

ARRESTED FOR RAPE.

Wm. Lane Waived Examination This Afternoon Before Justice Filloon.

A large crowd assembled at Justice Filloon's court at 2 o'clock this afternoon in anticipation of having the preliminary examination in the case of State of Oregon vs. Wm. Lane for rape, alleged to be committed on the person of a little girl of 12 years.

The father of the girl was ignorant of the real nature of the case until yesterday morning. He had been much aggravated of late by the persistence of Lane in seeking his young daughter, being powerless to prevent his meeting her by anything he could do.

It seems that the girl's older sister had shortly after the father left the house, found a letter upon her person signed "Willie," which is so obscene as to be unfit for publication.

The child is more sinned against than sinning herself. She is but 12 years old and has been a prey to the passion of another, rather than possessing a desire herself to wander from the path of virtue.

Mosier News Nuggets.

Mrs. Kline of The Dalles, who has been visiting friends in this vicinity, returned home on the local on Saturday.

Geo. Davenport, one of our Mosier boys, now in the commission business in Portland, was shaking hands with friends here last week, and combined business with pleasure in looking up the fruit business.

The complimentary article in your issue of the 12th, regarding the shipment of fruit from this place, does not do the fruit raisers justice.

Messrs. Hays and Cotter of the auditor's office of the O. R. & N. Co. of Portland, came up on the local yesterday looking for Indian relics and curios.

If anyone should doubt that Mosierites can whoop-em-up, they should call on some of our people where there are eight or ten in the family, all afflicted with the prevailing cough, when all such doubt will be removed.

A Great Misapprehension.

We are informed by a party who ought to know that the paper circulated by Mr. J. B. Crossen—the list for the formation of a Bryan club—was represented by that gentleman to be a petition for his appointment as register of the land office, pending the inauguration of William Jaybrian.

There are some 200 members of this supposed Bryan club, and if the least inkling of the deception had been known we fancy the club could not boast of a corporal's guard. It is unfortunate for our friends, the enemy, that they must resort to such a scheme to obtain signatures. O tempora! O mores!

McKinley Club Tonight.

Everyone who believes that prosperous times is contingent upon the election of Major McKinley to the White House and the Republican party to congress should not fail to be present at the council chambers tonight. This does not mean some other fellow, but the reader. No one is too exalted, nor one too reduced to do honor to that great leader of the hosts pledged to the great principles of protection and sound money—the Republican party. From every hamlet, town and city, let the good news go out that there is no limit to the enthusiasm, no rest for laborers until the party of free trade and free silver is relegated once again to the rear, never again to emerge. Council chambers, 8 o'clock sharp.

Advertised Letters.

One advantage of taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla to purify the blood is that you need not infringe upon your hours of labor nor deny yourself any food that agrees with you. In a word, you are not compelled to starve or loaf while taking it. These are recommendations worth considering.

BOURKE COCKRAN ON BRYAN.

The Eloquent Ex-Congressman Exposes the Free Silver Fraud on Workingmen.

In his great speech in Madison Square Garden, New York city, ex-Congressman Bourke Cockran said in reply to Presidential Candidate Bryan: "If everything in this world or in this country, including labor, be increased in value tomorrow in like proportion, not one of us would be affected at all. If that was Mr. Bryan's scheme, he would never have a Populist nomination to give him importance in the eyes of this community. If that were all that he meant, he would not be supporting it, and I would not be taking the trouble to oppose it. If everything in the world be increased 10 per cent in value, why, we would pay 10 per cent in addition for what we would buy and get 10 per cent more for what we would sell."

What, then, is it? It is an increase in the price of commodities and allowing labor to shift for itself. If the price of commodities be increased and the price of labor be left stationary that means a cutting down of the rate of wages. If, instead of a dollar which consists of a given quantity of gold equal to a hundred cents anywhere in the world, with the purchasing power of a hundred cents, the laborer is to be paid in dollars worth 60 cents each, he can only buy half as much with a day's wages as he buys now. If the value of this Populist scheme, then, is to be tested, let the laboring men of this country ask Mr. Bryan and his Populist friends a simple, common, everyday question, "Where do I come in?"

Mr. Bryan himself has a glimmering idea of where the laborer will come in, or rather, of where he will go out. There is one paragraph in his speech which—whether it was the result of an unconscious stumbling into candor or whether it was a contribution made in the stress of logical discussion I am utterly unable to say—that throws a flood of light upon the whole purpose underlying this Populist agitation. Wage earners, Mr. Bryan says, know that while a gold standard raises the purchasing power of the dollar it also makes it more difficult to obtain possession of the dollar. They know that employment is less permanent, loss of work more probable and re-employment less certain.

If that means anything, it means that a cheap dollar would give him more employment, more frequent employment, more work and a chance to get re-employment after he was discharged. If that means anything in the world to a sane man, it means that if the laborer is willing to have his wages cut down he will get more work.

If it were true that a reduction in the rate of wages would increase the chance of employment, I would not blame Mr. Bryan for telling the truth, because, however unpalatable the truth may be, I conceive it the duty of any man who attempts to address his fellow citizens never to shrink from a statement of the whole truth, whatever may be the consequences to himself. But, as a matter of fact, a diminution in the rate of wages does not increase the scope of employment.

There cannot be an abundant product unless labor is extensively employed. You cannot have high wages unless there is an extensive production in every department of industry, and that is why I claim that wages are the one sole test of a country's condition—that high wages mean abundant production, and abundance necessarily means prosperity. Mr. Bryan, on the other hand, would have you believe that prosperity is advanced by cheapening the rate of wages, but the fall in the rate of wages always comes from a narrow production, and narrow production means there is little demand for labor in the market. When, after the panic of 1873, the price of labor fell to 90 cents a day, it was harder to obtain work than when the rate of labor was $3, and the difference between the Populist, who seeks to cut down the rate of wages, and the Democrat, who seeks to protect it, is that the Democrat believes that high wages and prosperity are synonymous, and the Populist wants to cut the rate of wages in order that he may tempt the farmer to make war upon his own workmen.

This is a Hammer.

This is an Anvil.

If you lay a gold dollar on the anvil and hammer it out of shape, it is still worth $1.

If you do a silver dollar the same way, you hammer 48 cents out of it, and it is worth its bullion value only, or 64 cents.

Gold loses coin shape, yet loses no value. But silver loses coin shape and loses nearly half its value. Is it wise to drive from the United States this gold of fixed value by introducing the free coinage of inferior silver and make yourself the prey of brokers?

How do you find business? If you want to borrow money, are you not told that this free silver racket is scaring investors? Don't manufacturers complain that they have difficulty in getting loans with which to buy raw material, pay wages and carry stocks of goods? Isn't the uncertainty about the money in which loans will be repaid playing the dickens with credits and confidence among business men?

TURNING GRAY AND THREATENED WITH BALDNESS

The Danger is Averted by Using AYER'S HAIR VIGOR

"Nearly forty years ago, after some weeks of sickness, my hair turned gray and began falling out so rapidly that I was threatened with immediate baldness. Hearing Ayer's Hair Vigor highly spoken of, I commenced using this preparation, and was so well satisfied with the result that I have never tried any other kind of dressing. It stopped the hair from falling out, stimulated a new growth of hair, and kept the scalp free from dandruff. Only an occasional application is now needed to keep my hair of good, natural color. I never hesitate to recommend any of Ayer's medicines to my friends."—Mrs. H. M. HAIGHT, Avoca, Neb.
