LOCAL BREVITIES.

Wednesday's Daily.

The river here fell three-tenths this morning. The highest point for this season has been reached.

Thomas Haslam is acting as night-watchman in the place of Frank Connelly, during the latter's absence from town.

The Regulator carried fifty bales of wool down this morning. There still remain a large amount of the Sherar snipment yet to go.

The farmers are very busy just at present. A larger number than usual are cutting hay and the rest getting ready for harvest.

Yaoni Marsh made a large shipment of peaches to Portland by the boat this morning. The first brought to the market was last Friday.

Strawberries are disappearing from the markets and black berries have come to take their place. Raspberries are present in large quantities.

The early morning passenger was an hour and fifty-five minutes late this morning. Part of the delay was caused beyond Umatilla and a part at Columbus rock.

The change in time of the Regulator and Dalles City will be a great convenience to the travelling public. The American people, with all their energy and push, like an hour's extra sleep in the morning and will find it pleasant to take the boat at 8 o'clock instead of 7. The change at the other end will be still more agreeable.

W. H. Turner, the real estate agent of Goldendale who so mysteriously disappeared several days ago, has been found. The searching party discovered him at a place about four miles from Goldendale. The unfortunate man is undoubtedly demented and refused to go with the men who came to find him. At the last accounts he was untaken.

Chief Moore, of the weather bureau, has notified Weather Observer Blandford to send daily to every display man in his district, the regular weather forecast. Mr. Brooks will receive a telegram every day from Portland, giving a forecast for the next thirty-six hours and the weather signals will be displayed at the old place.

Word came in this morning that Mr. Hayward, a respected citizen of Wamic, dropped dead yesterday morning. He was working in a field and was suddenly seen to career and fall. Aid was immediately given him, but it was too late as the end had come. Mr. Hayward had lived in Wamic about six years and was much esteemed as a neighbor and friend.

The latest report from Sherman county received this morning, states that the grain is in good condition. The rain on the Fourth did a great deal of good and some of the volunteer, which was supposed to be lost, will average six or eight bushels. The fall grain looks fine. Harvesting will commence next week. We earnestly hope the report is true and that Sherman county farmers will reap a rich reward.

Floyd VanVactor, a brother of Mrs. Charles Johnson, was severely bitten by a dog yesterday. The boy was playing with a velocipede in company with some other children when the animal attacked him. The wound is not believed serious but is now quite painful. This makes the second case of dog biting within a short time. Several days ago the 5-year-old boy of Theodore Seufert was bitten in the same way.

Frank Connelly, Harry Hampshire, Rocky Chenoweth and J. W. Fisher started on a camping trip to Wind river this morning. They are thoroughly equipped with necessary paraphernalia and are going to enjoy themselves. They are provided with a small boat and will hunt and fish up the streams emptying into the Columbia. All the details of the trips are settled except as to who shall cook and wash the dishes. These latter questions may cause some dissensions.

Thursday's.

The weather forecast for Friday is fair and much cooler. For Saturday fair and stationary. For these kind words Mr. Pagne has our thanks.

County Clerk Kelsey is busy today drawing warrants for bills allowed at the last term of the county court. The list this term is unusually large.

Mr. Nolan is going to move his book and magazine store from the building which for a long time it has occupied to the present location of his grocery store.

Wesley Rice is able to be upon the streets again, after a very severe illness lasting nearly two months. He looks pale but shows gradual improvement. His friends are glad to see him about once more.

The Regulator company is offering a rate of $2 to Portland and return during the meeting of the Chautauqua. The fare from Portland to Oregon City and return is 25 cents.

The portage road at Cascades has been changed at the upper end in order to allow the bulkhead to be removed. The work was done last night and caused no inconvenience to traffic.

Mr. Alex. Cockerlain and family of Eugene are visiting with his brother and sister at Boyd. He reports that the times are very quiet in the valley, with good indications for a large grain crop.

The Dalles is not the only warm place under the sun. The thermometer at North Beach registered 96 degrees yesterday. It was no higher than that here, and we make no boast of being a summer resort.

The report from the fruit market says the same conditions prevail as yesterday. No change in prices or receipts. A carload of assorted fruit will probably be shipped from The Dalles on July 16th. Preparations are being made towards that end.

A gentleman from Cascade Locks made a bet the other day with a prominent Dalles merchant that boats would go through the locks on Christmas day. The Dalles man took the bet, remarking at the same time that he hoped he would lose it.

