WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our regular correspondent. WASHINGTON, June 7, 1895.

Had Mr. Cleveland tried he could hardly have selected a secretary of state who would have been more displeasing to the democratic leaders in congress than Attorney General Olney. Mr. Olney does not lack ability, but the ability he has is not the kind which makes a successful secretary of state. He is utterly devoid of that spirit of affability in dealing with men which has always been considered a prime, necessity in the make-up of a diplomat. He has so conducted the business of the department of justice that the average congressman prefers when he has business with that department to transact it in writing rather than to take the chance of being personally snubbed by Mr. Olney, as his present colleague, Postmaster General Wilson, was when he was chairman of the house ways and means committee and the recognized leader of the democrats in that body. By the way, speaking of Wilson, if he had not been postmaster general he might have been secretary of state, but since he joined the cabinet he has shown himself to be too much of a narrow gauge man even for Mr. Cleveland, who is certainly far from being broad-minded himself.

There is more or less dissatisfaction among democrats over Mr. Cleveland's method of selecting Attorney General Olney for Secretary of state. Although there were a score of men prominent in democratic councils near enough to Washington to have been called into consultation without delaying the filling of the vacancy or inconveniencing them, no advice was asked of any of them, and about the only democrat outside of the cabinet who has seen Mr. Cleveland was Senator Gray, of Delaware, who is known as a cuckoo, but not as a leader.

The convention of the republican national league, which will assemble at Cleveland, Ohio, on the 16th inst., is regarded by most republicans as a virtual opening of the presidential campaign. All reports brought to Washington indicate that the attendance will be large and enthusiastic, including nearly every man who is recognized as one of the national leaders of the party. Ex-President Harrison, Gov. Morton and Chauncey M. Depew have not yet accepted the invitations extended to them, but it is probably that they will, Among those who have accepted invitations and who will attend the convention, barring sickness or accidents, are Gov. Foraker, Gen. Russell, A. Alger, Senators Allison, Dubois, Thurston, Carter, Lodge, Nelson, Burrows and Patton. One of the features of the convention will be a mammoth harmony dinner to be given in the evening of the second day. This dinner will be served on the ground floor of the Arcade buildes to be obtained. The galleries above the ground floor are half a mile in length and will accommodate more than 5,000 republican men and women, who will mony dinner ever proposed eaten by the delegates to the convention and their democratic predictions of trouble in the convention, because they know that the basis of the predicted trouble-the silver question and the booming of some particular candidate for the presidential nomination-is composed of matter over which the convention has no legitimate jurisdiction, and with which it will not attempt to deal.

Retribution is sometimes almighty slow, but it nearly always gets there just the same. Charles B. Morton, a Maine democrat who was made commissioner of navigation by Mr. Cleveland the treasury for the navy department early in the present administration as a reward for the scavenger work he performed in the campaign of personal abuse that was waged against the late James G. Blaine in 1884, was this week summarily dismissed from the latter office by Mr. Cleveland, and, to make the dedelayed retribution all the more satisfactory to decent people, Morton was dismissed for exactly the same reason that he was given office-for exercising his scavenger proclivities. But he made the mistake of abusing the man who gave him office, this time, and was consequently kicked out of office, greatly to the satisfaction of officers of the navy, whose accounts it was his duty to pass upon, and with whom he has been in a constant wrangle ever since he held office. May his unlamented fate be a warning to those who try to travel into office over the sewer route.

Secretary Carlisle is going to Kentucky to a last attempt to stem the tide of free silver which is apparently sweeping over time, are subjected more to the causes termine more points of etiquette. The of decay than any other of the permanent teeth, hence special care should be given at this time to the care of the teeth to keep them clean. A tooth kept clean will not decay. On the Pacific coast there is very rarely a case where a has lost one or more of these teeth, has had them filled, or else the teeth or roots of them remain in the mouth decaying, ulcerating, and causing a very bad breath; the puss mixing with the food goes to the stomach and does injury to the digestive organs. The health of every individual depends very much upon the health of his or her teeth.

The time to care for the teeth, to keep them clean, is between the age of 6 and 14. During this time all the permanent teeth but the wisdom teeth are cut, and the wisdom teeth are of little use to man. But no one can well afford to lose any one of the other permanent teeth, especially the double teeth, or molars. I have registered, within the last four years, the names of eighty-four children for whom I have worked, their ages being between 7 and 14 years. From my observation and experience with the children I attribute the cause of decay of teeth to the lack of cleanliness. Children don't know how, and parents fail to teach them to clean their teeth. Each of the children, whose names I have recorded, came to me with a heavy coat of stain and more or less tarter on their teeth. The stain softens the enamel and gives rise to a rotting or decaying of the teeth. The tarter inflames the gums, absorbs the bony substance in which the tooth is situated, causing it to become loose, and soon in age to drop out. I removed the stain and tarter and filled all the cavities in the teeth, giving the children a clean and healthy mouth. By thoroughly brushing their teeth, they keep the stain and any further decay or loss of teeth.

