Saturday's Daily

The Regulator left the Cascades at 2:45.

The weather report for Sunday is fair and cooler.

The grand jury has brought in a "not true bill" in the case of Alvin Sigman charged with larceny.

The Mt. Hood Hose Company will meet this evening to make arrangements for the Thanksgiving dance.

There will be no services at the Catholic church tomorrow (Sunday.) Rev. A. Bronsgeest is at present visiting his mission in Crook county and could not get a priest in Portland to take his place.

The Knights of the Maccabees will hold their regular meeting this evening in Fraternity hall. Members are requested to be promptly on hand at the hour of opening, which will be at 7:30.

The new warehouse has had a huge sign painted on the west end, bearing the words "The Dalles, Portland & Astoria Navigation Co. Warehouse." The warehouse is now practically completed.

Lee Moorehouse and Myron Taft, who were indicted by the grand jury yesterday, were arraigned in open court this morning and plead not guilty. They demanded separate trials which will occur next week.

Monday the case of the State vs. H. F. Jackson will be taken up in the circuit court. When this is through, the trial of Dr. Julius Rothel will be called up, and then the charge against Bluford Douglas will be investigated.

At the Congregational church tomorrow evening Mrs. E. M. Wilson, formerly of Dayton, Wash. The ceremony was performed by Elder J. H. Miller, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church. Mr. and Mrs. Johns have the congratulations of a large number of friends, who wish them a pleasant journey through life.

The band belonging to Mahara's Minstrels appeared upon the street at noon today and played several selections in a charming manner. The band is an uncommonly fine one and the pieces played were difficult. The Grand selection from the Opera "Ermine" gave the band an opportunity to do some good work and they did it.

The whist club held its second meeting of the season last evening. Mr. and Mrs. Lord were the entertainers. Part of the evening was devoted to business and part to whist. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hostetler were elected members of the club. Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Peters will entertain next Friday evening. The whist club is one of the pleasantest social organizations in the city and the members are glad to meet together again after a summer's vacation.

Word has just come to town that a lot of hay on the Porter place, a few miles from Antelope, was burned day before yesterday. Phil Brogan lost between seventy and eighty tons, which he was saving for the winter feeding. Tracks were seen leading from the stacks, and the despicable miscreants have been tracked and parties are now in pursuit. This is the first occurrence of this kind near Antelope, though similar burnings have been frequent near Mitchell. It is hard to understand how a man can be so mean as to set fire to a neighbor's haystack, but so it seems. It is to be hoped that some of the offenders may be caught, and such an example made of them that others will be prevented from imitating them.

The lecture given by Dr. G. W. Gue at the Armory last night was very largely attended, it being estimated that over 400 people were in the hall. Dr. Gue was introduced by J. M. Patterson, Esq. and for over an hour entertained his hearers. The address was what might be called an "off-hand" one, being free from any attempt at oratory yet full of power. At times the speaker rose to eloquence. Dr. Gue is an old soldier and loves the American flag, and all that it means, with an enthusiasm delightful to see. His address last evening was patriotic to the core and made a deep impression upon the audience. During the course of his remarks he told some amusing anecdotes of army life with which the old soldiers present could sympathize. Dr. Gue returned to Portland this morning.

J. M. Phillips, general agent of the Howe-Readick combination, arrived in town this morning. Mr. Phillips says the company will play at the Baldwin opera house Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. The repertoire of the company is "Tony, the Outcast," "Monte Cristo," "Forbidden," and "The American Girl." The following well-known artists are in the company: Mr. Frank Readick, Mr. Cornell Makin, Stanley J. Ross, John McCullough, Maurice Gregory, Louis Freidman and John O'Reilly, Miss Essie Tittle, Miss Milly Freeman, Miss Florence Earl, Miss Belle Thore, Clara Dara and the great child actress.

Monday's Daily

Five hundred and thirty men are employed at the locks.

The weather for tomorrow is promised fair and stationary.