The sun just before it drops behind Chenoweth hill has a ruddy complexion. Old Sol seems to be blushing for giving us such uncomfortable weather, but his red face is due more to the smoke that pervades the atmosphere than from any compunction of conscience.

What does the Bible teach relative to the first day of the week as the Sabbath? is the question for investigation at the tent meeting tonight. The identity of Saturday as the true seventh day from creation will also be considered in connection with the above.

Since Mr. J. H. Sherar was the first to ship his wool in the ratio of three to one—three sacks to one bale—it has been suggested that this form of compress by called the Sherar bale. As we have the Sherar grade and Sherar bridge, we can use the name a little farther, and have the Sherar bale.

There will be a party of Dalles people leave tomorrow for Oregon City to attend the meeting of the Chautauquan assembly, which convenes today. Low rates have been granted by the transportation companies and all who can go should do so, as the opportunity will be given of hearing some eloquent men.

A gentleman and lady drove over from North Yakima and reached The Dalles yesterday. They took the boat from here to Portland. A good many people have made the overland journey in order to make the trip down the Columbia. Some drive as far as Goldendale and buy tickets to Portland via the stage and boat lines.

The wind that blew yesterday seemed more of a north wind than one from the east. It was cooler than the regulation east wind. One explanation given was that the Klickitat mountains turned the breeze from the north and made it come down the Columbia gorge. As we are not scientists, we cannot vouch for the correctness of the theory.

This morning Mr. Fred Furrar, the foreman at the Columbia brewery, was out in the yard and stepped upon a rock. His foot turned and he fell breaking the small bone of his leg just above the ankle. The accident while necessarily very painful will not prove serious and after lying still for some time the sufferer will be able to go around again.

The Regulator carried away this morning some more of the wool shipped by Hecht and Leibmann. From now on the amounts shipped will exceed the receipts and the warehouses have probably seen their largest days for this season. It is yet too soon to estimate the number of pounds which has passed through The Dalles, but the aggregate will be very large.

The Redmen met at their wigwam last night and installed the following officers: Sachem, F. H. Wakefield; junior sagamore, W. I. Marders; prophet, Ad Keller. As this was the midsummer meeting, no other officers were installed. John Michell and W. H. Butts were chosen delegates to the grand powwow, which meets at Astoria the latter part of this month.

The militia company drilled last night in their new armory. The lights have not yet been placed in the building and the boys went through their maneuvers and tactics in the dark. The night was rather warm for much exercise. With such a handsome armory and company rooms the boys should take great interest in the company and the militia should be a prominent feature in the athletic and social life of The Dalles.

The Salvation Army will hold some rousing meetings this week and next in Wingate's hall. Major Morton, assisted by Captain Milne and Captain Sharp of Seattle, will lead. On Saturday night those who attend will be treated to ice cream and cake. On Sunday afternoon a free and easy meeting will occur with an address by the major. Monday evening a farewell meeting will be held, at which Capt. T. J. Smith and Lieut. A.

H. Ward will bid good bye to The Dalles. These officers have been stationed here during the winter and have done good work.

The agitation on the thistle question has done a great deal of good, but there is plenty of room for more work. On many lots they have been cut down, but there remain some lots which are full of them. No permanent good can be accomplished unless they are all cut down, as if any are left at all they will supply seed enough to re-stock all the yards in town. Now is the time for the new street commissioner to make a record for himself.

The wool situation remains unchanged. A large amount is still being received at the Wasco warehouse and Moody's. At the latter place the new baler was at work this morning compressing a lot of wool just brought by Hecht and Leibmann. Three large sacks, each weighing 400 pounds are compressed into a bale occupying one-half the space. This process is gone through to get a large saving in the freight rate and delivering the wool in Boston just as it comes from the grower. In this way the grading is done in Boston instead of here. Mr. Sherar's wool was the first clip to be shipped in these large bales.

This morning about 5 o'clock, Jailer Fitzgerald, who sleeps at the courthouse, was awakened by a knocking at the door. He got up and found a young fellow who asked for a meal. The jailer thought he saw in him an escape from the reform school and by a stratagem got him to come in and soon the lad was behind the bars. The prisoner objected strongly to going to jail, but the jailer came out ahead. The boy proves to be Newell Shontell, aged 19 years, who ran away from the reform school several days ago in company with Fred McMurray. A description had been sent out by the superintendent of the school which enabled the officers here to recognize their man. Efforts will be made to capture McMurray and if successful both will be taken back to Salem.

