A "QUID" OF TOBACCO.

How a Small Thing Stopped Operations on a Great War Ship. Lieut. Emile Duboc tells an amusing story of an event, which, he says, certainly led to the downfall of hydraulic machinery in the French service.

STOOD BY HER RIGHTS.

How a Woman Lawyer Had the Last Word. The woman lawyer slammed a pile of briefs down before the judge, according to the New York Herald, and said: "I move to discharge the prisoner on the ground that the prosecution has not proved their case and that the evidence is irrelevant and immaterial."

THE PLEBEIAN PEANUT.

A Valuable Addition to Meat Dressings and Soups. The peanut, which for so many years has been the popular feature of the country fair and the circus, is now creeping into prominence. Doctors have found that the peanut is an article of food, rich in albumen, of which it contains 50 per cent., and are now recommending them as a valuable addition to the diet in the form of soups, purees and mush.

Mushroom Society.

A society for the study of mushrooms has been organized in Philadelphia. It will meet every two weeks, and members will read papers on such topics as "Mushrooms That Have Helped Me." The organizers say that there are about 235 edible kinds of mushrooms to be found around Philadelphia, and that tons of the delicious food go to waste, simply because people have a horror of what are known as toadstools, only four kinds of which are really poisonous.

ATE A BARREL OF EGGS A DAY.

Shipwrecked Men Subsisted on Them for Twelve Days. "Do you like eggs?" was the question that stirred up a "49er" to make some talk in a Bangor store the other day. He was an old man, says the Lewiston (Me.) Journal, and he straightened up to something like the height of his prime as he answered: "I had a surfeit of them once. 'Twas many years ago when I was on the way home from California. We left the isthmus on a good brig bound for New York but ran into a coral reef in the Caribbean sea and were wrecked. It was a patch of sand just out of the water, but you ought to see the flocks of sea fowl that nested on it. They had to move out of the way to give us room to stay there and that was about all they would do. Their nests were everywhere and there were eggs in abundance. We ate about a barrel of them every day during the 12 days we were there. Some of us got off in a boat and went to San Juan, in Nicaragua, where we got a vessel to go after those we left on the reef. That vessel was commanded by William Lawrence, of Bath, who was killed by a man named Wilkinson while he was a policeman there. We tried to get to the reef, but bad weather drove us up so we had to set in for New Orleans, where we found the rest of the men rescued by another vessel. But eggs—the old man's face took on a peculiar expression.

CHANCES OF LONGEVITY.

Primary Conditions Necessary to a Long and Healthy Life. "The primary conditions of longevity," the Medical Record quotes Mr. F. W. Warner as saying, "are that the heart, lungs and digestive organs, as well as the brain, should be large. If these organs are large the trunk will be long and the limbs comparatively short. The person will appear tall in sitting and short in standing. The hand will have a long and somewhat heavy palm and short fingers. The brain will be deeply seated, as shown by the office of the ear being low. The blue hazel or brown hazel eye, as showing an intermission of temperament, is a favorable indication. The nostrils being large, open and free indicates large lungs. A pinched and half-closed nostril indicates small or weak lungs. "In the case of persons who have short-lived parentage on one side and long-lived on the other side the question becomes more involved. It is shown in grafting by hybridizing that nature makes a supreme effort to pass the period of the shorter longevity and extend the life to the greater longevity. Anyone who understands these weak and dangerous periods of life is forewarned and forearmed. It has been observed that the children of long-lived parents mature much later and are usually backward in their studies."

THE WITCH HAZEL.

Last Plant of the Year to Put Forth Its Blossoms. This peculiar plant, which, amidst the reigning desolation of winter puts forth its yellow blossoms, thrives on the sand hills along the eastern shore of Lake Michigan. In this locality it appears to be the last to furnish reminders of summer before the face of advancing winter. In September, while the leaves are still green, some of the bushes may be found putting forth flowers; late in October, when entirely bare of leaves, other bushes appear in the flush or bloom, the branches dressed in yellow from end to end by the crowded flowers; a month still later frequent specimens still persist in flower, and by the right combination of circumstances one may ride in the gliding sleigh past bushes with a lingering glimmer of yellow. On last Thanksgiving day I waded through snow knee-deep to collect some flowering branches. In some of the flowers the stamens appeared to be immature, but the petals had passed their brightest day. About 18 inches of snow had fallen previously during the month, and the lowest recorded temperature in the vicinity was 14 degrees Fahrenheit. In "Wood's Class Book of Botany" the flowering season stated is November to January. That may be its season in lower latitudes, but in this region its time is September to November. The embryo fruit remains apparently unchanged through the winter and until the following spring is well advanced, ripening in the autumn, when the earliest flowers are appearing.

The witch hazel scatters its seeds in a peculiar way. The fruit consists of an oblong woody case about half an inch in length, inclosing two hard nutlets somewhat resembling the seeds of an apple. The expulsion of the seeds may be witnessed by placing a branch with the ripened fruit on a table in a room. As the case dries a strain results, and that causes a slight opening at the apex. The rupture of the case goes on very slowly for a number of hours or days, when the strain suddenly overcomes the remaining resistance, completing the opening with a sharp snapping sound and sending the seeds bounding about the room. The case splits nearly to the base, and its appearance afterward is said to suggest much the wide-opened mouth of a serpent about to strike.—Popular Science News.

This Is Your Opportunity.

Something to Know.

It may be worth something to know that the very best medicine for restoring the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the Liver and Kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood. Electric Bitters improves the appetite, aids digestion and is pronounced by those who have tried it as the very best blood purifier and nerve tonic. Try it. Sold for 50c or $1.00 per bottle at Blakeley & Houghton's Drug Store. (2)

CATARRH is a LOCAL DISEASE and is the result of colds and sudden climatic changes. For your Protection we positively state that this remedy does not contain mercury or any other injurious drug. Ely's Cream Balm is acknowledged to be the most thorough cure for Nasal Catarrh, Cold in Head and Hay Fever of all remedies. It opens and cleanses the nasal passages, allays pain and inflammation, breaks the force, protects the membrane from colds, restores the sense of taste and smell. Price 50c. at Druggists or by mail.
