A RESURRECTED LETTER.

It is, to many in this community, no surprise that the several enterprises, started three or four years ago, through which many eastern people were induced to part with their hard-earned savings, or have become involved in litigation over their obligations, have failed and brought disaster to the projectors. That business men in the East should agree to purchase lands in this locality without knowing anything of the title or nature of the lands, except what they were told by agents of the corporations which claimed to own them, was something which business men here could not comprehend.

These enterprises, or schemes, furnish a good illustration of the gullibility of the American people, a characteristic which Barnam frankly admitted was largely the basis of his success. But it was due not entirely to their gullibility that these investors were deluded. Some of them withheld their patronage until after they had sent some one of their number to investigate and report, and relying upon the report thus obtained invested. It will be of interest to people here to read at the present time one of these reports made by a man who came to investigate for his fellow-citizens, and which were embodied in a letter to THE CHRONICLE published June 17, 1892. Additional interest is given to this article by the fact that, as we are informed, the writer is one of the accusers of O. D. Taylor, who has been arrested for obtaining money under false pretenses. Among other things Dr. Cornell, the investigator referred to, says in this letter:

"A number of my fellow-citizens invested in lots in Grand Dalles on the strength of its geographical position and certain other representations made by the above-named company. True to human nature, as soon as the investment was made many of them sought information from your citizens who ought to know, and occasionally a reply surprised, and consider the possibilities better than any other point in the and the community an upright and hon-Northwest coast. The representations citizen who "leels sorry" for the eastern investor through misrepresentations of this company, I advise him to sleep easy; taking precautions, however, for due here the day the contract for the completion of the cascade locks is let.

"Now, I notice THE CHRONICLE has a strong disposition to be loyal to your city and its best interests, and in addition to noting its resources, I would suggest that you draw attention to this point as a manufacturing center. The rapids, just above Terminal bay, will furnish power for all manufacturing plants which may locate here. * * More has been done in the East to draw attention to this point than many of throwing cold water on the scheme of the Interstate Improvement Company, they should give them a loyal support. If this were done a beautiful city would soon adorn the banks of the Columbia. from a slight indisposition. Whether done or not, there is no power which can prevent what nature has destined, and that is a manufacturing city at this point."

THE CHEONICLE never "threw cold water" on the scheme, but it was, and is, its nature and treatment understood loval to our city and its best interests, and on that account always cautioned made its appearance in Honolulu, and the public against the visionary schemes prevails to some extent in Japan and of O. D. Taylor and his associates; and China. THE CHRONICLE'S advice to exercise caution in going into the schemes was looked upon by Dr. Cornell and many others as a disposition to throw cold water.

Labor day was universally observed in the East yesterday. In Washington 5000 men were in line. Baltimore suspended business and gave the day over to parades, picnics and speeches. Our great foreign city, New York, celebrated by giving a large excursion to Coney Island and witnessing a monster parade by the Knights of Labor. In Boston, Buffalo, Chicago, Indianapolis, and all the large cities and smaller towns, labor day was made a day of cessation from work and loss of wages. The observance was much more general in the East than on the Pacific coast, where the classes that did participate were mainly those not usually called the laboring classes. In The Dalles the laboring men were too busy erecting new buildings and making various improvements to pay much attention to the day of rest given by law. Steady work, at fair remuneration, with freedom from worriment, is generally so satisfactory to the laboring man that he needs no day of rest other than the one which Divine authority and universal custom has granted once in each week.

CUBA AND THE PRESENT AD-MINISTRATION.

Mr. Cleveland's administration is having its hands full in trying to prevent Cuban sympathizers in this country from rendering substantial aid to the revolutionists. We believe our gov ernment would be doing Spain, Cuba and the cause of humanity a valuable service should it intimate to Spain that the revolutionists of Cuba would be recognized as belligerents after a certain date unless the war was sooner terminated.

Spain's treatment of Cuba takes from her the sympathy of the civilized world, and every republic on the globe would like to see Cuba free. But Mr. Cleveland's sympathies have always been in favor of the monarchy as against those seeking to overthrow it, and Cuban sympathizers will receive no encouragement to us inconsistent with the best interests from this administration.

