HOW LONG, OH LORD!

The spectacle of an oppressed people battling heroically for their rights and their liberty, is one that at all times challenges the admiration and the sympathy of mankind.

Nearly a century and a quarter have elapsed since these grand men made freedom possible for us, yet fresh in the hearts of their countrymen, as though it were but yesterday, is the memory of their sufferings, their heroisms and their victory.

We may not be murderers, but we lack little of it, since we might, by the least effort, put a stop to these wholesale murders.

ington, Marion, Sumpter, Putnam, Greene, and all ye great immortal band of heroes, look down upon your degenerate country and weep tears of shame!

ALL AMERICANS.

Whether it is the salt breeze of the ocean or some other subtle power that influences and directs "those who go down to the sea in ships" is unknown, but that patriotism and humanity are always attributes of your true sailor is certain.

The most palpable moral to be drawn from this story is that President Cleveland should go to sea.

AND WHAT THEN?

Mr. Cleveland is good for four months more in the White House. In other words, before stepping down and out he will have time to administer merited rebuke to all the little jacks in office who supported Bryan and bad money and bad government in the recent campaign.

The above is from yesterday's Telegram, Portland's evening paper. It may be presumed that it reflects the editor's personal opinions, but we hope it does not. We should regret being compelled to believe that any American citizen understood so little his rights, his privileges and his liberties as such citizen, as to even seem to indorse the sentiment that any American citizen may not vote freely and without fear, according to the dictates of his conscience.

That Cleveland is the kind of boy the Telegram claims he is may or may not be true. If it is, and he cares to show his dignity and his opinion of the rights of American citizens by removing officers for voting according to their beliefs, he may rest assured that his name will go down through the coming centuries indissolubly connected with that of Benedict Arnold.

The silver question is settled, and it is proper that the incoming president should appoint under him those who agree with his views, but for Cleveland to attempt to punish any office holder for exercising the right of suffrage as he saw fit, should at the first attempt cause his own impeachment. It is a sacred right that no man, president or not, can take away from any citizen.

A REGISTRATION LAW.

The Australian ballot law has done wonders towards purifying the ballot, preventing intimidation or coercion, and reducing vote buying to a minimum. Under its workings the temptation to buy votes is practically removed, for no matter how much cash changes hands, there is no means by which the purchaser can ascertain of the goods have been delivered.

We may take it as true that the Australian ballot law is nearly as perfect as any system that can be invented. All that it now needs is a registration law. The objection to the registration law, heretofore raised, was that it was unconstitutional because it (the constitution) provides that a voter may vote for district officers in any district, and for state officers anywhere in the state.

This would give us what every good citizen, regardless of politics, should desire, a fair, square ballot, where every legal voter could have his vote cast and counted, and where the hobo and the itinerant vote seller could not barter away their own votes, and then kill someone else's. By all means let us have a registration law.

It is announced in a telegram on the Cuban question, and the statement is given as a sufficient reason why this government should feel very kindly towards Spain, that "Spain remained perfectly neutral during the presidential election." That was awfully kind of the old girl, wasn't it? If Spain had just thrown her influence on one side or the other the whole "bill" of us might have gone bouncing into the dim oblivion of nowhere.

The case of Mrs. Castle indicates that even in England there is a difference in the laws, or at least in their interpretation, as between a rich criminal and a poor one.

President-elect McKinley during this coming term of office will have the appointment of two judges of the supreme court, three members of the supreme court of the District of Columbia, three members of the court of claims and quite a number of circuit and district judges of the United States if the present incumbents retire when they be-and financiering, reduced to a scientific basis. Our judiciary, as a general rule would not have much trouble in distinguishing between the hungry thief, who stole a salmon, and the wealthy kleptomaniac who "kleft" a few diamonds. In England a conviction was had, which shows that our English cousins are not onto their job, since they pardoned, after conviction, instead of recognizing that some people are so exalted that stealing, instead of being a vice, becomes a virtue, and the theft an object of distinguished admiration.

