NOT GOOD ADVICE.

Rev. Dr. Rainsford, rector of the fashionable St. George's Protestant Episcopal church, has suggested to his wealthy parishioners that they do not attend the bal masque to be given by Mrs. Bradley Martin of New York, who has the reputation of being a lavish hostess.

The Rev. gentleman is wise in his own conceit, conceived in his own wisdom. He realizes the unrest of the masses, but does not understand the difference between cause and effect.

Rev. Rainsford, in giving the advice he did, simply undertook to add to this cause of the people's unrest by hiding the visible effects made forcible by the cause.

WHO ARE WHO?

"The gang clamoring for caucus at Salem is the very same gang that broke up caucus two years ago," is the editorial utterance of the Oregonian, to which the Salem Statesman replies:

An analysis of the facts will serve to show that the assertion is as false and baseless as the numerous others made by that paper recently. Five of the members who were representatives in 1895 and who were elected as Republicans to the present house, are found constantly present and working for organization and for the caucus.

Simon-Oregonian few Republicans who were not here two years ago to be counted. In the senate there are but two men standing for caucus and organization now who were not for Dolph and caucus two years ago—Johnson and McClung—while there are nine—Brownell, Calbreath, Garter, Dawson, Gesner Gowen, Hobson, Patterson of Marion, and Price—who stand exactly as they stood then, for majority rule and the integrity of the Republican party.

Since the Statesman published the above, two of the Democrats have joined the Benson house. Otherwise the statement is correct.

YET THERE IS TIME.

It will take united action and every influence that can possibly be brought to bear, to accomplish the opening of the Cascade reserve to pasturage by the time the season is here. The most powerful aid in the good work would be a joint resolution from the Oregon legislature.

The question is of infinitely more importance than the election of any man for senator. Will our representative, Mr. Jones, who is himself a sheepman, kindly take this into consideration? Will he take a look at the situation through the spectacles of his constituents? Will he look after their interests and his own, instead of assisting to block legislation in the interest of any senatorial candidate, or against any senatorial candidate.

Interests are involved that yield in Eastern Oregon more than a million dollars a year annually. Delay means their destruction. Will he, can he, weigh these interests against any result in the senatorial squabble, and deliberately strike them down? We freely concede his right to vote, for whomsoever he pleases for United States senator.

That is a matter he can settle in his own conscience. But the people who elected him have some rights. They have a right to have their business attended to. They have a right to be represented in an organized legislature, and to have their representative assist in organizing it. That was what Mr. Jones was elected for. Mr. Henry, his opponent, was elected to stay away from the legislature. Mr. Jones was not. Mr. Henry would be as much justified in demanding a seat in the legislature as Mr. Jones is in refusing it.

He has still time to redeem the pledges he made. He has still time to look after the business of his constituents. If he does it, well; if not, let him remember that he must face his constituents in six brief weeks from now.

DELICATE HUMOR.

The editor of the Alameda, Calif., Argus leaps suddenly to the front as the leading American humorist. The following "tribute" to the Oregonian entitles him to first place, without any ballot. The exquisitely funny part of the whole thing is that the Oregonian took the delicate shaft seriously. Just imagine, if you can, the smile of contentment that spread over the Oregonian editor's countenance as he swallowed the last sentence of said tribute, in blissful ignorance that the sugar coat was not of the same ingredients as the body of the pill. Here is the delectable morsel that moved our great contemporary to test its capacity in the line of deglutition:

Recently a copy of the Portland Oregonian fell in our hands. I. is written with an almost English sobriety; is not trifling in any degree; does not contain a single "broad" expression, and not only does not enlarge upon scandals and crim. con. occurrences, but altogether ignores them. It is not giddy, gaudy nor garish; it is not silly nor a smart aleck. It tells the news in simple language, well put together, without padding or superfluity. This plain, homely paper, less in size than any of the three leading San Francisco papers, and with one-quarter of the circulation that the most boastful of them claims, yields more influence than all of them put together. It is a most emphatic protest against the nasty journalism that froths and fumes; that festers and gives off bad odors; that we are constantly reminded is modern and what the people demand. The reason the "tenderloin" editorial regarding California, that appeared in the journal we speak of, cut so deeply was the knowledge of the sterling character of the medium, and the faith its readers have in its contents.

AN IMPORTANT BILL.

One of the most important bills demanding the attention of the legislature is that licensing canneries, fishing appliances and shippers. It is proposed by those engaged in any manner in salmon fishing to raise a fund of about $8,000 a year to be expended in maintaining the fishing laws and in the building and operating of hatcheries. The fishermen and canneries are anxious to pay the license and they claim that by so doing the salmon supply can be kept up, and that unless this is done, the supply must ere long be exhausted and the industry ruined. They point out the fact that $8,000 would pay the expenses of the fish commissioner, and would build and equip a hatchery every year. After a half dozen hatcheries were built the sum would operate them all, and their total output would not only keep the salmon run at its present proportions, but would actually increase it.