"Tony the Outcast," Wednesday evening at the Baldwin theatre.

Maharra's Minstrels showed last night at the Locks to a large audience. The performance was held in the hall over Cates store.

Twenty-four cattle from Dufur were delivered at the stock yards today. They were purchased by Monroe Grimes and will be shipped to Troutdale.

J. O. Mack has removed from the French block to the Oro Fino building on Second street, near Union. His former place will be occupied by Stubling & Williams.

A confirmation was given today in the case of Sroufe and McCrum vs. R. G. Closter, administrator. The property sold was the old Bonzey building on Front street.

A large shipment of fruit trees for points south of The Dalles, such as Dufur, Antelope and Mitchell, came up on the boat Saturday. They are from White Salmon.

A marriage license was granted this morning by the county clerk to George W. Jackel and Rosa Ida Knobel. A deed from Hugh Ross to Mary Ross was also filed for record.

The case of H. F. Jackson is on trial today in the circuit court. The day has been spent in securing a jury the regular panel being exhausted and a special venire summoned.

Two car loads of dried prunes from the orchards of Wm. Floyd, C. E. Chrisman and W. H. Taylor, were shipped east yesterday by E. Buchanan representing Miss Zetta Smith.

The Sadie B. the new launch recently built at the Cascades is busy towing wood scows and barges loaded with stone besides manipulating the dredger from place to place. She is a trim little craft and possessed of much power.

Three steam drills are at work at the lower bulkhead in the locks. A great deal of blasting must be done before the bulkhead will be out of the way, but the way the steam drills are pegging away the obstructions won't last long.

The dock at Rockland is cleared of wheat, the Regulator having taken all that was ready for shipment. The customary load was taken this morning, but the dock on this side is being filled with wheat again.

A wagon approach is being built from the foot of Washington, near the old Waldron stone building, to the new warehouse platform. When it is completed wagons can drive to the warehouse from Washington street and pass out on Court street or vice versa.

The rain of last week did a great deal of good to the men who are getting out cordwood along the Columbia between here and Cascades, in enabling them to flume the cordwood from the mountains to the river. There has been quite a period of quiet in some localities and from now till winter sets in the wood trade will be lively.

Hood River is rapidly assuming city airs. It is reported negotiations are under way for the putting in of an electric light plant which will light the streets and business houses of the town. With the aid of abundant water facilities such an enterprise could easily be started.

A letter received from Antelope yesterday gave the information that Tom Lewis had been arrested for setting fire to Phil Brogan's hay and that the preliminary examination was to be held in Antelope today. It is not known how strong the evidence against Lewis is. Since the above was written Lewis has been brought to The Dalles by Deputy Sheriff Cook and is now in the county jail.

The grand jury has returned a true bill against Thomas Denton, jr., charging him with setting fire to the barn of the Dalles Lumbering Co. The stable lock fire about 2 a. m. on Sunday, Oct. 25th and burned to the ground. Six fine horses, a lot of hay and other valuable property were destroyed. The evidence against Denton is purely circumstantial. The trial will be a very prominent one and warmly contested.

Tomorrow evening at the Congregational church occurs the first lecture in the winter course. Hon. Thomas N. Strong will be the speaker and has taken for his subject: "Municipal Reform." Mr. Strong has been one of the leaders in the reform movement in Portland and no one in the state is better qualified to discuss this very important question. A large number of tickets have already been sold but there are some remaining yet for sale. This course of lectures is something which The Dalles has long needed and it is hoped the citizens will give it the enthusiastic support to which it is entitled.

Tuesday's Daily

Three carloads of cattle went from the stockyards to Troutdale this morning.

Four carloads of cattle from near La Grande passed through The Dalles this morning on their way to Portland.

Hon. Thomas N. Strong arrived on the local today from Portland. He will lecture at the Congregational church this evening.

You can't afford to wear shabby clothing when offers like the big 6 are being made. See A. M. Williams & Co.'s advertisement.