The matter of prospecting our coal fields is receiving considerable attention. This is as it should be, and while the iron is hot, it is time to hit it hard. Keep the good work going until The Dalles becomes as famous for its black diamonds as it is for the beauty of its women and the brilliancy of its newspaper men—and other things of that kind.

Sherman Appreciative.

At a mass meeting of the citizens of Sherman county, held at Wasco Nov. 9, 1896, for the purpose of giving proper expression of their feelings relative to the final completion and opening of the Cascade locks, County Judge John Fulton was chosen chairman and V. C. Brock secretary.

On motion a committee of nine were appointed to draft resolutions, and they reported the following, which were unanimously adopted, to-wit:

WHEREAS, The opening of the locks at the cascades of the Columbia will be of immeasurable benefit to the residents of Eastern Oregon, and particularly Sherman county, and the same has been greatly hastened by the earnest and untiring efforts of the citizens of The Dalles, who on the occasion of the said opening extended much generous hospitality to our people, therefore be it

Resolved, That the long-felt need of connecting the lower with the middle Columbia has at last been met, and that it will stimulate business, encourage immigration and greatly conduce to the prosperity of our country.

Resolved, That we recognize the invaluable aid that has ever been given by the progressive and enterprising citizens of The Dalles, who have ever been foremost in pushing this great work to completion. Their private expressions and their public press have unceasingly kindled the fire of energy in patriotic hearts, who have labored zealously to free the Inland Empire from corporation's grasp by giving us an open river to the sea; and we hereby extend to the citizens of The Dalles our heartfelt thanks for their earnest labors in our behalf. We shall ever remember their courteous treatment at the celebration of the opening of the locks, and the entertainment at The Dalles Nov. 5th. Let us now put forth our united efforts, with renewed courage, to overcome the obstructions above The Dalles by connecting the middle with the upper river, and thus extending commerce three hundred miles further into the fertile regions of Eastern Washington and Oregon.

Life Positions That McKinley Will Fill During His Term.

President-elect McKinley during this coming term of office will have the appointment of two judges of the supreme court, three members of the supreme court of the District of Columbia, three members of the court of claims and quite a number of circuit and district judges of the United States if the present incumbents retire when they become eligible to retirement on full pay. All these judgeships are for life, with the privilege of retirement at the age of 70 if they have already served 10 years.

Justice Field, of California, has been eligible for retirement in the supreme bench for some years. He is 80 years of age and might retire and have his successor appointed at any time by President Cleveland, but his ambition is to pelipse previous records of length of service on the bench.

Justice Gray becomes eligible for retirement on March 24, 1898.

Chief Justice Bingham of the supreme court of the District of Columbia, and Judge Hanger and Judge Cox, of the same court, also will be eligible for retirement during McKinley's term.

Judge Richardson, chief of the court of claims, died a short time ago and his successor can be appointed by Mr. Cleveland.

Judges Nott, Welded and Davis will be eligible for retirement during McKinley's incumbency.

The term of office of Chairman Morrison, of the interstate commerce commission, expires December 1, 1897, and Mr. Knapp in December of the present year.

Stands at the Head.

Aug. J. Bogel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the only thing that cures my cough, and it is the best seller I have." J. F. Campbell, merchant of Safford, Ariz., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it; it never fails, and is a sure cure for Consumption, Coughs, and Colds. I cannot say enough for its merits." Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century, and today stands at the head. It never disappoints. Free trial bottles at Blakeley & Houghton's drug store.

A Valuable Cow.

Mr. G. A. Van Anda of Rockland, Wash., has a cow that is capable of making a world's record. She is fifteen-sixteenths Jersey, and has made the following amounts of butter, besides furnishing the family with all the milk and cream used. The variation in the monthly yield, which was caused largely by the use of the milk for other than butter making purposes, shows how large that use was. The butter yield by months, commencing a year ago was as follows: Nov. 35 1/4 pounds, Dec. 45 1/2, Jan. 33, Feb. 37, March 46 1/2, April 48 1/2, May 47, June 30 1/2, July 26 1/2, Aug. 19 1/2, Sept. 22 1/2, Oct. 20 1/2, Nov. 12 1/2, Total 431 1/2. This at 25 cents a pound would bring $107.87.
