The End of the Bazaar.

If possible, the bazaar Saturday night was more of a success than on Friday evening. The attendance was very large, and the same spirit of enjoyment was everywhere present. The program was well carried out. The first number, a duet by Miss Elizabeth FitzGerald and Miss Alma Schanno, was played in good time and expression. Mrs. Truman Butler again demonstrated her ability as a pianist by a well-rendered selection. The song by a quartette, consisting of Mrs. Huntington, Mrs. Price, Mr. Crandall and Dr. Doane, was very pleasing. Mrs. Price delighted the audience with a solo, for which she was heartily encored. One of the prettiest numbers of the evening was a tableau representing Santa Claus and his satellites. Mr. Charles Clark made a capital Santa Claus. The tableau effects were very

The greatest interest of the evening was centered around the booth where the voting for the most popular young lady was being held. The contest was a ousness, indigestion, constipation. A very lively one, and the friends of each small pill, a prompt cure. Snipes-Kinof the contestents were active in raising ersly Drug Co.

campaign funds. A coup d'etat near the close of the contest won the day. When the votes were counted Miss Clara Davis was found to have the most votes, and so she received the honor and the lamp. The contest was very friendly, and netted over $40 to the church.

The bazaar was a success financially and socially. The receipts have not yet been figured up, but they will be in the neighborhood of $300. The admissions alone came to $76. Over $100 was cleared at the ""ing and ice cream booths, while the flower stand bron ht in $35 and the candy booth $17. The others we were unable to learn.

The ladies of the church feel greatly pleased over the success of the bazaar, and now that it is over, do not mind the time and trouble they have spent in preparation. They wish to thank the many friends who have so kindly assisted in every possible way. The spirit of friendliness that has been shown by those who are not connected with the church, has been very greatly appreciated, and their kindness will not be forgotten. To the loyal band of workers who have borne the brunt of the toil and responsibility, the result will be recom pense enough.

The Early Mission Building at The Dalles

Apropos of Father Mesplie's death mentioned in Saturday's CHRONICLE, an interesting bit of early history was told a CHROMICLE reporter by Mr. C. W. Denton. In 1851 or '52, just which year Mr. Denton could not determine, Father Mesplie came to The Dalles. In 1852 he began the erection of mission buildings, which were completed with the aid of C. W. Denton and Edward Crate. These two men did the greater part of the labor and the work was done in rapid time, considering the crude materials at hand. The matter of a steeple was easily settled, for close to one corner of the mission building stood a large tree, high in the branches of which the church bell was placed. Here it's sound was frequently heard through the many years the mission buildings were used. Father Mesplie was an indefatigable worker and soon his labors made a deep impress upon the savages who came under his influence. The site of this early mission is a familiar one to residents of The Dalles. The buildings were located about a mile west from Miss Elizabeth FitzGerald left on the town, a short distance from where the Catholic cemetery now is. The number of Indians baptized there runs up into Mr. J. R. Warner, the well-known the thousands, The Dalles being the headquarters of work for many years. After the mission was abandoned, the church building remained standing many years, till at last time and weather wrought its destruction.

Of the three men whose names are mentioned in connection with this reminiscence, two are dead, Edward Crate having joined the dead pioneers a year or so ago. With the death of Mr. Crate there passed one of the very first white men who made a permanent settlement in Oregon. He was a member of the Hudson Bay company, and when the company retired from business here, Mr. Crute remained and for many years H. S. Wilson has been in Goldendale miles below The Dailes. Mr. Denton is one of the oldest surviving ploneers of

Gone Back to Honolulu.

Mr. John Marlin started on the Regulator this morning for Honolulu. He returned several days ago from that place and after visiting his friends and retatives here, soon became eager to return. Mr. Marlin gives many interesting experiences of his life on the islands. It is necessary, he says, for every one who goes there to have $50 in cash at the time of landing. When Mr. Marlin Crown, M arrived in Honolulu harbor, some friends Dickerson, Geo of his in the city, fearing lest he might not have taken the precaution to have that amount of money with him, not knowing the regulation, got a tag and Fonda, Egbert Gasendorfer, Dr J A the money was offered John, he thought Mr. W. Maurice Kelly of Astoria, a he had come to a strange country where son of ex-United States Senator James people were so liberal that a stranger vas greeted with gifts at the very outset. When the matter was explained, the ing to Mr. Martin's enthusiastic words about Hawaii, a desire easily springs up to visit the far away islands, which we hope, will soon be under the stars and

Death of Mrs. Phillips.

The death occurred at Kingsley last night of Mr. P. P. Phillips, for many years known as "Grandma" Phillips. For several days she suffered from an attack of bronchitis, her sufferings before death being very acute. Mrs. Phillips was aged about 75 years and with her husband, was one of the first settlers of Tygh Ridge. Mr. and Mrs. Phillips crossed the plains with some of the early pioneer parties and made their home In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon, for the County of Wasgo, where the village of Kingsley now is. The house erected by Mr. Phillips was the first in that vicinity and its occupants saw the Tygh Ridge country develop from a vast area of untilled land covered with bunchgrass to one of the most prosperous farming communities in Eastern Oregoo. For a good many years Mr. and Mrs. Phillips was a lady greatly beloved for her kind and generous qualities, and her death will be universally regretted by a large number of friends and acpuaintances. The funeral services will be held at Kingsley.

The Day in Court.

The Attention of Judge Bradshaw was occupied today with hearing the case of Z. F. Moody vs. W. D. Richards. The action is being tried before the judge without the aid of a jury. Huntington & Wilson appear for the plaintiff, while W. H. Wilson represents the defendant. Among the matters of importance done during the day was a confirmation granted in the case of J. C. Meins vs. C. J. Coatsworth. The case of A. Scherneckau vs. J. C. Murphy et al., was continued. In the case of E. G.