It is one of the most important industries in the state, and needs to be looked after.

NO CANDIDATE.

It is presumed that the Republicans and Populist members holding aloof from the legislature, have some person in view as a senatorial candidate; but if they have they manage to keep him as a remarkably dark horse, no names having yet been mentioned. There is once in a while a mention of Corbett, and occasionally the names of Fulton and Dolph are heard, but these are only idle rumors from the outsiders, members of the third, fourth and fifth houses.

The truth of the matter seems to be that Mitchell has a majority of all the votes, and the hold-up is made because it is the only way in which Mitchell can be beaten. The opposition has no candidate and are pursuing simply a dog-in-the-manager policy.

Interest in the situation at Salem is today centered on the senate. The Benson house being organized, the next question is "What will the senate do?" If it recognizes the house as being properly and legally organized, the two houses will on Tuesday, one week from tomorrow, cast a ballot for, and probably elect a United States senator. If it fails to recognize the house, the muddle will have become so conglomerated that no idea of the eventual solution can be had. If Senator Mitchell is elected by the combination, it becomes then a question as to what the U. S. senate will do. It is very evenly balanced politically, but it is not apt to go behind the returns; hence if Senator Mitchell is re-elected, it is a reasonable presumption that he will be seated.

The Populists and Simon Republicans claim to be holding up the organization of the house in the interest of economy. Are they? If the house does not meet, every worthless commission will be retained, and there can be no possible reduction of expenses. They are taking the only course possible to retain all the existing extravagances. Outside of this there are grave business interests demanding attention. The opening of the Cascade reserve is one; the change in the assessment laws is another, and there are dozens of other things that require action. The Populists are in the way of any remedial legislation, and yet they are the ones who previous to election were making such strenuous promises of reform and economy.

Yesterday the senate, by a vote of 14 to 14, refused to recognize the Benson house. Two members were absent. They were Brownell, who is a very sick man, and Carter, who is away temporarily. Brownell is known to be in favor of recognition, but it is impossible to say when, if at all, he will take his seat in the senate. Carter is claimed by both sides, so that at present the whole matter seems to rest with him. What the result will be can only be guessed at, but the Mitchell men seem confident of eventually securing recognition.

Things at Salem are getting no better fast. The senate refusing to recognize the Benson house, has still further complicated the matter. An attempt will now be made to compel the attendance of absent members; but that this will succeed is extremely doubtful. It looks as though the legislature was effectually hung up, and would remain in that condition until Joe Simon and Joathan Bourne conclude to take it off the books. As they will not be in a hurry to do this, it seems probable the session will expire without any organization.

The inauguration of McKinley is going to be a gorgeous affair. Among the other features 200 cavalrymen and 2,000 infantry, formerly of the Confederate service will take part in the parade. Time surely heals all wounds, and the evidence that all bitterness on the part of the South over the civil war has passed away, could not be made any more conclusive than by the sight of former Confederates marching in the procession at the inaugural of a Republican president.

It begins to look as though our sheppmen will have to seek pastures for their flocks outside of the Cascade forest reserve. The legislature is taking no action, and the time is passing away. Congress adjourns in less than six weeks, and unless something is done at once, the matter will go over until December, or at least until a special session is called, and that will be too late to accomplish anything this year.

Collis P. Huntington is said to be desirous of "leading a studious existence in a country home." As he has sixty or seventy millions of dollars and our consent, we see no reason why the old gent cannot gratify so reasonable a desire. The people of California will interpose no objections.

The fight in Salem has again reverted to the same conditions as existed in June. It is again 16 to 1.

It Is Up to Date.

It is reported that two weeks more will finish the work being done by Corey Brothers on the first ten miles of the railroad grade.—Astorian.

Good. Then Astoria will be ten miles nearer civilization and Salem.—Salem Statesman.

The Salem Statesman understands the niceties of English, and says civilization and Salem, instead of Salem and civilization. The distinction is probably due to the fact that just now the legislature is both present and absent.

A Great Hold-Up.

A gentleman who has just returned from Salem called on us this morning, and requests us to say that at that point is "the greatest hold-up in the Northwest. That, to use his language, "Salem is holding up the state buildings, the legislature is holding up the people, the highwaymen are holding up its residents, the hotels are holding up the visitors, and the bicyclists have the right of way on the sidewalks; but yet there are some good people in Salem."

CURED OF PARALYSIS

Carlos F. Shepard, a Member of the Indianapolis Board of Trade, is About Once More.

A Case of Weighty Interest to Anyone Suffering With Nervous Complaints, for the Patient was Cured by "Feeding" the Nerves. This is a New Term in Medicine.

From the News, Indianapolis, Ind.