W. H. Young and Isaac Joles have gone to Sherman county on a geese hunting expedition. The geese are said to be plentiful in that region just at present.

A bunch of hogs, numbering forty-seven, was received at the stockyards today for shipment west. They were from the ranch of Mrs. Green, in Klickitat county.

It is said a new saloon will be opened in the old Bonzey building on Front street. This will make five new saloons which have been started in The Dalles since June 1st.

In the county clerk's office today four warranty deeds were filed as follows: State of Oregon to Levi Smith, J. C. Wilhelm to the United States, State of Oregon to the United States, and Levi Jones to Barnes Jones.

Arrangements are completed for the Thanksgiving ball to be given by the Mt. Hood Hose Company. An excellent committee has charge of the affair and are going to make it one of the most successful social events of the season.

The list of members for the athletic club is growing and there seems little doubt but that the club will be a go. There is plenty of material in The Dalles for such an organization and all is needed is to work together and get a good start.

The Taine Class met last evening with Miss Ruch and enjoyed a very pleasant session. Selections from American poetsess were read, interspersed with music. The Taine Class is one of the most enjoyable social features of the city, besides offering intellectual stimulus.

The subject of "Municipal Reform" is one in which every good citizen should be interested. Misgovernment of cities, large and small, has been one of the curses of the age. The lecture at the Congregational church this evening will upon this important question.

City Recorder Phelps appeared in a new role this morning. He was called upon to perform a marriage ceremony, which he did with all clerical dignity. George W. Jackel and Miss Rose Knobel were the interested parties and they seemed satisfied with the way the recorder did the deed.

The foundation is being laid for the house of Mr. F. H. Rowe to be built upon the hill just west of Mr. B. F. Laughlin's residence. As soon as the stone work is done the frame will be raised. All the lumber has been cut and prepared in Mr. Rowe's sawmill at Lyle, so that the construction of the house will be speedy.

Santa Claus has arranged for a large depot of dolls of all sorts and conditions to be displayed for sale at the Armory Bazar, Dec. 13th and 14th. They will be there in stock to meet all tastes. Grandmothers, mothers, young misses, little folks and infants in arms—every one of the feminine creation will find a doll that just pleases them.

Quite a delegation came in from Antelope today to appear before the grand jury in the case of Tom Lewis, who is charged with setting fire to Phil Brogan's hay. Those who came from Antelope are Charles Murphy, E. B. Darbin, N. Baird, J. C. Brogan, Jack Hemerson, Tom Brogan, Jack Brogan, S. Glone, J. S. McAndre and Ed. Fennell.

After being out all night the jury in the case of the State vs. H. F. Jackson returned a verdict of not guilty. Most of the day was occupied in securing a jury and but little time used in the introduction of testimony. The state introduced several witnesses to prove the reputation of the place which the defendant was charged with maintaining. The jury came in this morning and asked that the instructions be read again. When they again retired and deliberated for an hour or more they came in at 10:30 with a verdict of not guilty.

"Old Hickory" Wagon

An Athletic Club Organized.

A meeting was held yesterday afternoon by a number of young men who had been in the athletic class of Prof. Christol. The meeting was called to consider the advisability of forming a club, a prominent feature of which should be athletic exercise. After some informal discussion the members present proceeded to a temporary organization with the following chosen as temporary officers: H. A. Bills, president; F. W. Wilson, vice president; Max A. Vogt, secretary and N. J. Sinnott, treasurer. An opportunity was given those present to sign the roll and soon twenty-one names were recorded. The organization yesterday was purely temporary and it is the intention to meet again during the week, after more signatures have been obtained to the list of members and have a permanent organization. A constitution and by laws will be adopted, committees appointed to purchase gymnastic apparatus and attend to various other matters of detail. The club intends having a gymnasium, especially complete in apparatus for light gymnastics, with hot and cold shower baths. The club is being organized on a broad scale and thus far meets with general approval. The social feature will not be neglected and a reading room and place for holding meetings will be provided. It is not known what building will be selected but the members have several in view. The one that seems the most convenient is the second floor of the Grant building, at the corner of First and Washington streets. This building was damaged by the recent fire and is now being thoroughly renovated. An opportunity will be given to those wishing to become members of the club to do so before the next meeting. Such an organization is one which has long been needed in The Dalles and it is to be hoped success will attend the efforts of the promoters.

