The funeral will take place tomorrow morning.

Died.

At Hood River, Monday morning, Mrs. Gertrude Nickelsen, wife of Rev. Chris Nickelsen.

The funeral will take place at Hood River tomorrow, Rev. J. H. Wood of this city preaching the sermon.

It is seldom that so sorrowful a task is given a newspaper reporter as the noting the passing away of so noble a little woman as Gertrude Nickelsen. She was the daughter of Rev. Rigby, stationed for two years at Hood River. There she met and married the man whose heart today is almost broken at her loss.

It was largely through her influence that he was called into the church, and took up the calling of a preacher. Being assigned to the charge at Prineville, he began his labors there, and there she contracted the disease, consumption, that finally carried her away.

Last fall her husband took her to California, hoping that aided by the climate and surroundings she might regain her health, but the hope was vain. Realizing that the end was near, she asked to be brought home that she might die surrounded by her relatives.

She died as she had lived, sustained by an unflinching trust in God, and if finite minds may judge, today she treads the fields of Paradise.

Humor in Literature.

Humor is one of those pervasive qualities that take possession of your senses like the smell of the woods in summer after a rain. You are trudging along through a book, interested, perhaps, in the course of the story, and impatient for the end of it all. It is an ordinary book, you think, like a hundred others, but a turn of the page and you are in another atmosphere. There is a growing warmth about your heart and a lift to the corners of your mouth. You do not break into a laugh, but you chuckle to yourself and forget about the end of the tale. You want to linger over the trail again. In a twinkling the "characters" of the story have become human beings like yourself.—"Droch" in June Ladies' Home Journal.

Big Nuggets.

Thomas Thomason arrived in Baker City yesterday, bringing with him five big gold nuggets, the largest valued at between $500 and $600, which he had obtained from the Gordon, Tomason & Allen placers at Gimletville, Grant county. Altogether the nuggets weighed about seventy ounces. They are on exhibition at the First National bank and attracted much attention yesterday afternoon. Mr. Thomason says the outlook for placer mining at Gimletville looks very bright at present.—Democrat.

Only One Standard

You and we may differ as to money standards and out of our very differences good may come. But we won't differ as to the merits of one standard emulsion of cod-liver oil.

SCOTT'S EMULSION has won and held its way for nearly 25 years in the world of medicine until to-day it is almost as much the standard in all cases of lung trouble, and every condition of wasting whether in child or adult as quinine is in malarial fevers.

Differ on the money question if you will, but when it comes to a question of health, perhaps of life and death, get the standard.

Your druggist sells Scott's Emulsion. Two sizes, 50 cts. and $1.00. SCOTT & BOWNE, New York.

The Mount Lebanon Shakers have recently perfected an ingenious cure for dyspepsia. Their Digestive Cordial consists of a food already digested and a digester of foods happily combined.

The importance of this invention will be appreciated when we realize what a proportion of the community are victims of some form of stomach troubles. Thousands of pale, thin people have little inclination to eat, and what they do eat causes them pain and distress.

The Digestive Cordial of the Shakers corrects any stomach derangement at once. It makes thin people plump. Every one will be greatly interested to read the little book which has been placed in the hands of druggists for free distribution.

Laxol is the best medicine for children. Doctors recommend it in place of Castor Oil.

Contractors and Carpenters, Take Notice. The respective officers of the Lutheran church are now ready to receive bids for the building of their new church. The plans are complete and are on file at the store of L. Rorden & Co.

Responsible contractors are herewith requested to bid on the building of this church. The bids will be received and opened on Tuesday, June 15th, at 8 p. m., in the lower south room of the brick school-house on Court street, and no bids will be received after that hour.

Contractors desiring to take possession of these plans for a day or two are requested to do this at once, as they may not have an opportunity to do so later.

Electric Bitters. Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt.

A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, indigestion, constipation, dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c and $1.00 per bottle at Blakeley & Houghton's drug store.

The Westfield (Ind.) News prints the following in regard to an old resident of that place: "Frank McAvoy, for many years in the employ of the L. N. A. & C. NO AUTOGRAPHS FOR HER.

