SILVER MAY RISE.

A Possible But Not Probable Effect of the Clondyke Discoveries.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Quite a number of statements were asked what will be the effect of the Alaskan discoveries on the silver question. Most of them were inclined to the belief that the possible production of the new gold country had been greatly exaggerated for the benefit of the transportation companies and the local supply companies. Senator Allison, when asked about the situation, said:

"If the product of gold in Alaska is really enormous it would of course tend to approximate the value of gold and silver, but the output would have to be unprecedented to have much effect, for our output of gold is very large, you must remember."

Another authority said without hesitation there could be possibly no effect on the monetary situation unless the discoveries of gold were so stupendous as to take gold out of the list of precious metals.

Insured Invalids, Then Killed Them.

NEW YORK, July 19.—The Journal and Advertiser says:

W. D. Robinson, of Meridian, Miss., has been in the city several days in consultation with officials of some of the principal life insurance companies. His object is to bring to light the facts in a conspiracy to defraud insurance companies by insuring invalids, and when disease failed, to hasten the death of the victims by means of poison. The scene of the conspiracy is said to be laid in Kemper county, Miss. Mr. Robinson estimated the operation of the conspirators, given after conference with the New York Mutual Reserve, the New York Life, the Equitable and the Mutual Benefit, as follows:

Policies in which the members appeared as beneficiaries, 100; number who died by disease, 30; number who died by poison, 12; number whose lives were attempted, 15; canceled, 60; amount cleared and divided by the plotters, $75,000; still to be paid and divided, $15,000.

In this connection the Journal and Advertiser reviews the operations of Dr. W. H. Lipscombe, of Scooba, Miss., now under sentence of death for the murder of S. C. Stewart; Guy Jack, a Mississippi merchant, indicted for murder by the grand jury and out on bail, and other Mississippi men. The Journal and Advertiser claims the ramifications of the conspiracy in the South to be practically endless.

A Demand by Russia.

BERLIN, July 19.—According to a special dispatch received here, Emperor Nicholas has telegraphed to the sultan demanding the immediate evacuation of Thessaly, and threatening that otherwise Russian troops will cross the Turkish frontier. It is said here semi-officially today that all the powers except Great Britain have consented to this course.

The ambassadors have informed the Porte that they wish a written declaration as to the intentions of the Turkish government, which have hitherto been communicated orally by Tewfik Pasha. The ambassadors have stated if this is not forthcoming they will suspend the peace negotiations and refer the whole matter to their respective governments with a view of adopting coercive measures.

GAME-KILLING FOXES.

Their Destructiveness Shown by the Contents of a Burrow.

Arthur S. Burr, of Old Haddam, when going across lots recently discovered the carcass of a woodchuck partly eaten, and a little further along a ruffed grouse. Thinking it was the work of a fox, he made search and found the burrow, with a large black hen and two more partridges at its mouth. Suspecting there were young partridges in the row, he made up his mind to return and dig them out, as the town of Haddam pays a bounty of two dollars a head.

It was five days before he had a chance to do this, and when he dug out the burrow with the assistance of Sperm Fowler he found that the wily mother fox had removed. They were determined to have that bounty, and incidentally the foxes, and after a long search they found a new burrow, picking up two more partridges on the way. On digging out this new hole they took out eight partridges, three rabbits and a very large woodchuck, with five young foxes in the end. The partridges were partly eaten, but the woodchuck was completely cleaned out, nothing but the skin being left.

Sportsmen have long claimed that foxes were more destructive to game than all the hunters, and have noted a great increase of foxes in towns that have not paid a bounty for the last few years. The only incentive the farmers' boys have for killing the fox is the bounty money. Eight partridges in a burrow but four days old show the great destructiveness of foxes.

VENEER PRODUCTION.

Some Woods Can Be Sawed as Thin as Writing Paper.

While the finer and thinner veneers of costly woods are sliced tangentially from the side of the log, there are woods that cannot be cut this way—no amount of boiling or steaming rendering it possible to cut them without breaking down the tissues to such an extent as to destroy their surfaces for polishing—while others, says Hardwood, becoming discolored from steaming or boiling, and being too hard to cut otherwise, have to be sawed. The fine-toothed, thin-gauge circular, with flanged center, is the favorite for cutting all ordinary veneers thicker than 30 to the inch; 20 to the inch is the thickness most commonly used for cabinet work and finishing, but much thinner is used in the case of rare and costly woods, or rare abnormal or accidental figures, as in the case of burlis. Some woods have to be cut much thicker, being unable to bear handling when too thin; genuine ebony, the only fine really jet-black wood known, and large enough to be of any use, will not stand sawing much below one-fourth of an inch in thickness, owing to the extreme brittleness or want of cohesion, but there are other woods that can be cut as thin as writing paper and still be handled in large sheets. Other woods there are that will lose their fine color on exposure to the atmosphere, especially a smoky one; these are cut only when immediately wanted, and are kept covered until the finishers can put on a protective coat of some preparation.

ANIMAL WARFARE.

Monkeys of Africa Depend Upon Their Numbers and Discipline.

The conditions of the life of the monkey in Africa are sufficiently curious without reference to their acquired habits, though these are undoubtedly due to the dangers to which they live exposed. The different species of baboons, which are found commonly over the whole African continent, are all by nature dwellers in the open country. They find their food on the ground, and whether this be insects or vegetables, it is usually in places which afford little shelter or protection. Though strong and well armed with teeth, they are slow animals, with little of the monkey agility when on the ground, and not particularly active even when climbing among rocks. In a rocky "kopjes" of the south, says the Spectator, of the cliffs and river sides of Abyssinia and the Nile tributaries, they are safe enough. But they often abandon these entirely to invade the low country. During the Abyssinian expedition conducted by Lord Napier of Magdala they regularly camped near our encampments on the coast and stole the grain on which the cavalry horses and transport animals were fed. When on expeditions of this kind they often leave their strongholds for days together, and the means of joint defense from enemies in the open country are then carefully organized. Their natural enemies when thus exposed are the leopard, the lion, and the southern Africa and Cape wild dogs. To the attack of the leopard they oppose numbers and discipline.

What use is there in eating when food does you no good—in fact, when it does you more harm than good, for such is the case if it is not digested?

If you have a loathing for food there is no use of forcing it down, for it will not be digested. You must restore the digestive organs to their natural strength and cause the food to be digested, when an appetite will come, and with it a relief from food.

The tired, languid feeling will give place to vigor and energy; then you will put flesh on your bones and become strong. The Shaker Digestive Cordial as made by the Mount Lebanon Shakers contains food already digested and is a digester of foods as well. Its action is prompt and its effects permanent.
