WATER SNAKE FIGHTS EEL. Terrific Combat Which Finally Ended in the Eel's Escape.

"Did you ever know that there is a deadly antipathy between a common 27 76 water snake and an eel?" asked the fisherman, according to the Indianapalis Sentinel. "Well, I never knew it until an experience I had in witnessing a fight between the two. Personally, I have the greatest dread of eels. I'm more afraid of them than I am of a snake, and you can imagine my chagrin when I happened to hook one on one of my fishing expeditions. I was afraid to touch it, and all I could do was to let it dangle in the air. I could not get it off my hook, and I was meditating what to do, when altogether unnoticed I allowed the slimy object to drop into the water. In a moment I saw a big water snake make a dive for it. At the first lunge it caught the neck of the eel squarely between his teeth, and f could see it sink its ugly-looking fangs into the eel's flesh. I waited anxious!y to see the developments. With its grim hold still on the eel's neck the snake, quick as it takes to tell it, wrapped its sinuous body around its antagonist's neck in an effort to squeeze it to death. The body of the eel was too sleek, however, and the snake's coils, despite all it could do, would slip down into the water. Time and time again it tried to squeeze the life out of its antagonist, never for an instant releasing its hold on the eel's neck, but the body of the latter was too sleek for it and every time it would slip down. Finally the hook roke and the eel m

"Vell he comes py my house all the time and he bodders me and bodders me. He never vorks, all he does is bodder me."

"What have you got to say about this, Hans?

A tall German lad with light blue eyes hung his head in shame, swung one foot backward and forward, pulled his cap nervously, and said in a low, timid voice:

"We was in lofe, you know, and she went back on me two or three times alrett:. When I haf vork she lofes me and when I haf no vork she lofes me not."

"Well, you had better transfer your affections somewhere else, ofr if you bother this woman again I will send you to the bridewell. Do you understand?" "Yes, chudge; I vill say to her right here: 'Good-py, Lena, you vill never

POINTS ON SNAILS.

Nothing Meteoric But Much That Is In-teresting in Their Career. The Smithsonian institution has hit something extraordinary in has been found injurious to the forest snails. The creatures may be slow, but they hold the record over all other animals for prolonged vitality under adverse conditions, says the Providence Journal. Stories of toads dug ont of rocks in which they had been imprisoned for ages are 'apocryphal; but recent discovery has established the credit of this humble mollusk as

No. 1 in the tenacity of life. Only the other day a specimen from an island off the coast of Lower California, inclosed in a drawer with part of the molluscan collection, was found to be alive. It had no food or water for more than six years. When placed in the box with meist earth it protruded its feet, began to move about, and seemed to be as well as ever. Some time ago a few snails of a different species, gathered in Mexico, reached the Smith-sonian institution and were pinced in a box. They re-mained undisturbed for two years and three months, at the end of which time they were put into a jar of glass with some chickweed and a smal quantity of tepid water. Pretty soon they waked up and appeared quite ac-Pond snails, which are sometimes honduras, powess equal endurance. Specimens carried from Egypt to Paris, packed in rawdust, have arrived uninjured. Other kinds have been experimented with by shutting them up in pill boxes and dry bags for years, but they have survived. The limit of their vitality is yet to be ascertained.

Land snails in cold climates bury hemselves in the ground or under ead leaves in winter; in tropical recions they become torpid during the hot season. When about to start in on a period of sleep they seal up their shells with a close-fitting door, which sometimes is a shield of thin, transnarent mnens, and in other cases an opaque membrance as thick as a visiting eard. Behind this the animal constructs other walls, which serve like o many partitions to protect it against prolonged cold or dryness.

It is believed that just as the seeds of plants are distributed by winds, so likewise the eggs of snails are scattered abroad on the breezes, thus disseminating their species. They are very prolific animals. Some of the great land snails of the tropies, which live on trees and weigh a pound aplece, lay eggs that look strikingly like those of pigeons, being quite as large. The eggs are deposited among decaying regetation, the heat of decomposition hatching them.

FARMING IN FO N LANDS

GERMANY has recently been importing largely of horses from Denmark. LIVE bees can now be forwarded through the post office all over the French territory.

An international show of stallions will be held in Vienna October 14-17 at. the instigation of the royal ministry of agriculture.

A special commission has been or dered by the French parliament, to study ways and means for improving the breeds of sheep.

THE mahogany tree thrives in Bangalore, India, where a plantation has been raised and will be maintained by the forestry department. THE importation of sheep from Denmark, owing to the spread of foot and mouth disease there, has been prohibited by the authorities at Hamburg. THE agricultural department at

Queensland is distributing large quantities of seed among the farmers who suffered from the very disastrous floods in that colony. * Ax agent of the New Zealand government claims that colonial butter after its arrival in England is shipped to Brittany and thence returned to London as Brittany butter.