Servant Girl Had No Use for the Check She Received.

A certain family, whose home is in the suburbs of London, have in their employ, says Amusing Journal, a cook, whose ways are invariably so methodical and her cooking so near perfection that, were she to leave her present home, one-half of the mistresses in the district would be eager to secure her services. Never by any chance has dinner been late at the Myrtle villa, or the joint under or over done, neither has any policeman crossed its threshold. But, treasure that she is, she came near to making a change of residence at the close of her very first month's stay.

On the morning of the day upon which her wages became due, her mistress requested her to step into the study, where her master was waiting to pay her. In a few moments she rushed from the study to the kitchen, where she had left her mistress, and in less time than it takes to narrate had given that astonished lady notice.

"But whatever is the matter, Mary?" inquired her mistress. "What has your master said or done to annoy you?"

"He hasn't said nuthin'," replied Mary, as she flourished a check in her mistress' face, "but he's on'y given me this for a month's slavery. Not me; I ain't no ortygraph collector, I ain't."

The Red Sea Miracle Often Seen in Link River.

It is a well-known fact that at certain times of the year Link river, a stream a mile and a quarter long, which connects the great water systems above and below this point, becomes almost dry, says the Klamath Falls Express. This state of affairs, however, lasts, as a rule, but a few hours, during which time people have been known to walk across the river, 300 feet wide, without getting their feet wet. The bottom of the river has been dug out in many places by the action of the water, forming large potholes, and when the river becomes dry these holes are filled with trout, which are left stranded. At such times it is a common occurrence to see men and boys knocking the fish on the head with clubs, and in this way secure many a good meal.

There are many traditions regarding this phenomenon among the Indians here, but the real cause of the low water in the river is the action of the wind. The course of the stream is southeast, and the high winds which prevail in the spring and fall are from the south, and blow up the river. The outlet from the upper lake being small, the force of the wind keeps the water back in the big lake, causing the river to become very low.

A FRENCH INCIDENT. Cyclist with a Broken Leg Wins a Race.

A fatal cycling accident happened recently at Maison Lafitte. Two young Englishmen, F. Morris, the steeplechase jockey, and F. Davis, first stableman in the employ of L. Robert, the trainer, had arranged a bicycle match of six kilometers from the Maison Lafitte railway bridge to the Croix de Noailles and back. They had almost completed the race when Morris, who was a little ahead, looked back to see how far Davis was behind, and in doing so he left his machine run against the curbstone. The unfortunate rider came to the ground and broke his leg below the knee. Morris, who was following close behind, could not avoid his fallen opponent and was thrown heavily to the ground, where he remained insensible.

Disregarding both his own broken leg and his friend lying motionless on the ground, Morris, in his anxiety to win the race, mounted his bicycle and soon reached the winning post, with one foot on the pedal, the other hanging useless on the opposite side. Davis was then carried home, but he died during the night.

NEARLY SMOTHERED BY VIOLETS. Miss Sadie Connolly Has a Narrow Escape in New York.

Miss Sadie Connolly, an actress, was half smothered by the sweet breath of violets the other night. She was able to be out of the bed the next day to receive in person the congratulations of friends, though still nervous and upset over her extraordinary experience.

When not on the road she has been at home in her snug flat at 1445 Second avenue, of which her sister Julia is housekeeper. The two sisters live entirely alone. Monday morning an expressman delivered at Miss Connolly's flat a huge box of violets shipped all the way from California in a bed of moist moss. There were nearly 3,000 separate flowers. The penetrating odor filled the flats. Miss Connolly's bedroom has no means of ventilation except a door opening into the front parlor and another communicating with her sister's bedroom.

The air being chilly the actress retired in the midst of her violets with the windows all closed. The next morning her sister found her unconscious. A physician who was promptly called brought her back to earth after having dumped the violets outdoors. These he said were partly responsible for her young woman's condition. As they were cut flowers and in the process of decay they had added greatly to the carbonic acid in the room.
