Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Hood left for California on this afternoon's train, going to St. Helena, Napa county, to spend the winter. He came around to tell us good-bye, and impress on our minds the fact that even in that land of fruits and flowers life would be a dreadful round of solitude, without the breezy locals and soulful editorial notes of THE CHRONICLE. He shall have it if it takes the last button off Gabe's coat to get it there.
