Joint Resolution Foreibly Approving the Principles of the Monroe Doctrine Introduced in the Senate--Nominations.

there was not the struggle for places incident to the opening.

After the formal proceedings, Senators Vilas and Allison, the committee apinto the middle aisle and Vilas said: "The president desires us to convey his respectful salutations to the houses of congress and to say he will immediately communicate his views in writing to congress."

Then Pruden, the executive clerk, made a formal transfer of the message to the senate.

There was a thining out of the attendance on the floor after the first half hour of reading, as the senators had printed

At 1:40 the reading of the message was completed, and on motion of Senator Gorman it was laid on the table and ordered printed.

Senator Cullom presented a communication from Evanston, Ill., asking that the government take action concerning the deplorable condition of affairs in Turkey.

Senator Gallinger offered a similar communication from the citizens of New Hampshire.

The resolution of the Idaho legislature urging the election of United States sen-- ators by a popular vote was presented by Senator Dubois.

Senator Lodge introduced the following resolutions relative to the Monroe doctrine:

"Resolved, That the congress of the United States deems it proper to assert, as a principle in which the rights and interests of the United States are involved, that the American continents, by the free and independent condition which they have assumed and maintained, are henceforth not to be considby any European powers,

"Resolved, that we would consider any attempts on their part to extend their system to any portion of this hemispere as dangerous to our peace and safety. With the existing colonies or dependencies of any European power we have not interfered and shall not interfere, but with the governments who have declared their independence and maintained it, and whose independence we have, on great consideration and on just principles, acknowledged, we could not view any interposition for the purpose of oppressing them or controlling in any manner their destiny by any European power in any other light than as a manifestation of an unfriendly disposition towards the United States.

Resolved, that in accordance with the doctrine laid down by President Monroe, as stated in the preceeding rules, the United States declares its purpose to maintain the principle embodied in that doctrine and will regard any infringment of it, or any attempt on the part of any European power to take or acquire new territory on the American continent, whether under the pretense of boundary disputes, or otherwise, as an act of hostility to the United States. "Resolved, that the president be requested to communicate these resolutions to the governments of all nations with whom we have relations of amity and commerce."

Senator Call introduced a resolution accorded belligerent rights.

The senate, in executive session, confirmed the nomination of Richard Olney as secretary of state and Judson Harmon as attorney-general, and at 3 o'clock adjourned until tomorrow, shutting off debate for several senators primed with speeches on Cuba and Venezuela.

Senator Stewart introduced the usual free-coinage bill.
