SUPPLY AND DEMAND MUST GOVERN.

United States Judge Caldwell of Kansas, in declaring himself in favor of free silver, says: "What is the use of paying any attention to foreign countries, any way? Are we not capable of managing our own affairs?"

If the United States government goes into the business of fixing values it can do one just as well as the other of these; and when it has succeeded in all that, we will ask to have the services of a newspaper editor fixed by the government.

LET EVERYONE HELP.

The business men who met at the council chambers last night decided that every endeavor should be made to give The Dalles and the surrounding district an agricultural and speed exhibition that will be a "rouser."

The arrangements this year will be upon a more elaborate scale than ever before attempted in this county. The agricultural exhibit and specimens of handiwork and commercial display will be held in the Vogt Grand opera house, where a promenade concert will be given every evening by the orchestra.

With the prospects of a good harvest, our friends from the country will want to visit the town, and we should provide the entertainment. The Dalles needs the fair, and every effort made towards having a worthy exhibition is a step in the right direction to hasten our city's growth.

THE IRRIGATION QUESTION.

The decision of Judge Rose, of the United States court, for the southern district of California, in declaring the Wright irrigation act unconstitutional, is causing great excitement throughout the state.

district. The two important points upon which Judge Rose bases his decision are that the provisions of the law permit private property to be taken without giving to the owner any right to be heard in the matter, and that, under the provisions of the act, there must be a taking of private property for public use.

The principle applying to an irrigation district, the judge says, is different from that of a public improvement, in which the benefits sought are to be for the benefit of the entire public. In the case of the irrigation proposition one may raise such crops as require irrigation, while the other may not.

The matter will be taken to the United States supreme court for final adjudication, and if the decision is sustained, the people of California, and other states possessing arid lands, will have to seek some other means of obtaining extensive irrigation.

HOW IT AFFECTS HARRISON.

The result of the Pennsylvania republican convention will bring little comfort to ex-President Harrison. His one-time friend, but now open enemy, Senator Quay, has the entire machinery of the state under his control, and will not only lead, but name the next delegation from his home state to the national convention.

With Quay riding in the saddle in Pennsylvania, and the friends of Governor Morton, under the leadership of Thomas C. Platt, actively working in New York, the prospects of Mr. Harrison do not at the present time seem dazzling.

The outlook for wheat is not now very encouraging. A short time ago prices went up with a violent jump, but ever since have been tumbling down. Yet the total yield of all the wheat-producing countries is estimated by all students of the subject to be considerably less than last year, and the surplus in this country, at least, is said to be small.

A correspondent of the Oregonian asks what harm there is in boycotting national bank notes. We do not think there is any, and we wish everyone would boycott them, and then we would buy them up cheap.

Four men were lynched by a mob in Yreka, Calif., Sunday night. If such a thing were necessary in that county, it is an exceedingly poor recommendation as an abiding place for law-abiding citizens.

If rich Americans will insist upon spending their money for European jewelry and nicknacks, they must expect to pay a tax upon them when they return. Smuggling is as great an offense when committed by a rich New Yorker as when committed by a Chinaman.

There is almost nothing which will drive Pennsylvania into the democratic ranks. If there was anything to do it, the chances would now be favorable for democracy to gain another northern state.

A thunder storm like that of last evening is a rare occurrence in Wasco county. It came as a reminder of what most states experience many times during every summer, and to make us the more highly to appreciate our freedom from such terrifying storms.

The republicans of Pennsylvania—or a majority of them at least—are just now on the Quay-vive.

There is no excuse for any man to appear in society with a grizzly beard since the introduction of Buckingham's Dye, which colors natural brown or black.

QUAY'S GREAT VICTORY.

Viewed in any light that may be thrown upon it, the spectacle that has just been witnessed in Pennsylvania is a striking commentary upon the power of a single mind over many. Matthew Quay has achieved a victory seldom given any man to obtain.

Not only did Quay succeed in holding his own and getting himself elected chairman of the central committee, but he has made himself, the dispatches say, "the idol of the republican party in Pennsylvania." That the party in that state is in a bad way for idols, goes without saying.

OPENING OF THE CASCADES CANAL.