Friday's Daily.

The admission for children to the concert Thursday night will be 25 cents.

A delicious breeze is blowing today. The weather bureau called the turn.

Henry Brown of Hood River has made final proof of his homestead before the land office.

Tickets for the concert Thursday night are now on sale at Blakeley & Houghton's. Admission 50 cents. Reserved seats without extra charge.

There will be no meeting at the Adventist tent tonight. The regular meetings will begin again tomorrow evening. No subject will be announced.

Bena Snipes borrowed a horse from his brother, George, and, hitching him to the buggy beside the remaining mule, started overland for Yakima, a trip he has made many times.

The Dalles will furnish a large quota of visitors to the Chautauquan meeting at Gladstone Park. Over thirty will go altogether, a part on the boat, and the others by the morning and afternoon trains.

On account of the absence of the pastor, W. C. Curtis, there will be no preaching at the Congregational church next Sunday. The Sunday school and Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor will meet as usual.

The Regulator carried over 150 bales of wool this morning besides a large cargo of other freight. There is still a large amount of wool that is waiting shipment by water and the boat will do a good business this season in the wool trade.

Harvest will be well under way next week in all parts of the county. Across the river in Klickitat it will begin early next week and Sherman county promises to commence Monday. From all indications the general yield will be a good one and lots of wheat will come into The Dalles in the fall.

Dr. Tackman showed THE CHRONICLE a piece of gold which was mined on the shore of the Columbia river. As every one knows silver and gold are both found in the river sand and patient effort will separate them. The piece in question was about five inches long, beaten flat and was worth about $5.

Sheriff Driver wired the superintendent of the reform school announcing the capture of young Shontell and asking for instructions. He received an answer last night asking him to try and capture the other fugitive. An officer from the reform school will probably come for the prisoner.

A rumor was heard today—but we have seen nothing to verify it—that the San Francisco Examiner will obtain control of the Portland Sun and run a full-fledged democratic paper in Portland. In anybody could make it go, the Examiner people, with a gold mine behind them, would be the ones.

The finance committee of the council will recommend at the next meeting that Mr. Burget be allowed extra compensation for his work in connection with the city bonds. This is no more than justice, as the treasurer was compelled to do a vast amount of labor for which the present salary was a poor compensation.

Miss Jessup, who will recite next Thursday evening at the opera house, is thus spoken of by the Oregonian:

Miss Lloyd Jessup, won the applause and admiration of her large audience by the manner in which she looked and acted her difficult part; and even the cold critics could not say that she lacked dramatic force.

These hot days make swimming the most popular diversion of the day and every evening a crowd of swimmers take a plunge in the cool waters of the Columbia. If some enterprising individual would fix up a bath house along the river shore he would doubtless find the investment a paying one. In other cities they prove very popular institutions.

In commenting upon Miss Minto's playing, the Los Angeles Herald says: "The next was an instrumental solo, 'Polka de la Reme,' by Miss Minto. She showed herself to be an excellent musician, and at home when playing the piano. She was encored."—Los Angeles Herald. Miss Minto will give several selections at the opera house next Thursday.

The fair next fall promises to be a success and the management are working hard along that line. They are making every effort to have the meeting up to the standard it should be. Without the co-operation of our business men, the fair cannot be what its promoters wish. Some of our prominent exhibitors have said that the premiums offered are not enough to justify them bringing in their fancy stock. A contribution should be given large enough to enable the premiums to be increased so that more people from the country can afford to make exhibits.

Woodmen Organize at Dufur. Ten members from The Dalles Camp, No. 59, Woodmen of the World, started from The Dalles yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, their destination being the pretty little village of Dufur, and their business not to cut down the timber of that locality, but to institute a camp of the order in that place. Twenty-two were put through the mysteries of this order in proper shape, and are henceforth to be known as Woodmen of the World. The camp was organized under the name of Unity Camp, No. 215, Dufur, Oregon. State Organizer L. L. Swann had the work in charge, and under his management the boys got through safely and returned to The Dalles this morning in the wee sma' hours.

All were well pleased with the trip, though there are some tired eyes today. Thomas A. Ward held the ribbons over the four blacks, and it is needless to say they came to time under his orders.
