being the date.

Fairfield Lodge, I. O. G. T., will give an entertainment tomorrow night at 8 p. m.

Dr. Dietrich of Dufur has been appointed hospital steward of the Third regiment.

Mr. T. H. Walch, of Portland, for many years superintendent of bridges and buildings for the O. R. & N., is in the city.

Captain John Waud, the well known steamboat man of earlier days, capitalist and pioneer of Portland dropped dead yesterday morning at the residence of his daughter in that city.

All the cases of the Eastern Oregon Land Co., against settlers on their lands in Sherman county, and which were up for trial at the term of court just completed in that county were settled to the satisfaction of all parties.

The building built as a storehouse by Pease & Mays during the high water last year, is on its way from its original location on the McFarland lot on Fourth street, to a position by the railroad, where it will be used as a warehouse.

Lieut.-Col. Patterson has been busy most of the day forwarding material to the companies of the Third regiment. There are six companies and each received forty haversacks, forty campaign hats, forty pairs leggings and forty canteens.

Reports from California show that the recent cold snap has done much damage. Nearly the entire apricot crop in the Yacaville section has been killed and the early cherries, which would have been ready for market in two weeks, were also destroyed.

Mr. C. J. Crandall, who has the supervision of the building of the Hood River schoolhouse, was at that little city yesterday. He reports the building as going up rapidly, and says Hood River will have one of the handsomest and best arranged school buildings in the state. It contains six large rooms.

An exchange suggests that as France is going to shut off our dried apples that we retaliate by shutting out her champagne. The fact seems to be overlooked that if France does not take our dried apples, she will have nothing to make champagne of.

Wm. Wigle brought word over from Black Butte Tuesday, that Geo. Mealy had just crossed over the Cascade mountains via the Santiam route. He stated that the snow was four or five feet in depth on the summit. He entertains the opinion that the mountains will be open to travel very early this season. —Prineville Review.

Dullness still prevails, and until the farmers get done seeding, the city will continue to present a quiet appearance. From the way plows are reported running from all parts of the county, the low price of wheat last year did not scare our farmers out. In a month or two the wool will begin to come in, and then things will boom again. From present indications there will be 7,000,000 pounds of wool handled here this year.

Hon. F. P. Mays went up to Sherman county last week to try a damage suit in which W. H. Wilson was attorney, the latter gentleman being engaged in the superior court at Goldendale. When Mr. Mays arrived at Moro the most diligent inquiry failed to disclose the whereabouts of his client, but did demonstrate that said client, presumably for a consideration, had settled his case outside of court, and skipped. When the case was called Mr. Mays stated that he had come to Moro with instructions to try a case with a client attached, and that he therefore could not try a case with the client decamped instead, and he asked that he be non-suited.

A Runaway.

The team used by the Chinamen in peddling vegetables ran away shortly after noon today for about the twentieth time in the past six months. The horses started some place, no doubt, but on Fourth street, near the corner of Laughlin, the tongue of the wagon dropped down and ran under the sidewalk, bringing the outfit to a sudden stop and piling the Chinaman out in such a way that one of his China legs came near being broken. The damage was soon repaired, and with one Chinaman at the lines and brake, and another with a spring line in charge on the port side, the outfit started for home.

It is only a question of time until there is a funeral, with josh papers, varnished pig and a defunct Chinaman in the principal roles, unless that team is taken away from the present owners. The horses ran as readily as their masters would with a Jap after them.

Dufur Doings.

We know this is March by the rustle she makes, And the whistling wind so loud in her song. Many are the victims whose hats she takes In the great cloud of dust as she marches along.

She marches on the plowman with all their might; The cattle and sheep on the hills to graze; Marches out the small boy with his new Chinese kite, That goes turning and twisting in so many ways.

The weather has been somewhat varied, giving us a taste of genuine spring for about a week; but the other day it turned into a small blizzard. The wind blew and the snow fell in large flakes for some time and froze quite hard. It is to be hoped that the fruit tree buds will not yield to the influence of the warm weather and come out, as the cold nights would soon destroy all prospects for the coming fruit crop.

The hills on all sides are dotted with the busy farmer and his plow. J. A. Stevens keeps six employed, while S. B. Johnston and W. L. Vanderpool each have four and five at work, all of them making up for lost time.

The road supervisor has wisely ordered the roads improved. With the assistance of men, horses and scrapers the almost impassable highway has become converted into quite a respectable way.

The larger portion of Dufur, great and small, young and old, have succumbed to the mumps, thinning out the school to a certain extent.

Sunday night one of nature's phenomena was witnessed in the shape of an eclipse of Luna, who hid her face in the friendly shadow of Mother Earth. It was quite a sight for one who has a telescope.

Saturday evening the Rev. Kondon, of the Christian church, preached in the U. B. church. Monday night the Rev. Gray, a young missionary, late from college, of the Lutheran faith, preached a very interesting sermon for one of his years. He anticipates organizing a Lutheran church at this place.

Dr. G. W. Stryker, of the valley, is a guest of her cousin, Mrs. E. C. Warren.

Mr. Wm. Lathim and his family have moved to Dufur to live.

It is with pleasure we note the re-appearance of Mrs. Mary Vanderpool on the street once more.

Mr. Peabody will return from his quarantined quarters at Summit Ridge this week, where he has probably spent his time turning over the fertile soil behind a four-horse plow. Mr. Canfield says if there are any more smallpox patients able to do likewise, he would like them to come out, as it will not cost the county anything.

Saturday night a crowd of young people gave Misses Myrtle and Carrie Markham a pleasant farewell e'er they left for their farm. A very enjoyable evening was passed in various games.

QUIZ.

The Forfeited Railroad Lands.

It seems we have been congratulating ourselves too soon upon the passage of the Ellis bill by congress, and that the railroad lands are still in the same condition they were before that bill passed. That is to say, Secretary Smith's ruling will have to be taken as law, and actual residence will, as heretofore, be required on the forfeited railroad lands. The reason of this is that President Cleve-

Serious Accident.

Floyd Gibson met with a serious accident on the road this side of Olex Wednesday morning. He was coming to Arlington with a load of wheat, and it being a little cold he tied up his lines and was walking alongside the wagon. The dirt gave way under his feet and he fell under the wagon, the wheels passing over and breaking his hand, arm and leg. The team went on unconscious of the accident to their driver. Thomas Malanaphy was working in a field near and heard Mr. Gibson's cries for help. The team was overhauled and taken care of, and Tom got a conveyance and brought Mr. Gibson to Arlington, where Dr. Geisendorfer attended to his wants. At this writing he is as comfortable as could be under the circumstances.—Arlington Record.

Consumption

is amenable to treatment. Hope, courage, proper exercise, and from the inception of the disease the continual use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites, are absolutely necessary.

Keep up good courage, and with the use of this most nourishing and fattening preparation recovery is certain in the first stages, and may be accomplished even when the lungs are seriously involved. Stop the excessive waste (and nothing will do it like Scott's Emulsion), and you are almost safe.