Pennsylvania has long been the home of the Quakers; but her people were never so much so as at 6 o'clock Sunday to all men of each party. morning, when the earth itself joined the society. Earthquakes used to be one of the supposed terrors of the Pacitic slope-a kind of companion to the grizzly bear and wild Indian-and staid old eastern states were supposed to have passed the quaking age long years ago. Now New York and Pennsylvania are shaken up and cracked open, and for many years the Pacific states have stood state.

Mr. I. I. Borget, who died in this city would be received which would throw Sunday morning, was a man who had grave doubts on the future prospects of many friends and no enemies among this place and impugn the motives and good people. He served Dalles City as honesty of its promoters. As a result I treasurer very faithfully and acceptably am here to investigate, which I have for the past year and a half, and in this, done, and must say that I am agreeably as in all his efforts to serve others, he was most faithful and conscientious. for a future, and that in the near future, The Dalles has lost an efficient officer, orable man. His absence will be sorely made to me by the investment company felt in business and fraternal circles, and I can now verify, and if you have any a host of friends will think of him with kindest memories.

There is mourning in Portland athletic circles today on account of the dea safe retreat from the cyclone which is feat of the football team in Butte, Mont. The Montana boys made arrangements with the weather officials, who caused a great wind to arise and fill with dust the eyes of the visiting team, defeating them in an exciting contest. If it had been mud, instead of dust, the game was played in, victory would have come to the webfooters.

THE CHRONICLE'S POSITION.

THE CHRONICLE was started as an independent paper, so far as all questions other than the protective tariff, were concerned. It has always been an outspoken advocate for protection of home industries, and, under the present management, is a republican paper upon all the local train for Salem. national issues. By the recent sale of the Times-Mountaineer we understand the politics of the paper are changed, and we are left the only republican paper published at The Dalles.

The loss of the Mountaineer to the republican party of the county and state is a serious one. Upon national political questions its position has been sound and its work has been felt. Its longtime editor, Mr. John Michell, is a clear and forcible writer, and his position upon the essential doctrines of the republican party has never been uncertain, nor his utterances feeble. While we regret to lose the Mountaineer from the republican ranks, from a selfish point it should, and no doubt will, be to the advantage of THE CHRONICLE and its stockholders. The importance of a cordial support to the one republican paper will be apparent, and this should bring to THE CHRONICLE the co-operation of all who believe that the republican cause is the right one.

THE CHRONICLE has lost a rival, and we desire to say to all who have in times past looked upon this paper as the voice of a portion only of the republican party of the county, that it is the sincere wish of the present management to make it in name and in fact a republican paper, the voice of a united republican party, and an advocate for the best interests of the entire party in this county and state. It will continue, as heretofore, to criticise and condemn whatever appears of the county, the people, and the re publican party; but in doing so it will try to be fair to men of all parties, and

NOW FOR GOOD ROADS.

The transportation question is now practically solved for The Dalles. By another season competition will reduce river rates to the minimum, and the removal of any necessity to break bulk between here and Portland will place us in the most favorable position of any city in the state, except Portland. We firm. The more we know of the world, need, however, better facilities for reachthe better satisfied are we with our own, ing the interior. We have some good roads into the interior, but they are few. We need one good road, with easy grades and solid foundation from here to the heart of Sherman county: we need a good road from the neighborhood of Fossil; we need a better road into Klickitat valley. These will not be built without a united effort on the part of our business men and a liberal contribution of money; good roads will never make themselves in this country. A good beginning could be made by the building of a broad, level and smooth road from the top of brewery hill to 3-Mile. This road is now about as rough and trying upon a loaded wagon as any in the state. When this is done we might, with great profit to the city, give our attention to the road up the river to 5-Mile. That piece of road is a terror to a Sherman county teamster, and is the worst part of the road between here and the free bridge.

Brains, money and work will give us as good roads as any country has, and when we have facilities by which business can reach us, it will come. If when the Cascade canal is opened the capital which our business men have tied in the steamboat business could be invested in good roads into the interior it would make The Dalles the second largest town in the state within three years. The transportation business will now take care of itself; but the roads must be improved, or the advantages which we will soon enjoy by reason of the opening of the river will be of little use to us.

We wish them success, but we shall esteem them as in the city on business. citizens just the same, whether victorious or not.

The wheat market at Chicago has the right tendency just now; the price advanced one cent yesterday. We have faith that it will continue to go up, and that before November 1st wheat will sell at The Dalles for fifty cents.