Parents, take your children to your dentist and have their teeth cleaned, and let him show them how to use the brush, for many who use the brush use to use the brush on the teeth, and what | Co. to use with it.

Very Truly, S. H. FRAZIER, Dentist, Chapman Bldg., Room 1 Up Stairs. Bloomers in Chicago.

A prophet has appeared in Chicago. It was time that one came from somewhere. The rights of man were being assailed, and the morals of the country were being endangered. The badge of masculine supremacy was being stolen by women, and they were actually to be ex-Speaker Reed, Gov. McKinley, exlong skirts to denote their feminine inferiority. That was an outrage which threatened the sanctity of the home and the established order of society, and, worst of all, shocked the modesty and delicate sensibilities of the men who lined themselves up along the roadsides to catch every possible glimpse of the ing, and the tables will be set for 2,000 passing figures, and make themselves guests, and provided with the best eataof the exhibition. A large part of the community were unaccountably callous to this new outbreak of depravity. But Chicago has a naturally want to see the greatest har- citizen who realized the danger, and was equal to the occasion. "Bath House John" knew the insidious evil wrought guests. Republicans are not alarmed at by the new bicycle costumes. He has a finger on the moral pulse of Chicago, and is quick to notice any disturbance. He has penetrated the secret motive actuating the offending women. They pretend that they are anxious to take exercise, that bicycle riding is more pleasant, more healthful and less dangerous on a wheel of the diamond-frame pattern, which forbids the use of long skirts. They make various excuses tending to give the impression that they wear knickerbockers entirely from utilitarian motives. But "Bath House John" knows better. He understands that they are seeking to invade masculine in his first administration and auditor of rights and take unto themselves male attire, which intention, as he says, "is disguised by the friends of this raging craze by the name of bloomers and knickerbockers." Moreover, Chicago, being a particularly staid, modest and virtuous town, feels quickly the evil wrought by a demoralizing habit, and "Bath House John" says that "the craze has assumed such proportions that it menaces the public morals of this good city." Accordingly, he proposes to stop it. Being a city legislator, he believes in doing it by passing a law, as was done several years ago in a city which objected to the Mother Hubbard, and he has drawn up a bill forbidding "any female person" to appear on the highways of the city attired in "bloomers, knickerbockers, baseball attire or trousers."

We hope that the Chicago common council will give this subject serious consideration. It should not be referred, as has been suggested, to the committee on smoke, though the bloomerclad woman may soon be caught smoking, but the question raised should be settled the democratic party of that state.

Cas.

The Care of Teeth.

At 6 years of age four permanent teeth, double teeth, the most useful teeth in the mouth, are cut. These teeth, because of the bad condition in which frequently the milk teeth are found at this with Chicago's usual directness and good taste. After having decided that a gentleman should not tuck his napkin in the armholes of his waistcoat in preference to tying it around his neck, and settled the controversy whether or not wiew to the cancellation of said entry, the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 29th day of July, 1895, at 10 o'clock proper," Chicago may well go on to dewith Chicago's usual directness and good status of the bloomer costume is still unsettled. It is fashionable in Paris and London, but the world waits for Chicago before giving approval. Besides, let the questions of morals not be forgotten. These foreigners are a depraved lot, and child has attained the age of 14 but what their woman have little sense of propriety. It is high time that some true Puritan and American like "Bath House" John Coughlin came forward to protect the virtue and dignity of American womanhood .- New York Tribune.

> Any one who has ever had an atack of inflammatory rheumatism will rejoice with Mr. J. A. Stumm, 220 Boyle Heights, Los Angeles, over his fortunate escape from a siege of that distressing ailment. Mr. Stumm is foreman of Merrian's confectionery establishment. Some months ago, on leaving the heated work room to run across the street on an errand, he was caught out in the rain. The result was that when ready to go home that night he was unable to walk, owing to inflammatory rheumatism. He was taken home, and on arrival was placed in front of a good fire and thoroughly rubbed with Chamberlain's Pain Balm. During the evening and night he was repeatedly bathed with this liniment, and by morning was relieved of all rheumatic pains. He now takes especia pleasure in praising Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and always keeps a bottle of it in the house. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, Druggists.