The Chinamen Indicted.

Late Saturday afternoon the grand jury returned true bills against Lee Git and Lee Ching who are accused of murdering Lock Wa last August. This morning the defendants appeared in court and through their attorneys Huntington & Wilson, entered demurrers to the indictment. As the Chinamen were indicted severally, separate demurrers were filed, though they are similar in purport. The demurrers are taken to indictment first because it does not state facts sufficient to constitute a crime; second that it does not conform to chap. viii of the code of Oregon in this:

I, That the act charged as the crime is not stated with such a degree of certainty as to enable the court to pronounce judgment upon conviction, according to the right of the case.

II, That the act charged is not clearly and distinctly set forth in ordinary and concise language in such a manner as to enable a person of common understanding to know what is intended.

An Afternoon Party.

Seventeen ladies spent a pleasant afternoon last Saturday at the residence of Mrs. H. S. Wilson. The rooms were prettily decorated with Oregon grape and with chrysanthemums in profusion. With historic fitness, recognizing the native state of the hospitable entertainer, a large part of the afternoon was spent in guessing, an occupation which proved so fascinating that only the tempting viands on the various lunch tables could call a temporary halt. When the result of the guessing was summed up it was found that Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Wilson were entitled to elegant birch bark paintings for the most successful guessing. To keep the rest of the guests more contented they too were awarded a birch bark picture, also a souvenir of the "Green mountain" state. The mementoes will be highly valued. Those who were fortunate to partake of Mrs. Wilson's hospitality were Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. E. J. Collins, Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. C. W. Taylor, of Wallula, Mrs. W. E. Garretson, Mrs. W. C. Curtis, Mrs. W. H. Biggs, Mrs. J. B. Condon, Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson, Mrs. Bayley, Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. O. C. Hollister.

A traveling man just returned to The Dalles told a CHRONICLE reporter this morning a joke on a well known engineer on the O. R. & N. Those who have traveled between Walla Walla and Pendleton will remember that the tracks of the O. R. & N. and the Washington & Columbia River railroad run parallel out of Pendleton for a distance of some miles. As the story goes, this engineer, we will call him "Mac," for short, was "pulling" a special with Superintendent O'Brien aboard. A short distance from Pendleton "Mac" was speeding them along when suddenly he saw a train, also at full speed, approaching from the opposite direction. Visions of a death dealing, "head on" collision, darted through his brain and quick as a flash he gave the emergency signal, hoisted the lever over, and jumped. The sudden stopping of the train brought Mr. O'Brien out in a jiffy to inquire what was the matter, and just as the engineer was telling him to look out for a collision the W. & C. train darted past with the trainmen wondering what the superintendent and the O. R. & N. engineer were so intently discussing. Mr. O'Brien gave one look and got back into the coach while the engineer climbed into the cab opened the throttle and let out a sentence which sounded something like "—these parallel roads anyhow."

The services at the Congregational church last evening were out of the usual order. Instead of the regular sermon Mr. Curtis read a paper on "Some of the Early Missionaries of the Northwest," which told of their early struggles and the great good in which their efforts resulted. The paper was very interesting. Mr. Curtis was followed by Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson who read an essay on the great triumvirate of pioneers, Dr. John McLoughlin, James H. Wilbur and Cushing Eels. The paper contained many anecdotes of these worthy men, some of them incidents in Mrs. Wilson's acquaintance with them. The speaker paid tributes to their memory and held them up as examples of what good citizens should be.

A few wagon loads of wheat reached town today, but the season seems about over.
