SOMETHING WORTH COPYING.

THE CHRONICLE believes in every newspaper doing its own work, but here is something from the Spokesman-Review which is such a well written editorial that the temptation to copy it is irresistible.

If the Bannock uprising should lead to a massacre of helpless women and children, the blame should be made to attach to the reckless men who slaughtered the Indian party in Hoback canyon.

From the landing of Columbus to the massacre in Hoback canyon, the North American Indian has been a wronged and persecuted being.

Even centuries of persecution, of pushing from post to pillar, of contamination by the white man's vices have not entirely altered the original benign nature of the red man.

When the Indian shall have made his final stand for justice; when his last arrow has been broken, and his last campfire scattered, and gone are the little selfish motives that have lain back of his persecution, history will have a sorry tale to tell of his annihilation.

THE INDIAN OUTBREAK.

The wicked flee where no man pursueth; and thus it proves with the latest Indian "outbreak." The alleged massacre proves to be almost without foundation.

Indian character is anything but admirable, and possibly any attempt to make law abiding and useful citizens of them is as hopeless as to make a shepherd dog of a coyote; nevertheless were their characters entirely different the treatment they have received at the hands of Indian agents and settlers would have driven them away from instead of winning them to the civilization of the white man.

There are several sections of side walk which need condemning badly; the city has little use for a damage suit just now, and it will be much easier to fight a delinquent property owner in a forum of our own choosing than a lawsuit for damages by some one maimed for life before the circuit court.

Wheat made another advance Saturday of 2 1/2 cents in the right direction. If those gamblers in Chicago can keep up the game at the present pitch for about three months longer, Oregon will be in at the finish and make a killing.

ington, where it was filed along with other documents and reports. The federal government and the authorities in Wyoming have been slow to act and the result is told by the dead bodies of American settlers scalped by ruthless hands.

PORTLAND'S FAIR.

Portland is exerting herself to secure an industrial fair this fall; her enterprise is commendable, for there is no question but that these annual fairs have benefited Portland. But the managers of the proposed show will find a very great barrier to success in the disgust felt all over the Northwest by those who attended the last fair.

WASCO'S FRUIT.

The fruit industry about The Dalles is showing itself; a carload of peach plums a day is a large amount of one variety of fruit; but the supply is not exhausted; no finer plums are produced on the face of the earth, and Wasco county could produce enough to supply the world.

It is none too early to make plans for a Christmas celebration at the Cascade Locks. The Dalles is most deeply interested and should take the initiative.

Senator Dolph's criticism of the supreme court was not for the purpose of trying his case in the newspapers, but to enlighten the bar of the state of a new ruling. But the bar, with a strange unanimity, come back to him with suggestions that the fault was not with the supreme court, but with the attorney who tried to raise in the supreme court a question which he should first have presented to the circuit court.

When Cuba is independent and we have an administration which believes in America for Americans, there will be little chance of Europe ever again to exercise authority on this continent outside of British North America.

A SUIT ON BEHALF OF THE INDIANS.

An injunction suit has been instituted by the United States on behalf of the Yakima Indians against the Winans Bros., to determine the rights of the Indians to fish from lands owned by individuals.

Of all known agents for this purpose, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the best. Once used, they are always in favor.

THE TRANSPORTATION ON THE UPPER COLUMBIA.

The press of Puget sound have suggested that the recent meeting between Paul Mohr and his associates with W. D. Tyler, manager of the Hunt system, may mean a transportation line down the Columbia paralleling the O. R. & N. road.

The D. P. & A. N. Co. have revolutionized the transportation business between this city and Portland, with the aid of the state portage railroad.

Yesterday morning at 7:30 Henry Bills, Archie McCulley, Chas. Fritz, Bert Barrett, Will Crossen, Edwin Riggs, Harry Eeping and Gus Bartell started on their wheels for a ride to Deschutes, a distance of about 17 miles.

Moored in the creek back of the Cosmopolitan lies a flat bottomed, scow built boat, which has had a rather eventful journey. It was built last April by W. L. Le Compt, with three companions and has come the entire distance from Lewiston to The Dalles down the treacherous currents and through the rapids of the Snake and Columbia rivers.

He Wants to Know. To THE EDITOR:—Why is it that a cheap John, one-horse show, at 35 cents, is well patronized, when an intellectual lecture, like that given in the Christian church last night, is left with a small audience?

ASSIST NATURE a little now and then in removing offending matter from the stomach and bowels and you thereby avoid a multitude of distressing derangements and diseases, and will have less frequent need of your doctor's services.

unjustly and uselessly killed by men who will never be punished therefor.

The Indian outbreak is of some utility; like a false fire alarm it gets out the machinery and men held and hired to protect us and gives a drill with which no dress parade can compare.

When the Note Falls Due. You may say that life is trouble. When the clouds are in the blue, But a fellow finds it double.

Sorrow's nothing but a bubble That will vanish from the view, But it's trouble, trouble, trouble, When the Note Falls Due.

And the corn it goes to stubble, And the rose, it withers, too, And it's trouble, trouble, trouble, When the Note Falls Due.

Go it single file or double, There'll be work enough for you In a living world of trouble, When the Note Falls Due.

The first stop was made at Mr. Floyd's, on 5-Mile, where the riders were shown through the orchard and told to help themselves to the fruit.