FASHIONABLE FANCIES.

SLEEVES have reached their limit and the most approved models are less halloon-like than heretofore. A POPULAR combination is very fine

French cloth with sleeves, belt and shoulder-ruffles of shaded velvet. SHADED velvets are quite as popular for summer as they were during the winter. As millinery trimmings, when judiciously used, nothing can be more elegant and desirable.

New jackets have sleeves large enough to accommodate the enormous ouffiness of the dress shoulders, and while this, of course, accentuates the size of the arm, that fact seems to be no objection.

Parasols seem to have become mere ly forms on which to exhibit the most enormous quantities of lace and other thin materials. The amount of goods that may be put into one of the fashionable parasols of the day is almost past belief.

LACE and embroidery, embroidered lace especially, will be among the leading trimmings for the summer. There seems to be no limit to the ways in which these beautiful garnitures are used, as something new is brought out almost every day.

The only place a man has to go when he has finished work is to a saloon, and there he has nothing to do for recreation but drink. The door to the best society is shut in the face of Americans-'gringoes,' as they are called by the haughty dons-no matter what their standing. Of course, when one has official dignity he is invited to the president's ball and other official functions, and has entree into society, but there is no such thing as social intercourse in its American sense. Nobody is allowed to see a young lady unless it is in the presence of her entire family under the watchful eye of her duenna, and there isn't much pleasure in this kind of a visit to most young men of America. Guatemala City has population of 80,000, but has no theaters. There was an opera company of fair character there two years ago but there have been no attractions at all of this kind during the past season. Living is very high in Guatemala City, found alive in logs of mahogany from and salaries are by no means correspondingly high. I would not advise any young man to go there with the

The most remarkable instance of ongevity in the history of the Nutmeg state, perhaps, is noted in the Kimball family of the town of Preston, one member of it, Mrs. Abby S. Cook, who is passing the closing years of her life in the home of her daughter, Mrs. William H. Cook, of Franklin street, this city, having celebrated the other day the 90th anniversary of her birthday. Mrs. Cook is the widow of the late Isaac H. Cook of Preston. A large number of her relatives, friends and neighbors called at her home on her anniversary day and congratulated her and the venerable lady, who is still hale and active and of a cheerful spirit, ntertained them. Mrs. Cook is a member of a family t eight children, sons and daughters f Efisha and Lucy Lathrop Kimball, di of whom are alive and in vigorous ealth, with the exception of Mrs. Sybil A. Branch, the eldest, who died two years ago at Roxbury, Mass., aged 90 ears 41/2 months.

Here are the names and ages of the urviving members of the band: Abby Cook, 90 years old; Sarah Green own, 88; Sarah L. Brown, Chicago, 85; Velson L. Kimball, Iowa, 82; Frances De Wolf, Chicago, 80; Lucius T. Kim all, Iowa, 78, and Rev. Nathaniel Kimhall, Iowa, 76. The united ages of the brothers and sisters are 669 years, including that of Mrs. Branch.

THE FUNNEL TRICK.

An Interesting Problem Devised by Sport

Jerry Lynch has finally learned the funnel trick. He took it in two dosesone on one evening and the other the next. The senator sauntered up to the Bohemian club the other day and saw two or three of the younger members attempting a new feat, and he watched them with interest. One of them, says the San Francisco News Letter, stuck a funnel in the top of his trousers, threw his head back, placed a 50-cent piece on his forehead and tried to drop it in the funnel by slowly lowering his head. After all had failed Jerry insisted on trying it, though all had tried to dissuade him from attempting a feat too difficult for them. The funnel was placed in the waistband of his tronsers and he threw back his head to receive the coin on his expansive brow. At that juncture a pitcher of ice water was emptied into the funnel, and by the time Jerry got through dancing the The senator's jokers had vanished. temper improved with dry raiment and the next night at the club he started in to show a couple of friends the funnel trick.

"It's this way," he explained. "you put the funnel in the top of your pantaloons, so, then throw your head back, so, and—wow!"

Again Jerry was forced to change his raiment, and he is not showing people what he knows about the funnel trick.

There is now living in Hartland, Me., at the ripe old age of 75 years, one of Maine's notable widows. This is Mrs. Ellen Phillips, relict of George, a brother of Wendell Phillips. Her husband was a graduate from Harvard college, a member of the famous class of '28, among his classmates and intimate friends being Dr. O. W. Holmes and James Freeman Clark. Mrs. Phillips has in her house several antique relics of great interest and historical value, among them beng a marble top table and drawer which belonged to John Brown, of Harper's Ferry fame, and a copper ewer and sideboard, once the property of John Phillips, the first mayor of the city of Boston. She tells many an interesting reminiscence of