One of the best known men about the Indianapolis Board of Trade is Carlos F. Shepard, who for several years has been connected with the house of H. E. Kinney, grain broker. Mr. Shepard is a bluff, hearty, old gentleman of medium height, gray-headed and with a mustache like a French veteran. He is a man of very decided views on all subjects and is especially orthodox in politics and medicine. Notwithstanding his firmness in his convictions and the vigor with which he maintains them he is a man of many friends for many men, even though sometimes obstinate in their opinions, have the force of character that win admiration and friendship.

So a few months ago when the news came to his old associates on the Board of Trade that Mr. Shepard had received a stroke of paralysis and that the probabilities were that his days of usefulness were over, and that perhaps, his hours were numbered, the deepest sympathy went out to the smitten man and his family. It seemed to all his friends almost impossible that this rugged old man, always so wholesomely hearty and cheerful, always a picture of health for could have been so suddenly laid low. But it was true and many weeks passed before his well-known form and kindly face returned to his former business haunts. His re-appearance was made the occasion of a hearty welcome and the story of his illness and recovery is well worth the telling.

"I was taken sick," said Mr. Shepard, "on the 17th of August, 1895. As I had all along been of the opinion that I was made of iron, you may well believe that it was hard for me to entertain the thought that I was to be laid up for more than a day or two. I am 58 years old, and for 40 years up to the time of this attack, I had not had a day's sickness. The doctors who diagnosed my case saw at once that it was something serious. They at first said that it was lumbago then sciatic rheumatism. They finally came to the conclusion they did not know what was the matter with me. I experienced no pain, my head was clear, my appetite good, but I lost the use of myself from my hips down. This was a hard stroke to an active man who has always had an easy going pair of legs. My brother-in-law, who is a physician, came from a neighboring city to see me. He pronounced my affliction to be locomotor ataxia. I am of the opinion that he diagnosed the case correctly for I was absolutely paralyzed from the hips down."

"Before he came, however, a day or so before I had begun taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. That was on the 20th day of last October. I read an article in the Indianapolis News and saw testimonials describing cases cured that were similar to mine. It struck me that the remedy could not do me any harm and I began to take the pills. Before I began taking them I could not stir a peg, but had to be carried from place to place. I had not got far into the first box when I felt that deliverance from my enforced inaction had come. Before I finished the second box I was able to walk alone with the aid of a cane. About home I do not use a cane now but when I come out on the slippery pavements I feel that I need a little support to make my footing sure. "I am still using Williams' Pink Pills, but I have reduced the dose to one after each meal. It seems that I have been able to throw some discredit on the predictions of my doctors thanks to the pills. They said I could never walk again but here I am, and I think the credit must be given to the pills. It is said the pills are stimulating, but I cannot say that they give me any sensations that I am aware of. They merely cure and that is quite enough for me."

"Since I have been out I have been a walking advertisement for Williams' Pink Pills. I suppose I have recommended them to at least a hundred persons. What! You want to print all this? Why, my dear Sir, I never gave a recommendation to any proprietary medicine before in my life. Perhaps it may not be a bad thing to do this time if it will help any sufferer to regain health and bodily activity."

Carlos F. Shepard has been a resident of Indianapolis for over twenty years. He lives at No. 730 East Ohio Street. He has always been an active, enterprising man and his many friends will rejoice that he has literally been put upon his feet again. He is not only well-known locally but to grain shippers all over Indiana and Illinois.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are an unfailing remedy for all diseases arising from a poor and watery condition of the blood, such as pale and sallow complexion, general muscular weakness, loss of appetite, depression of spirits, lack of ambition, mania, chlorosis or green sickness, palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath on slight exertion, coldness of hands or feet, swelling of the feet and limbs, pain in the back, nervous headache, dizziness, loss of memory, feebleness of will, ringing in the ears, early decay, all forms of female weakness, leucorrhoea, tardy or irregular periods, suppression of menses, hysteria, paralysis, locomotor ataxia, rheumatism, sciatica, all diseases depending on vitiated humors in the blood, causing scrofula, swollen glands, fever sores, rickets, hip-joint disease, hunchback, acquired deformities, decayed bones, chronic erysipelas, catarrh, consumption of the bowels and lungs, and also for invigorating the blood and system when broken down by overwork, worry, disease, excesses and indiscretions of living, recovery from acute diseases, such as fevers, etc., loss of vital powers, spermatorrhoea, early decay, premature old age. These pills are not a purgative medicine. They contain nothing that could injure the most delicate system. They act directly on the blood, supplying to the blood its life-giving qualities by assisting it to absorb oxygen, that great supporter of all organic life. In this way the blood, becoming "built up" and being supplied with lacking constituents, becomes rich and red, nourishes the various organs, stimulating them to activity in the performance of their functions, and thus to eliminate diseases from the system.

These Pills are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., and are sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade mark and wrapper, at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and are never sold in bulk. They may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company. The price at which these pills are sold makes a course of treatment inexpensive compared with other remedies.