Within a few months the long-talked-of opening of the Columbia river from this place to the ocean will be an event in the past history of Oregon. For nearly twenty-five years the people of the eastern portion of Oregon and Washington have begged and pleaded and resolved, and now and then the people of the western portion of Oregon have joined us in pleading for this improvement.

When the steamer Regulator first slid from her ways into the waters of the Columbia, it was suggested by the speaker of the day that the whistle of that steamer would add another voice, more powerful than all the others, to the chorus of voices then demanding the completion of the Cascade canal.

We believe the day when the canal is opened will be the commencement of a new and better era for our city. But to avail ourselves of the advantages which are promised, we must unite and work in harmony.

A COMMENDABLE ECONOMY.

Governor Lord has announced his intention to disallow all bills hereafter incurred by sheriffs in traveling to and from Salem to procure requisition papers. The applications can be examined and acted upon as well it presented by mail as by sheriffs in person.

A very large expense bill can be cut off by refusing requisitions altogether, except in extreme cases. The state is well rid of the fugitive who has committed larceny or lesser offenses, and if the fugitive continues his career, it will not be long before the law will place him where he belongs without a requisition and the accompanying expense.

Film-Flamed Out of a Diamond.

This afternoon a stranger asked W. T. Wiseman to advance him a loan upon a diamond. When Mr. Wiseman was shown the stone, he and the stranger went to W. E. Garretson's jewelry store, where Mr. Garretson examined the stone and pronounced it genuine, saying it was worth about $35. Whereupon Mr. Wiseman and the gentleman of the borrowing turn of mind went down the street. Negotiations were renewed and Mr. Wiseman agreed to lend the stranger $20. The latter reached in his pocket and pulled out what purported to be the same stone.

Mr. Brooks has received a letter from B. S. Pague, chairman of the county exhibit committee of the Portland Exposition, asking the co-operation of the people of Wasco county towards the Industrial Exposition. Mr. Pague wishes a list sent him of all the prominent fruit and grain growers in order that he may write them and solicit exhibitions.

The people of Goldendale are feeling much elated over the possibility of the railroad being built from that place to Lyle. A committee has been hard at work for some time and feel confident their effort will be rewarded with success.

The two men charged with swindling W. T. Wiseman on the diamond racket, have been before Justice Davis today. They give their names as Walter Brooks and F. A. Pease, and declare themselves innocent of any crime.

The wind last night played havoc among the trees and shubbery in town. Along Third and Fourth streets, where the tall poplars are numerous, the ground is covered with broken limbs and scattered leaves.

The land office officials are hearing a contest today between Harry Constantine, the contestant, and F. C. Leloh, the entryman. The land in dispute is in the southern part of Sherman county, and the entryman is charged with not having fulfilled the requirements of the homestead law.

Appointed Deputy Protector.

Mr. A. A. Urquhart received the following communication this morning from Mr. McGuire.

Reposing special confidence in A. A. Urquhart of The Dalles, Oregon, I hereby appoint him deputy fish and game protector for Wasco county, state of Oregon. Compensation to be such as provided by law.

HOLLISTER D. MCGUIRE, State Fish and Game Protector.

It will be the duty of the deputy protector to report all infringements of the fish and game laws, such as fishing out of season, throwing sawdust into streams and the like. The office is an important one and requires constant vigilance.

Paying Strict Attention to Business That's what Brings Results!

Anyone with half an eye can see that our friend Grover has been doing that same. And in this connection, let us remark that it is "paying strict attention to business" that has placed "HAPPY HOME" Clothing at the head of the procession.

The Event of the Year.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Today's race at Fleetwood Park, in the free-for-all pacing class, with Joe Patchen, Robert J. and John R. Gentry, as starters, is likely to be the event of the year in harness racing, these three famous pacers being the fastest trio ever seen in a contest up to this time.

Torpedo Boat Capized.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 29.—A torpedo boat capized yesterday in the North sea. Thirteen persons are reported drowned.

ECZEMA, greatest of skin diseases, is the cause of more intense suffering than all others combined.

Tender babies are among its numerous victims. The itching, burning, cracking, bleeding, and scaling of the skin and scalp are almost beyond endurance.

Most remedies and physicians generally fail even to relieve. If CUTICURA remedies did no more than cure Eczema, they would be entitled to the gratitude of mankind.
