

A SPECIFIC

La Grippe, for Colds, Coughs,
AND LUNG TROUBLES,
AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Two years ago, I had the grippe, and it left me with a cough which gave me no rest night or day. My family physician prescribed for me, changing the medicine as often as he found the things I had taken were not helping me, but, in spite of his attendance, I got no better. Finally, my husband, reading one day of a gentleman who had had the grippe and was cured by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,—procured, for me, a bottle of this medicine, and before I had taken half of it, I was cured. I have used the Pectoral for my children and in my family, whenever we have needed it, and have found it a specific for colds, coughs, and lung troubles."—EMILY WOOD, North St., Elkton, Md.

A CHEMICAL ENGINE.
Descriptive of Its Advantages and How It Affects Insurance.

The following explanatory letter has been received by the persons indicated concerning the chemical engine. Messrs. Saltmarsh, Lauer and Ross are the committee on fire and water of the common council, and Judd Fish, who also received a copy of the letter, chief of the board of fire delegates. Further information will be given tomorrow, which will enlighten our business men upon the details of the proposition:
R. E. Saltmarsh, Esq., Chairman Fire and Water Committee, The Dalles, Ore.
DEAR SIR:—At the request of Mr. J. S. Fisk, member of board of delegates, of The Dalles fire department, we write concerning reduction in insurance rate to be made if your city provides itself with a telegraphic fire alarm and a chemical engine.

Any general reduction in insurance rate has to be approved in writing by three-fourths of the managers of companies doing business here. This approval, however, has so far invariably been given for any reduction recommended by us.
When your city has additional protection of a properly installed fire alarm, telegraph and chemical engine, we will at once recommend a reduction of insurance rates on all property within the protection of the department, of 5 per cent.

I beg to suggest that in calculating the saving to the city, as compared with the amount to be paid out, from the installation and maintenance of above improvement, the amount of insurance premium should not be taken as a basis. Considering 5 per cent of the insurance rate as the measure or value of such improvement, it is only proper to regard the value as represented in figures by 5 per cent of, say 1 per cent of the whole value of destructible property in the city. For instance, if the average insurance rate in your city is 1 per cent, and the amount of insurance is only one-half the total value of the buildings and stock, and 5 per cent of the insurance rate (1 per cent) is the measure of the value of improvement, one-twentieth of 1 per cent of the total value of insurable property would be the amount saved by the improvement. In addition to this, however, a protection such as a chemical engine is a guard against conflagration of such magnitude as to interfere with the development of the city. If the improvement is worth to us 5 per cent of the premiums received by us, it is of equal value to such of your citizens as do not insure at all or only partially insure, and to the whole city it is worth considerably more, as it in some measure protects the city from ruin by a conflagration.

I have taken the liberty of making above suggestions, because in our experience we find that cities generally do not give sufficient consideration to the advantages of protection other than the reduction of insurance rates.
Number of fire alarm boxes necessary could, we think, be about ten, but the judgment of your fire chief should be good on this point. Horse chemicals are better than hand chemicals, because horse chemicals can carry two cylinders; while one cylinder is being exhausted, the other can be filled, and so the chemical can be continuously used throughout a fire. A chemical drawn by horses, however, should not be dependent on horses not always available, as the great advantage of the engine is in getting to a fire quickly and putting it out before it has assumed large proportions. Unless you can decide to use horses for no other purpose, we believe it will be better to have the large sized engine, which we understand, is a 100 gallon cylinder.
Please command this office if you at any time desire advice or information.
Yours respectfully,
ALFRED STILLMAN,
Chief Surveyor.
